

I am in a square in the Swedish capital. My director is there and an important Canadian theorist is ready to give a lecture but I am the only one from my department. As I am telling him about my father in Canada other researchers come and we end up in a hall where the theorist starts playing.

I am on a small platform building a shelter but there are a lot of waves and I move on the main platform. There is actually a Japanese temple there and I notice that the roof is falling apart. I then go upstairs noticing how solid it is but see that my son is on top kicking tiles down and I slap him.

I am on a beach and wake up next to my girlfriend. I then go up a dune but realize that she is laying in the sun and I wake her. We then leave together with a little girl and pass by a restaurant selling different salami. I try to talk Dutch to the girl but she replies in Italian offending an old man.

I am with my son visiting an old colleague. He has a party and I start talking to him about my new computer but then a game starts and I have to get ready to get a question from his friends. We end up in a boat and see them picking small pieces of glass from the ceiling but I cannot find any.

I am walking alone in a field thinking that I just ran away from work and that is getting quite late. I actually hit the bottom of a mountain that is completely covered in snow. I only have sneakers on but I decide to go up anyway even though it is a high mountain and the snow is very deep.

I am walking with my son in an ancient city. As we are about to cross a small bridge he gets in the water and I tell him to be careful. He then goes to the opposite side and again ends up in the water but this time is deep and we have to cross on some floating containers using a stick to keep up.

I am in a car with my girlfriend's relatives. We are actually driving to her brother down south and I ask them how long is left. I actually see the sun setting between some small mountains and realize that it shouldn't be much but they tell me that there is still a lot of driving we have to do ahead.

I am my Polish friend's place and I start looking for him. I then go down to the cellar and open up different rooms to find him. In a little one there is a crater with tomatoes and I see a rat hiding. As I walk out I realize that he is showering and go to look at the boiler that must get frozen outside.

I am in a living room and get a phone call. It is a secretary from the university who talks really low and I cannot understand what she is saying. I then guess that she is looking for someone to teach computer classes and I tell her about all my competences. She anyway chooses someone else.

I am watching an email that I got from my Polish friend and notice a picture that an old classmate has taken of me and my son. I then press to like it and realize that my son is out on a sidewalk. He is very cute with a hat and I reach him to bring him home. It is actually time for us to leave.

I am walking with a group of important artists and tell them of the computer game I built. They are all quite skeptical and I seat down to film the environment ahead of us. It is actually a cafeteria and they go get some food while I go pee even though I have no shoes and the bathroom is dirty.

I am in a sport shop with my girlfriend. I am actually looking for a bag and a shop assistant shows me how to put an elastic band through a bike bag and then put it on the shoulders. I also try it but it is not comfortable and I start looking for the price but find other stuff from the same brand.

I am at my university and see that my old supervisor is outside his office. He is without any fat under his chin and I greet him running to the bathroom. As I wonder if he got an operation I realize that there is a bed inside. I then go out again and find a tray of nice cookies but they are too soft.

I am walking on a country road with my son and my girlfriend. The latter is tired and I see a shortcut cutting down a field. We walk down together but then it starts to get really steep up and we have to climb. It then gets steep down again and my son starts sliding with my girlfriend behind.

I am in the kitchen of my apartment and see on my computer a message from my old spiritual friend. I call him but I have no microphone and have to fetch one. I then start talking to him but he is watching a football game and does not really hear me. I start feeling bored and wish to hang up.

I am in an apartment and realize that my dead grandfather lives there. I then walk to the living room and he gives me an invitation for me and my cousins to come back to his apartment for a dinner. He is actually moving and a man is helping him to remove the expensive cloth on his armchair.

I am in a little swimming pool and notice that my son is there with a friend. I then approach him and realize that the water is much deeper but he can still touch. I can barely touch there myself and I find that he has grown very tall but I cannot believe it since we only met some weeks before.

I am out in a garden trying to solve a mathematical problem. It is actually quite difficult and the teacher comes to see how I am doing. I have the solution in my head but I cannot write it down. My girlfriend comes to also fetch me and she tries to tell me the solution while we walk away together.

I am in a dark corridor and find a panel with some old pictures of a beautiful rock in the Sardinian sea. I then remember when I was swimming there and realize that I will go there again with my sister. We are actually leaving already and I warn her that we should be careful about rented cars.

I am in a room with my colleagues waiting for my supervisor and her husband. The latter comes saying that she is stuck in the metro but she follows right after and starts a presentation. It is about us students and she wants that we become more open showing us the sellers of a fruit market.

