

I am in an apartment with an Estonian colleague. It is not mine and I realize that it is owned by a guy who placed a bed for us in the kitchen. It is a very cheap mattress and I start to complain about it but my colleague has also things to say about the shower curtain that the guy didn't replace.

I am walking up to the last floor of a garage and find my sport car. I then use a remote control to open it but the car starts moving. It is actually controlling another car with other people inside it and I see that I am making them crash. I stop pressing one button and start pressing the reverse.

I am looking at a show in a gallery and meet an old Canadian student. He reminds me that we wanted to curate an exhibition there and we try to look for the gallery owner. We find him and the student tells him what our plan. He is quite unclear but the owner decides to give us a chance.

I am walking in a park with my son and his mother. It is actually a sport arena built by the communists and I stop to film but they go inside without waiting for me. I then go in and find them in a room full of candies and I pick some even though they are not mine and they have too much sugar.

I am walking out of an hotel and meet a girl who needs a ride to her place. I start driving her while she tells me that she is a professional swimmer and is qualifying for the Olympics. I am really fast but she touches my hand and by the time we reach her place I realize that she is old and ugly.

I am in a living room with my girlfriend and find the pictures that a Chinese student posted on-line. He is in a house by the sea and I realize that he is married to an American student. We look at the other pictures and see how beautiful it is even though there are young people partying in front.

I am cleaning in my new mountain cottage and remember to pick the salad from our garden. It is very tall already and I realize that I have been picking it the previous week. I am actually only there in the weekends and I wonder how it can grow so fast but anyway find it very convenient.

I am at the foot of a long hill showing some American girls how to get to a village. It is actually an abstract drawing and I walk up to the village myself but end up in an abandoned building. There is a man who wants me to pay an entrance but I don't have any coins and he writes me a loan.

I am reaching a villa in the middle of the night and see that there is a party next to the swimming pool. I then approach it and introduce myself to the girl who owns the place. I don't know her but I do recognize an old Sicilian friend but he is drinking a bottle of heavy alcohol and he is drunk.

I am walking at night with my girlfriend next to a park and reach a tent. There is a Japanese priest inside and I ask him for a little bible. He then comes back with one and think that I will kneel down with him to pray but we actually want to keep up our walk and leave without taking his bible.

I am watching a film with my girlfriend and see a man in a Venetian city. He waits for people to walk past him and then pulls his penis out. As I notice that it is very hard my girlfriend leaves and he starts to fuck other girls. I then try to change program before she comes back but I go forward.

I am in an institute and notice some fashion designers around a table. They are actually wearing tshirts from my old institute and behind them there is a big screen showing a lesbian from my new institute. As I walk away I realize that the screen is live and it keeps zooming closer to my face.

I am in a busy art museum and meet my old Italian professor. I don't stop to greet him and go straight to another room where I meet the director. I then ask him where is my art work and I see it in the middle of the room. I walk next to it but realize that the prints are wrong and I get upset.

I am walking next to a place where a Thai man is giving a speech. I then start to insult him but there is another Thai man seating in front of me. As I go to the bathroom I meet an American man that it also very short. He is the same size of my son and I start wrestling with him on the floor.

I am in a forest and come to a big metal construction where my work has been installed. My son is with me and I ask him to stand next to it while I try to take a picture. I am too close and I try to walk back but there is a water stream. I get close again but realize that my work is a big pine tree.

I am in a lake with a small sailing boat. My old friends are going to another lake but we have to go through a small river and the water is too low. I then leave my boat behind and start crawling in the water but my best friend is ahead of me and I hear that he wants to go to a far away island.

I am at a reception when my Polish friend tells me to check my phone. He has sent me a link and I open it. I then see my name second on a list for an Italian scholarship and I immediately show it to my supervisor even though it is very little and other winners have been awarded much more.

I am in a field with my old friends. We are actually digging some stuff and a turtle comes out. As I try to pull it up another comes to tell us that he just got married. I then start wonder why he did not invite us but the head of the turtle has become plastic and it breaks when I pull it out.

