

I am on the bus with my students and ask a question to one of them but then start talking with another. I then go back to the first one and she tells me about her theatre lessons late at night. We reach the theatre and they all start performing without shirt. She has a male chest.

A hair dresser has a high interest to pay and thinks of renting a room to a student. I walk by some shops and find a owner who is looking for a partner. I think to propose the hairdresser but then realize that she would need her own capitol and a new loan.

I seat at the desk of a teacher and she congratulates with me for my work. I write down all her compliments and post them on my desk. A student gets in and I remove them afraid that he might get jealous.

I am in a large student dormitory getting to sleep with all the other students. I ask one of them about the rules. He tells me that they normally go to bed no later than four in the morning. I get really concern and don't know how I will fell asleep.

We drive by a small lake and get in a fast-food with an American couple. They graduated from my high school and I ask them if they remember me. He remembers about my dirty jokes. I then get to seat close to her. They tell me that she was only twelve when they got their first child.

I walk past some gallerists that are now being waiters out on a street. I then get in a building and find a young artist who has tried to build a skyscraper on top of it. They only allowed him to build the metal scaffolding of the first floor and he will soon have to remove them.

A student is showing a root of a plant. She wants to make a large reproduction of it on the river. It is time to present my work and I tell everyone to get in my car. I will take them to the secret place where I plan to construct my piece. The car gets full and we lay the root in the back.

My son and I get in a shop and I ask to see a small white computer. The screen is vertical and it has an opaque light. I already have a small computer but decide to buy this one anyway. They don't accept credit cards and I go out to look for an ATM.

A friend and I get on a train and show the controller two gold sponges that he makes wet for us. We then seat in the back behind a group of English men. I start singing a song against them. One of them looks at me but I am not afraid.

I am walking down a hill talking with my mother on the phone. We are arranging to go out and eat together. They are waiting for me below. I plan to get in their car and solve all our arguments.

At a party a family friend comes dressed like Santa Claus. I go out and see that my Russian friend is approaching with another old friend. I greet the latter and wonder what brought him. He asks me for some cash to take the bus home.

I walk up the stairs with my American Professor who shows me the newspaper that got him so inspired. I would like to show him my drawings but we soon get into a large building with the other students. Here he tells us of two new ingredients for the skin. I write them down.

A girl is driving our car on a dirty road going through a big forest of the north. Meanwhile I count the kilometres to see if I can make it walking but there are no villages where to station. She starts going really fast and finally reach the sign to a small community.

I get to a student's final presentation. My advisor is one seat away from me and we shake hands. He apologises for the last class we had together and I tell him that they are the students who should work harder. The presentation begins and a student show a bad remake of a cartoon.

We are walking in an old city when a boat comes passing really fast through the canal. I don't find it dangerous and cross over it. We keep walking and think that I should ask for a job there. My sister walks in front of me talking on the phone with a local doctor who is an old family friend.

I am walking in a suburb and turn inside a kindergarten. There are pine trees all around it making a very aromatic smell. I think to have my kid there but then realize that I would have to drive him everyday back and forth.

I get in a kitchen that a man with a dark beard is recording his thoughts. He asks me where I am from and I tell him that my mother is German but my father looks like an Afghani. I also show him that I also record my thoughts. He is from Afghanistan and talks of his long bus trip there.

A black man has to share a small mattress with his wife. They always get cold and decide to buy a bigger mattress. He also wants a small table where to have the pieces left of the cigars he smoked in his life. The different smells takes him to the different times when he smoked them.

I get in class that a student has a new patch to play music on my laptop. As I try to install it with a memory stick two students congratulate for my work. I want to give them the pictures of my exhibitions but as I try to open the folder the e-mail starts. I try to right click but it doesn't work.

I am walking by an abandoned cottage in the mountains. Behind it there is a square house made of large black glasses. I really like it but there is a black man already living inside. I walk down and get in another cottage. There is only one room with a large double bed taking most of the space.

I am partying with some guys. One of them wants to explode a firework and asks me to go out with him. I don't want to but he has already turned it on. I then lock myself in the bathroom and put a towel under the door. It follows a big explosion.