I am in a cabin with an old classmate. She is already in bed and I join but a door is open and I see an old man walking outside. He actually found a garbage bag I left under a lavatory and I accept to pay the fine. We then go back to bed and I pretend to sleep but see that she wants to make love.

I am in a metro and make myself comfortable to work with my computer but an announcement says that they are changing direction. I then get ready to go out but miss the connection to the train going my direction. I walk down a staircase with all my stuff but realize it is better to go back.

I am with my mother in a city in East Africa. We are looking for a cheap hostel to stay and go ahead but they all look too far from the center. I look on my phone and realize that we are next to the beach. My mother then reaches me with my son and I explain him that there is no winter there.

I am in my grandmother's family mansion but there is a big barking dog coming my way and I run under the porch. My old cousin is right around it and we hug each other although he has changed. He then walks with me back to the entrance and shows me a very big pig as large as a cow.

I am watching a program on TV where they are discussing about the national football team. The presenters use a few cards to show how all the chances were set for the team to win. One card shows all the combinations in different colors but the team lost the final game and did not qualify.

I am at a station and get on a night train even though I don't have a ticket. I then walk inside to look for a ticket office and find one but they want to sell me a ticket for children movies. I don't like it and start walking away but a gypsy touches me with his belly and I report him to the controller.

I am biking in the countryside and see a very large and empty villa. I then start walking on the alley and get inside but realize that it is some kind of a church. The walls are made of golden mosaics with jade marble underneath and I get really moved starting to cry although it is quite modern.

I am with my girlfriend in my parents' bedroom. We are actually leaving and I pick some books with me. I then go downstairs carrying some grapes gone rotten but realize that the kitchen is gone and we are in a family friend's house. I then ask my girlfriend if it is okay that I took the books.

I am in my small apartment having a party with my friends when I receive a message from my sister. She tells me that they are coming to visit us and I tell my friends to clean up. She actually arrives and immediately check if I have prepared a bed for them but there is one in the guest room.

I am at a conference seating in the audience when a person next to me tells me that it is almost my time to present. I then ask her how much time do I have and go on the stage to give my memory card to the presenter. He cannot find my presentation and I improvise but make it way too short.

I am in the big main square of an old city. The sun is setting and I find a marble pedestal where to seat. It is very beautiful and I ask a Chinese tourist to take a picture of me with my camera but she tells me to move backward and starts taking a lot of pictures until the memory gets all full.

I am sleeping in a small room of a big hotel and suddenly wake up realizing that I have a flight to catch in one hour. I should have driven there by myself but my parents decided that my girlfriend has to also follow and look after my suitcase. I then go to her room and find her skin very soft.

I am in the bar of a big hotel with my best friend. A girl named after a Korean car actually comes up to him all dressed up and we start going downstairs to a party. My friend is also dressed up but I realize that he is wearing no pants and I pick a pair of keys dropped from his underwear.

I am driving a car with some old friends and stop at a party. It is given by an old girlfriend and she starts hugging me although she is married and my girlfriend is with me. The latter disappears and I go look for her but end up in a computer lab where a friend helps me making a tear on a face.

I am walking in the countryside at night and reach an empty village with a station. I then go in to buy a ticket but the seller tells me that there are no more trains coming. I actually just lost it and I start walking outside reaching an old villa where locals are dancing waltzer. I walk through them.

I am in a big fashion store and see my uncle with his twin sons. One of them quickly says hi to me and then follows his dad who starts giving him sweaters. I then realize that he lost money at the clothes market and my uncle is giving him presents while walking together in a back office.

I am at a post office and realize that there are the elections. I don't want to vote but a woman starts yelling at me that I should. I then yell back to her to shut up and go out to pick an interview with a dead actor. It is in a bag with trash and I give it to the lady to send as my political statement.

I am with a friend at a sea side and realize that we are actually in Brazil where is from. I then think of writing my girlfriend and inform her but we need a train ticket and I leave him at the station to buy one to go inland but then walk in the center and some girls tell me to go in another city.

I am in the back of a van talking to a girl while working with my laptop. We are actually lovers but two old classmates come in and recognize me. One is actually just back from Australia and I realize that I was there with her. She is not upset to see me with another girl and we start talking.

I am in a sport shop and see a young Italian guy trying out some shoes with his mother. They are all red but one of them is a sneaker and the other is an elegant shoe. I like the first one and go upstairs to look for them but the guy goes ahead of me and we only find old fashion sunglasses.