I am seating on a train enjoying the sun with some other young people. Suddenly I see the controller coming in our wagon and I take out my ticket. It is written in English but he is actually Japanese and I worry that it is the wrong one but then he checks it and there are no problems with it.

I am in a pool and realize that there is a handicap girl next to me who is without arms. I then move to another part of the swimming pool before she notices me but it is still shallow. I try to seat somewhere but there are a lot of German people and they are all splashing water with their feet.

I am in a bar and tell the owner that I am about to cut wood in the small forest I just bought. He then asks me what I will do with the timber and I tell him that I will leave it there to dry. He then tells me that I should get a tractor and do like the locals but I get angry and kick the garbage bin.

I am going up the escalator of mall and see some fridges for my house. I am actually about to steal a bike for my girlfriend and we reach a small room on the top. There is a bike with thin tires there but she wants a bigger one and I pull out a touring bike. It is good but a guard is watching us.

I am in my new apartment in the mountains with my American curator. He wants to help me find a gallery where to exhibit and starts telling me several names. I am actually cooking and think of taking notes but then realize that he is being very sophisticated and I don't care about them.

I am seating at a restaurant putting small slices of meat around my wrist. I then notice an actor on the opposite side staring at me. He wants to do iron fist and approaches me. As I tell him that he is my favorite actor I realize that I am not making a good bracelet with the meat around my wrist.

I am getting in a cinema with my sister but she picks a bad seat in the front. I can barely see the screen and I move one seat in the back but she gets angry. I don't understand why but then I see that she is going to get a slice of pizza and wants to take her daughter home to watch the film.

I am out of an historical site queuing and realize that my supervisor and her husband are also there. They then ask me if I am going to take a portrait of them but I explain that I have made up my mind. My supervisor had a new sweater for the occasion and goes back to her office to change it.

I am walking to my new place but feel the neighbor's hand who is renovating his basement. I then start insulting him but he gets offended and I run inside. He comes to beat the door but I can see that I could beat him and I go out again. He is with a karate champion and wants to make peace.

I am in an outdoor restaurant eating a local salad. My sister is also there with her daughter and she approaches me. She actually takes my salad and gives me another one that is getting rotten. I am about to react but then see that she is giving my salad to her daughter and I keep the bad one.

I am in a bar and find a flier showing a mountain house for sale. It is much cheaper and nicer than the one I bought and I go out to check it. I walk up a road and finally find it but realize that mine is right behind it and it has a piece of garden. It is sunny even though the house in front is big.

I am with my best friend in a playground jumping on different metal lids making sound. He gets tired and we go back in our house to check the present I got him. He actually opens other presents but I manage to give him the right one and he finds a space ship with a character looking like him.

I am in my parents' old house and get in my bedroom. There is my stepfather there doing my stepsister's homeworks and he tells me that I should speak English to her. As I am walking out of the room again I find her hiding in the bathroom and realize that she is wearing very fancy high heels.

I am getting in a small public bathroom but an old Russian student follows me. He is actually homosexual and I get scared to pee but then do it anyway. The urinary is very filled with other pee and he starts looking at my penis. I keep it out but cannot help splashing him with some pee.

I am in a classroom with my sister and see the father of one of my son's classmate. He is actually part of the Swedish fascists and I go to hug him. He hugs me back and is about to leave but then comes back to talk to my sister. He wants to make sure that she is going to teach the next class.

I am in a room with my sister looking at her pulling the blinders down. She does not manage and I keep looking at her without helping. She is staring outside and tells me that she is divorcing from her husband. I then also stare outside and tell her to take a new one from the neighborhood.

I am waiting outside of a country road for my son to come back. I see an old couple coming with a cheap car and realize that he is seating behind. They let him down and come in the house where my parents also live. My stepfather is there and the old man speaks a very good English to him.

I am at a market looking for my girlfriend. I suddenly see her in a stand talking to a man selling carpets. The latter is old and ugly but I feel jealous and I call her but she starts running away. She has been hiding from me and I look for her in other stands but I cannot see her anymore.