I lay between my cousin and an old classmate of mine who is really cute. We suddenly hold each other's hand and she caresses mine. I feel in love and want to kiss her but we soon get back to our position thinking about our kids.

My son and I are out of a movie theatre. I try to look for a film in the next hour but they are all late in the evening. One has just started and we rush in to watch it. I only have one ticket but there guard has already left.

I am in the basement of a restaurant owned by an old Greek man. He seats close to me talking of young people being so stoic. Meanwhile a guy comes in to kill an old gangster but the latter points a gun at him and shoots all around. The guy makes a dance while everyone gets killed.

My students have camped on a side of the forest. One student and I still haven't camped and go around looking for a good place. There are animal footprints and we are afraid to get run over by a moose.

I am running in the city with an English student but as I get to know that she is going to a candy shop I let her go. I find myself in front of a church. There is a funeral and I look inside. The old man is the doctor who has recently visited me.

My uncle is out of our old apartment fixing the car. As I get in he tells me how stupid his sister-in-law's husband is. Upstairs my grandfather is carrying a tray with slices of seasoned cheese. I try to remove all the peals in one cut but leave allot of cheese on most of them.

My girlfriend and I are walking in a park and I blow my nose on the ground. I then tell her to look at the mucus I made. It is very thin but she finds another one that is as big as a snail. I assure her that it is not mine but then remember that it is the one I did before.

I want to take my girlfriend and son to the beach on the other side of a small island. We get to an intersection and I decide to take the longest way around it but then find a way over it. It is a staircase going zigzag on top of a small Spanish mountain.

I am watching TV and find a channel where one of my twin cousin is giving a presentation of his thesis. He is very eloquent and gives allot of statistics that appears on the screen. He then asks his professor to intervene but they start to argue about the grade he got for his class.

The American soldiers invades an island of black refugees. They have been living wild along a river with very thick vegetation. Some floating tanks are sent in to bring civilization.

I am walking in the city thinking of the public commission that I just got. A gallerist I know is standing petrified in the middle of the road. As I turn on a small bridge I meet my old director. He is sliding on the frozen street. I want to take the train with him and ask him when he is leaving.

I am filling up my curriculum with a list of solo exhibitions. It is very short but then I remember of another one I had in a small gallery. The tile of the exhibition and the year are the same. I also remember of another one I just recently had but that is with another artist.

I would like to join a group doing expeditions but I come one day too late. My best friend is also there and offers to share his room. We get in and he wants to get pregnant. I am ready to fuck him but his girlfriend comes. I pretend to work on the computer. As she leaves he wants to fuck me.

I am going to school and meet an old friend on the way to my office. I thank her for the invitation she sent me and she asks me why we did not come. I explain her that we were actually abroad.

I am tanning with some friends and talk to a street seller who tells me of a cool disco that was once there. I then go to my studio that I share with another girl but I never use. I start to decorate the window with paper cutups. I feel it all up and wonder what she will think.

I am reading an ancient tragedy to give to my students to perform. I then give it to an artist friend who seats in the bathroom. I wait in her living room looking at the beautiful sunset over a hill with a small cherry tree. She comes and I tell her how lucky she is but then remember of the winter.

I am in my parents-in-law's kitchen about to have lunch with all their relatives. My father-in-law wonders if I have enough credits to call my parents. I don't want to call them and start swiping all my son's toys on the floor.

I have to take both my son and the neighbours' small daughter to kindergarten. I don't know where her kindergarten is and call my girlfriend wondering if I have to leave her with our son. She replies that any kindergarten will do.

I am talking to an old man with a white beard and find a black inflatable on the table. I start cutting with a knife and find it filled with a green gel. I then pick a piece with the fork and start eating.

My grandfather is driving me to his place at night. We arrive that it starts to get morning. He parks the car outside and waits for his neighbour to get in his garage. He is afraid that he might drive over him. I am not and take his old bike in his garage.