I am on a street talking to an old friend about his rich father who tried to learn English. He failed because of a silly mistake and was told to get English lessons from an elder woman. He then went to her house showing all the tattoos in his arms and placing fortune telling cards on her porch.

I am in a building of a station and see that my son is also there. He is smaller and I talk to him getting really impressed that he can answer me in Italian. As I test him to see how many words he can speak we move in and get a soda from an old classmate who has just arrived with the train.

I am in a village with some friends. There are very little inhabited houses and we come next to a block in the main square. I realize that my old American girlfriend lives there and I see her coming downstairs to say hi to my friends. She actually sees me but she is not angry and we start talking.

I am in my bedroom when some noises on the staircase wake me up in the middle of the night. I then lock my door and go out to see. It is actually snowing and when I come back I find my Greek gay friend inside. I then wonder how he got in but he is relaxed and walks out again to a friend.

I am on a car with my ex wife going to a coast where I want to buy a new house. I then realize that she is a taxi driver and that there are two other people in the backseat. They are both going to the same hotel but one of them is an older man looking richer than the other who is a young junkie.

I am in my parents' old place that is dark. I am actually in my little room seating at my desk and see my biological father downstairs. He is standing by a closet all naked and I call him an idiot. He has a good laugh and then we walk together down to the kitchen where he talks about my cousin.

I am walking on a street and see a man in a courtyard trying to fetch a deer. I then go in to help him but the deer is too fast and runs from one side to another. I am smarter than the guy and block the deer so that he has to go towards the entrance but the gate is closed and he can't go out.

I am in a surgery room where a patient is told that they have to replace his heart. He is my grandfather from my mother side and I realize that I am with my grandfather from my father side on the edge of a field. He normally jogs there and he tells me that the other grandfather also used to jog.

I am in a house with a very important researcher. He is seating in the basement and I go down to show him my work but he starts harassing me. I then go to my sister and show her the bruises he made on my hands. Her husband is also there and he approves that I should sue the researcher.

I am watching a movie with an American guy seating in a black car checking the items of a dead relative. Other relatives are actually parked behind him and he goes out but the police gets in the car to take all his stuff. They then start driving together through a forest and reach a very nice lake.

I am in a classroom making a drawing of some closed eyes in an underground tunnel. I am actually thinking of putting the nose of an elephant to suck them but my classmates tells me that I should draw a cartoon character. I remember it and realize that it is an evil witch with a long nose.

I am with my son walking on a street and see three guys playing football. They are actually using a big ball like the one my son is using to jump and I kick the latter. He then starts jumping away and I tell the guys to look at their ball disappearing but in reality their ball is going in a courtyard.

I am in a garden eating a pear and realize that there is another pear on a tree. I then pick it and realize that it is my garden. I feel happy to have a tree but it does not need to be pruned and I move out to realize that I own a very tiny white house made of bricks and surrounded by big buildings.

I am at my university asking the philosophy professor about my essay. He tells me that my classmate has it. I then go in a classroom to ask him and realize that he is my old Danish classmate. He does not want to talk to me and pretends to shoot but I use the door handle as a gun.

I am walking with my smart phone and check the website of a theater piece. It is actually directed by an old classmate and I even see my old supervisor starring. It has been a great success but I notice that the last part of the show was made with a professional circus to make it look very good.

I am seating at a seminar and listen to two Swedish professors presenting their course. I still haven't handed in my paper for their previous course and start thinking that I should give them the chapter I am writing for my dissertation. I decide to do so but then see their specific instructions.

I am with an old classmate in an Indonesian island. It is actually too cold and I ask her if we can go somewhere warmer. The sea looks also very cold but she tells me that she has to work and I could go with her friends. I then ask her about them but she decides to buy a bus ticket for us.

I am laying in bed and see an old friend running outside. I then send him a picture of my dick and see that he is trying to get on my terrace with the ladder of a firemen truck. There are many other old friends and I take a picture of them before getting ready to go out and celebrate with them.

I am walking on a sidewalk and realize that I am faster than anybody else. There is actually an athlete training ahead and I want to impress his coach. I then try to catch up with him but he is biking and we arrive at my house. My girlfriend is inside preparing for my party and we have a drink.

I am in a cheese shop and ask the shop assistant what kind of cheese she recommends. I actually only want seasoned cheese but then also get a fresh one. We then start talking together and she invites me to her living room but I realize that she already have a daughter seating behind her.