I am in the old square of an Italian city and a young couple asks me where to find a sculpture with three philosophers. As I think about it I see my supervisor and her husband passing by. I then suddenly remember that the statue is next to the ghetto and realize that they are also going there.

I am in an hotel room and my son wants to walk out of the window. There is a small terrace in front and I let him do it although I am very scared. He then walks out to it but I realize that there is no fence and he is walking with his face pointing down. I want to drag him in but I cannot reach.

I am walking to my parents' countryside village to find someone to fix my roof. I actually find another house that is very big but too old and I realize that it requires a new roof. The windows are also very bad and I can see the wind going through them. There is a blind but it must be broken.

I am in a hardware store and find a window cleaner that for my bathroom. The size is really good but I realize that the blade is actually a sponge. I then start looking into an electric plug that I also need but the shop assistant approaches me. She knows me and wants to give me an haircut.

I am in a platform of a metro with a girl and a guy wearing a leather jacket. We have to walk to the other end and the girl decides to catch a metro. We also follow her but it continues to a next stop and it is a very long ride. I then start singing a Mexican song and the guy sings with me dancing.

I am in my old American university hearing a teacher telling a retiring professor that she also wants to apply for a professorship. I then walk to the office of my old director and finds that he is leaving for the airport. I want to follow him but he lands me a book and I don't know where to put it.

I am in a big classroom and join a small group. They just had a seminar and I pretend that I was part of it. They are actually about to get a special lunch buffet and I join them at the table but the waiter comes with only a few dishes. I am about to leave but a guest asks to bring more for me.

I am biking with my girlfriend and we reach an empty barrack. As we get into the bathroom she tells me that she started volunteering for her old school. I get angry and drop a glass bowl but then pick it up and walk upstairs to make love in the dormitory. She follows me but to call her brother.

I am walking with my girlfriend in a tropical city. We are actually the only tourists and I start to be afraid of the locals. I actually see a few bars on the road with foreigners and we stop to ask for an hotel. My girlfriend finds a friend but the latter has a boyfriend and they start drinking tequila.

I am waking up in a small living room of a fancy neighborhood. As I look at the sun outside and already feel the heat I realize that an old friend is talking about football on the phone. My ex wife is also in a room there and I realize that she was previously in a bigger room but then vomited.

I am with my old friends in an student room. We are actually about to party and one of them goes out in the corridor with his penis out. I then joke with him and say that the director might shows up. He then undress himself completely and an old lady pass by. She is actually the director.

I am walking with a man on the sunny side of a long building in the mountains. He then shows me that his son has built a smaller building at the top and I realize that it makes a shadow to the part of the building I own at the end. The sun is actually shining there as well and I hurry inside.

I am showering in a small apartment and get really scared of the height. I then go in the living room and realize that it is not my place even though my things are there. I hurry to move them all upstairs but as I walk out I see that a Turkish student is coming in and he might be the owner.

I am in a restaurant and stand up to pay. The owner then types in a very expensive bill and I realize that he also included the water and electricity bills of my mountain cottage. It is actually not so much in the end and I am willing to pay but start counting my banknotes and I have too little.

I am with my girlfriend seating in a stadium between the seats. As I look at elegant couples with the same coat walking on the seats a girl sticks her arm between my legs. I then look at her and tell her to stop also pointing at my girlfriend. She then moves on the side next to another girl.

I am in a museum checking the exhibition of a woman artist. As I notice that some of the architectural model she has made are responsive I go in the bathroom. It is also an architectural model and I have to squeeze inside it. There is no urinary but just a toilette and I find it hard to seat on it.

I am in my apartment in the middle of the night and hear the police coming. I realize that there are two American guys doing drugs in the big room and I warn them. They actually have a machine for synthetic drugs and they unplug it while I try to clean up all the mess they left in the hallway.

I am with a girl in the mountains driving my car to a village in a valley. I then realize that we could have brought back a car we rented there but it is too late. We are actually going by my mountain cottage and I realize that there is a big fountain with water coming out of the neighbour's house.