I get in my parents' old place and find my small sister in the living room holding a baby. She is my new sister and I also get to hold her. She is really pretty but then I think that she is just my step sister and I go up to the kitchen where I drink the thick juice left in the glasses on the table.

We are on the deck of a large boat and arrive in the harbour of an old town. My girlfriend gets off and I ask her to help me with our bikes. I then lift mine and pass it down to her. It is my first bike that got stolen.

Two other students and I get in the basement of the school and start braking all the sensors attached to the walls of the long corridor. Suddenly we hear the guard arrives. One of the students tries to make it upstairs. I look for a place where to hide but there is none.

I am out of the station playing a game with other people. We have to declare our wishes. As it gets my turn I declare that I wish free love. We then walk around to match with a partner but I don't find it. As I am about to leave two foreign students tells me to have dinner with them.

A swimming competition is announced and I prepare myself on the side of the pool. I dive a bit later than the others but manage to win. At he second round there is only two of us left. We have to swim on our backs carrying our child on the belly. I win again.

I take a researcher up on my mountains. It is very cloudy and the wind is cold. We lay on the short grass and I show her the rusted roofs of the houses. We then try to get in the ski resort but the passes I got from my mother don't work.

I am in the apartment of an old man who is showing me the vegetables he grows. He has pieces of a big root on the side and tells me that they can also be regrown. He uses different sauces to nourish them and his colleagues think that they come from the tropics.

I meet my neighbour out on a staircase. As we walk home together he tells me of his economical problems. He has a double apartment and has to pay a double rent. As we get home my girlfriend tells me that we can also have a double apartment and rent of it to a student.

I am going on a train and pick the stones on the railway. On the way in my colleague tells me how her dog is like her child. She seats with another fat colleague and I find a seat in front. I then take out the stones and arrange them alternating light colours with dark colours.

My girlfriend and I are travelling up North and pass through a German city of the South. It was completely destroyed during the war and has been reconstructed as it was. We drive through the old buildings and reach the main square. There is a large stage followed by the modern train station.

I am walking and thinking how to program my homepage. As I come up with a solution I reach the studio that I am sharing with my mother's old hairdresser. I want to get immediately to work but she gives me two tapes of old disco music to listen to.

I am seating close to my student but he eats his soup without talking to me. I keep eating my carrot and wonder. He finally tells me that he is upset because I haven't answered him. I explain him that I was abroad and he could have left a message.

I have a top view of my parents' old neighbourhood. There were four identical villas but ours has been removed. The ones on the sides are still existing while the third one has been reconstructed exactly as it was.

I am in a store asking about a bike. The shop assistant shows me a more expensive bike activated by a band. It also has an engine and he goes to check how it is powered. I watch a video of him biking in my home town and give him the right credit card. I then show the bike to my friends.

An artist leaves on a boat across the ocean. At night she gets below to photograph the surface of the water. A Japanese guy has a better camera and takes the picture for her. They zoom in and find a blue square. The water bacteria are visible all around it.

I am seating in a pub with a group of gangsters. We are badly dressed while there is another group that is very sleeked. I recognize my best friend among them. We decide to go for walk in a mountain and he programs his phone in a rotten kiwi to make it very short.

A wooden construction connects two peaks of a high mountain. There is a young scientist working on it. I take courage and walk on top. She invites me to stay and observe. It is very steep below but I am not afraid.

I am out talking to a woman who is going to the dentist. I want to ask her where is it but she tells me that they have removed part of her brain and now her feelings get stored in the cortex but don't get expressed. I just have a cavity to fix.

My friends are cooking and I go out to prune an apple tree even though there are leaves already. I use the small scissor of a Swiss knife and a friend do the same. I then gather sand in a corner where to throw wastes. My sister has cooking oil to throw and I insist that she throws it there.

My mother just went down to the hairdresser and we are now walking up to the mountains again. The road is very steep and with snow. She will have to go to the hairdresser again. We finally reach the top and walk along the mountain ridge.