I am at outside of a station and realize that my best friend is going around with a stick asking for charity. He is actually good and gets money and cigarettes also from other beggars. A train is leaving and I get on to see a beggar woman working on a field where my friend's palace is being built.

I am walking up a basement and see a device attached to an electric cable. I rip it off but the cable stays on the floor and I see the contacts touching. I then go upstairs to fetch a screwdriver to remove the cables completely but when I come back I see that the contacts are no longer touching.

I am in a forest preparing for an attack and propose another guy to put dynamite around a little house. A truck comes and we go down to check what kind of weapons it has. There are very small grenades that are too difficult to explode and I want to go back to my plan but the enemy arrives.

I am looking at a map of an island. I should bike through it with a friend and he suggests to take a road on the mountains. It is not too far from our village but I find it too difficult and think about biking a road by the coast. It is all flat but we would anyway need to cross the mountains.

I am walking with my stepfather down a basement to wake up my twin cousin. We have to go to the American consulate together and I pack a big bag but he is still asleep. As we manage to go out by bike he starts offending a black woman and tells her that he will build a bathroom for her.

I am walking with a friend on a beach and find a place where to barbecue. There are actually some girls there and they don't want smoke against them. They have some food for us and we go seat with them but we get some big sandwiches with dry bread and a black salami that is too sweet.

I am playing at a concert and communicate between the singer and a drummer that is covered by a lot of towels. I then tell the latter to stop playing and I go down in the audience where I ask one guy to send me the recording. I then talk to one girl who liked the singer but not the drummer.

I am in a print shop with my Polish friend and find a Chinese assistant printing a t-shirt. He is actually using a copy machine and explains us how he does it. It is very simple and I think that I could save some money to print my t-shirts like that but the owner is coming back we have to hurry.

I am with a friend outside of a small supermarket. We actually see a gypsy walking inside with an eaten slice of watermelon. I then think that he is getting another one for free but then see a gypsy woman coming out with a big tray with salmon. It is bought and I wonder how they can afford it.

I am with my girlfriend in my native highland and see a castle down the valley. As we walk further I realize that it is a church and I also see a town with many other churches ahead of me. We then walk up a forest and I take my girlfriend around her waist feeling that she is very slim and nice.

I am on a street with a Japanese guy wearing very nice sunglasses. I can actually see my reflection on a window and I am also wearing sun glasses. The guy is quite impressed and tells me that they are the best sun glasses he has ever seen. I then realized that it is a black and white poster.

I am in my native village and hear about the new house that a friend has built with her new husband. We then go to see it and find that they have built a very tiny house. She is actually inside and I realize that her husband's parents house is next to them and she is only there to smoke.

I am in the living room of a small apartment where my uncle lives. I want to talk to him about my new t-shirts and walk to the window to find the right moment to talk to him but he starts scolding my cousin. The latter is seating on the sofa and he is told to eat more but he doesn't want to.

I am with my best friend on a bus with our racing bikes. We actually get off near his place but have to go around an old villa. My friend then tells me how much it costs but I am worrying about getting caught. We are almost out of the fence but an old woman comes out and starts talking to us.

I am walking with my girlfriend and an old friend on a path. The latter has a car parked there and check if a wheel is punctuated. We then keep walking and see a small mountain with a fortress ahead. I realize that I have been there already and want to go back even though it is far and steep.

I am in the changing room of a gym and search for a bathroom. I then get into another changing room that is much bigger and empty but I don't find any bathroom there. As I walk further into another room I find a urinary with a guy peeing. He is part of my team and I tell him to go back.

I am walking on a big sidewalk that makes a turn to the left. Two men are coming the opposite way and I go before them but they don't let me pass. I then force my way and manage to go ahead but another big guy is blocking the road walking slowly with his big dog. I then wait in a fish shop.

I am on a bus going through a big American city and listen to the Italian couple seating ahead of me. They actually got an apartment two hours away and they seem very happy. As we reach the final stop I get off and realize that my girlfriend was seating in front and a friend is waiting for us.

I am with my girlfriend next to a billboard of a busy road. I actually have a brush with me and start drawing a snail on it but realize that we can get caught. There is another guy with us and I show him a karate movement. He is my brother-in-law and tells me how my sister is dating an old guy.

I am in an empty theater with a film maker. I actually should do an exhibition there and I propose him to do a film with me. He then shows me a script he has already wrote and I walk out with it but there is a tram that is stuck and I look at a car pulling it out while other people are pushing.