I am skiing down the slope in full speed and warn those that go too slow. I finally reach the bottom thinking to be the fastest ever. There are three girls in the line and I get to ride the lift with one of them. I try to explain her how there used to be an old man helping me to get off when I was little.

I walk by a gigantic crocodile and pass forward. There is a gigantic viper and the owner tells me not to be afraid. It is my sister who is home at my parents-in-law. My father also comes home and we all go in the bedroom to hug.

A black gang brakes in a party and place a machinery in the kitchen to jam the mobile phones. They then run away with some hostages. A couple gets to go in the sport car of the boss. The latter drives very fast and brakes into the bar of the highway toll.

Two cops are sent on their motorcycles to shoot a thief going through a tunnel. It is actually just a group of kids but the workers at the entrance can't tell them. The audio system has been shut down because of the recession.

A film is shown but the assistant starts closing down the place leaving the few viewers outside. She seats to watch the rest of the film by herself but they can still see through the fence. She then stands to tell them how much she is enjoying this work after she has been an academic.

I am talking on the phone to a student who tells me that he doesn't want to show the installation I helped him with. He has problems with the technology but I try to assure him that they can be fixed. As I try do so there is a beep of another call waiting to be answered.

Two students and I are late for class and the teacher is angry. The representatives of a car industry are presenting a chocolate package. It has been expanded with a cookie filled with butter cream. I try to understand but one of them is behind me listening to high music.

My girlfriend and I have an examination with my supervisor. I describe her project saying that security cameras have been following her movements. I then describe my projects saying how public spaces changes in the seven countries we have been to. He gives us a course evaluation to fill in.

I look for a gun to play a video-game and find a cheap one. I start shooting at a projection and figure how to kill. There is a group of bandits to be shot. I kill one after the other but also shoot the fat king who was kept among them in hostage.

The mermaid is under water and I try to submerge with her. She makes signs to remove my glass helmet. I do so and we see us. We hug and kiss but my girlfriend gets jealous. I leave with her and drop our towels. We get in the elevator and I clap her. She is actually fine and smiles.

My apartment ends in a round room facing a wild river. I start thinking of my students and walk around it. The floor is actually turning against me and keeps me in the same point.

The cavity of my back teeth has broken. I look myself in the mirror and find a small vein of blood going through it. I also notice that the gum has small wrinkles. Also all the other gums have the same problem.

My girlfriend finds out that there is a dirty boat going directly where we are supposed to. We don't even have to pay any transportation to get there as we can walk along the bay. Once we arrive there are no fences and we can get in without being controlled.

I walk out of the pizzeria where I just had lunch with my parents-in-law. I see the sign on the glass window and find other smaller signs in the corner below. They belong to other companies in the building. As I walk around the corner I feel that the pizza wasn't that heavy.

We are expecting my cousin and his family to come over and I cut some pieces of cheese. I then place them on a plate and look for a way to mark them. The original packages have labels but I only find some elastic bands to put around them right before they arrive.

At dinner my uncle suggests that my sister and I open up a video editing studio. He really liked our work and shows us other related works. They are black and white projections of different autographs.

At my opening in the art museum an girl gives a small speech and introduce my performance with a face mirror standing on a tripod. Some of the public starts going around while the rest surrounds me. I pretend to be blind and look for the mirror but touch their faces as they were mine.

I am seating on the floor of my son's bedroom and call a friend. She apologizes that her husband hasn't contacted us but they have a small child and she was just breast feeding her. I then realize that it is still very early in the morning and everyone else is sleeping.

I am seating at my father-in-law's desk and look in my girlfriend's bag. I take my big heavy laptop out but it falls down. She comes and starts working on her slim small laptop. I thought she liked it but she needs to use a heavy hard disk to operate it.

A soldier is crouched in the trench afraid of the war. The captain walks above it to check that every soldier is seated with his rifle sticking up. The soldier finds the courage to seat up and when they are attacked he turns to shoot at the enemies fasten in the barbed wire.

I am waiting for my father on top of a road down town. As soon as I see him calling me on his mobile from the main road I run down in front of him and get in a shop. I then go out and a friend calls me to tell me that he will be late for dinner. I go to the restaurant anyway.