I am in a shop with my old art professor. As he tells me about a philosophical text I start looking at the products and find a section selling work shoes. They are all very ugly but I find one that is actually quite okay and I want to try it on but my professor is against me dressing like a worker.

I am in a house I have just bought and talk to the plumber. He then shows me the bathroom and tells me to move it downstairs. I start unplugging the WC but then decide to go and check downstairs. It is very nice and I realize that there is a fire place and the bathroom could not fit with it.

I am in a small town walking with my girlfriend and we see a little grocery store. She actually shows me her ex boyfriend working inside and I pretend to get angry. I then rush inside but then get totally quiet and realize that he does look quite handsome but I don't feel any jealous about him.

I am walking with a girl next to an abandoned house and we go inside. She actually starts climbing and I follow her up on a hill where she starts giving a massage to a guy. I then realize that she is my girlfriend and I want her to be with me but she starts climbing on a crane with another guy.

I am walking on a dirt road but get blocked by some guys playing with a small ball. One of them is actually my Polish artist friend and he tosses the ball to me. I get it but have to move to the bushes to photograph it and he comes with me to show me some long white roots they plan to eat.

I am in a building looking at a group of firemen standing next to a door. They are simulating an emergency and one of them says that it is time to start. She then attaches a dynamite on the door and everyone gets away but the door opens without any explosion. It actually happens right after.

I am going in a lake even though it is too cold. I actually see a nicer beach nearby and walk to it although it is very steep. I get immediately back in the water and then go out walking back up on the road. I forget to put my equipment on me and a man shows me that it is still down by the water.

I am standing in the front of a bus with a friend. We stop at a station and a handicap girl starts getting inside. My friend tells me not to look and I move in the middle of the bus but it is too crowded and I feel another girl touching me from behind. I then try to move but I am all surrounded.

I am at a pub at night and see my Polish friend coming. I go talk to him and he tells me that he just had a meeting with his supervisor. We then seat down at a table to talk further even though there is another guy seating there. My friend then tells me that there was a Jesuit moderating them.

I am walking with a guy to the school where he teaches. He then tells me to wait outside and gives me a pair of strange aluminum glasses. I see him going in the school and see that he comes out in the terrace. I use the glasses to look and cry seeing that he has an affair with another teacher.

I am part of a ski competition and go down the first part of a hill very fast. I am certainly the best but then the last part of the hill starts and the snow is slimy. I am actually much slower and realize that I am also afraid of going too fast again. I then only make large turns and lose all my time.

I am in a gym with my son and walk to the changing room. We have to cross another gym where some kids are training karate. I then tell him that he must join them although they have already started. He anyway needs to put training clothes on and we keep searching for the changing room.

I am in the garden of a small house and notice a small tree with nice pears. I then eat one pretending to talk to an old friend. He also takes one even though it is the house of his boss. The latter actually comes and we go out to greet him. He has a projector in his car and we congratulate him.

I am in a small and dark classroom talking to my old flute teacher. He is actually my new supervisor and we are going through my thesis. He has read it but I find that all the images are in the back and I can no longer order them. I then ask him about my English and he says that it is perfect.

I am in a South American city walking with a girl. We are approaching her place but I realize that we are holding hands and her boyfriend could see us. I then take my hand away and we go in. It is a little bar and her friends are watching television. She gets to work and I go seat with them.

I am in a student housing with two foreigners. We are actually scrolling in the corridor and start talking about girls. They have been making love to the same girl and ask me if I ever tried. I get quite disgusted and stand up pretending that I need to drink but the lavatory is right next to them.

I am seating in the back of a bus and look out. As I notice that we are approaching my Polish friend's city the blond Czech girl seating nearby kisses me. We then make out but everyone is watching and I realize that she is quite ugly. We then watch a film and I find that she looks like my ex.

I am at an airport with other students. We should travel to the Baltic but I don't understand which airplane we need to take. A Romanian guy tells us to get on a camper but it is old and he shows us how to seat on a wall inside. It is actually an upside down kitchen and a kid asks me for water.

I am at a tourist site down south and wait for the guide to take us in. It is actually a long cave built by ancient people and he tells us to think about our dreams. I don't understand and ask another tourist who explains to me that we were supposed to combine three of our dreams together.

I am walking through a village and find a lot of people around the sport arena. I keep walking along the seaside and I seat down to film but there are a lot of people with professional bikes going very fast. I then realize that I am on a bike path but I see that there is a sidewalk right next to it.