My cousin and I are in front of a famous artist's exhibition. He doesn't want to come in and as I get in alone people starts coming to see my exhibition. It was arranged by my twin sister with our grandfather's furnitures. People leave disappointed and I go out to beat a twin talking bad about it.

I show my drawings to my American director but they have been photocopied and they just show naked bodies twisted with one another. He gets interested by a video showing sequences of famous films. There is a handsome cowboy actor smiling and then another riding in a horse race.

I see a traveller pushing a trolley with extended legs. I want to get the same and walk in a big store. I only find my old one and realize that it is getting too late to check in. I then walk behind the shelf where my clothes are hanged and throw them inside.

I am on an air plane arriving to a big Chinese city. I cross the hostess who wants to arrange a taxi and asks me where I will stay but I don't really know. She then asks me if I want some moisturising lotion and I agree. She has it on her hands and puts it directly on my face.

I am looking at an old map that shows the main roads of a city. Each road takes to a different castle. I can see the tower of the biggest one at the end of the long hill. I also look at the smaller one on top of the hill and find it much bigger.

The police drives me up the mountains to meet my girlfriend. She is in a small chapel with my son who has put limestone powder on her. They bath with the other believers in the holly water spread on the floor. The water gets dirty and they get out. The police gives us a ride back.

I read in the newspaper that the level of pollution above the channels of an ancient city has increased. There are actually no cars and I am most surprised to hear about it. I then read that it is because of the many water taxies.

I get on a side road and find myself on the stairs down to a craftsman's shop. A gangster is also on his way and I lead. The shop is actually the apartment of the craftsman. The gangster is angry and throws a wooden apple down. He then hides below the bed to attack him.

An art student and I are in love. She gives me a red fabric with some filling to make a pillow. Another student borrows her knife from me and she gets a bit upset. I then make her happy by using her swim suit bra as the filling. I proceed to remove the cardboard that makes it too rigid.

While a big crowd is photographing two female found dead on their motorcycles in the river I continue to the church. At the entrance a man is preaching on the megaphone against it. Inside there are many tables arranged for a feast. We are so few that we gather together on a single table.

I find that my colleague has sent me an e-mail that I still haven't read. She asks me to give a grade to a student. She gave two very low scores and one that is very high. I want to give him a decent score but I get confused about the scale.

Out in a theme park a guide is trying to show us the pollution caused by an air plane. We look up and see a faraway plane. He then makes us look up again but we only see another plane landing without any emission. Behind the clouds it comes another plane emitting grey smoke.

I get in a meeting with a professor inside the director's office. I find the right switch to turn on the light above us and the other student starts telling of an old classmate who is at the hospital. She is attached to a machine that keeps her heart at the minimum beat rate.

I want to wash my hands and go with my son by a small lake where we get our drinking water. I wash them first and then let him do it but he keeps it there playing. Suddenly a snake with the tail underwater comes swimming towards him. It is already biting a large mass of vegetation.

A colleague is naked in bed. Her enormous tits are down on a foreign colleague. They are having sex and I then understand why they were so friendly with each other.

I lead a group of young people to an institute hidden on a mountain. We get in but realize that there are still people missing. They are all the girls but one of them arrives. She didn't see the institute and kept going straight downhill.

I am in a room with childish drawings printed on the wallpaper. A group of foreign students is having dinner and I mention that I have been studying in the Netherlands. Another girl was studying in the same school. We are actually from the same country.

I am in a big slide trying to walk to the top of it. I manage and find that we are on top of a very high valley. My son is following behind and wants to climb to the top. I am afraid an help him up holding him tight.

We get to an amusement park right before it closes. A black lady tells us that the ticket office is already close. I walk anyway behind it and find a black man at the gates. He tells us that since we already booked the tickets we can still go in.

I am on a bus that passes in front of the station. I then remember that my bag is still in the locker there and push the button to get off but the next stop is far. I can't even find my hand luggage and panic. I get off and actually have it with me. I seat out at a café to chill out.