I am watching a movie with a man shooting drug dealers. He actually goes in the city hall and search for the politicians. He finds them in a room and shoots them all. He then puts one of their jacket and spins down the emergency staircase but there is a man spinning a chain waiting for him.

I am walking with other slaves and realize that they are taking us to Asia. As I try to explain to the people around me that we are soon there and things will be much different I feel a girl hugging me from behind. A much nicer girl passes next to us and asks the girl behind me if I am taken.

I am driving with my mother on her expensive car through an old village and pass by an old red car parked in front of the church. It is actually from an old friend of her who suddenly starts to back up. We are on time to stop and I realize that it is a really fast car and she is able to speed out.

I am in an airport at night and find that my flight is in two days. I then go to the counter and asks if I can buy a ticket for an earlier flight departing also at night. The hostess does not find it and I prepare to spend the night out of the airport but see another couple I know waiting at a bus stop.

I am in a hostel and a Japanese guy asks me a ride to his car. We then go with other people to factory but he shows me that his furnitures are there. He doesn't want to move them yet but he comes back with two ladders. They are too long and I look at the map for a small road to carry them.

I am watching the news and see a big park controlled by the soldiers. In the middle there is a beautiful actress on a jeep and a soldier throws a stone in her direction. The stone only reaches half way and he runs to kick it further even though other soldiers start shooting at him from afar.

I am in a small road in the mountains talking to my neighbours. It is very sunny out and I place a stick on the ground telling them about my university job. We then move in a kitchen and one of them tells me about a house he wishes to sell but it is together with his two other brothers.

I am with my girlfriend walking up a mountain. She is impressed about how rich the people are there and I explain to her that it is because we are in Russia. We then start skiing in the back of the mountain but it is getting late and I lose her. She is actually going back with the ski lift.

I am in a small kitchen seating with my Italian roommate. There are actually two American women talking at the table and I also seat to decide with my roommate the road we want to take to cross America. I like a small one in the South but the women tell me to take a big one in the North.

I am laying in a park with some other people. The ones next to me have a little bag with some food and I also have one with a piece of seasoned cheese. The lady below me has a small dog that is really agitated but then she gives him a banana and he gets really quiet around her neck.

I am in my parents' city at night waiting for them to pick me up in front of the train station. I am actually seating in the middle of a roundabout and I see my stepfather coming. He doesn't stop and I call him to ask who is picking me up but they are too tired. I then go to them alone by car.

I am in the Italian parliament and realize that I was elected. I then take a random seat to the left even though I belong to the right wing. As I start feeling ashamed of my dirty clothes I see my American curator also coming in. He is wearing a very elegant papillon and take a seat to the right.

I am on a stage with few other young people who has been selected to work for a baking factory. They are actually singing and I lay down to also sing inside a big empty bottle. We then rise up to get instructed on how to bake but end up in a room where they start cutting our hairs and arms.

I am in a meeting room with other important politicians. Some of them are discussing new laws but no one is listening. I then side up with two of them who are looking for digital art on the internet. They only find old paintings and I try to help them but see that they find an interactive one.

I am in the kitchen of an empty restaurant and meet with my old Swedish curator. We have to seat down to talk but first I pick some pieces of pumpkins frying on a pan and I take them even though they are not ready. We then seat on a dirty table with an olive oil bottle filled with urine.

I am walking with my girlfriend and her students in the long avenue of a park. As we come to the end of it I wait for the students behind the entrance and start hitting them on the head with a folded newspaper. They are all girls but suddenly a group of big guys from another school come out.

I am walking in the mountains on a pasture covered with snow. As I am about to leave I find that there is a small road on the side. I then go to check if I can build my installation there but it is actually another pastures and there are old houses already built. One of them is mine and I go in.

I am in a shop and look at my old American director coming in. He is very young and wants to buy a famous painting with only a few coins. The shop assistant makes fun of him but my director comes back that he is older and richer. He then asks for the painting again and it is still there.

I am walking on the mountains with two girls. I actually take them to my cottage and find that it is still warm inside even if the stove has been off for a long time. We then seat down and a dark hair girl starts touching my foot. She is also touching the foot of the other girl who is my twin sister.

I am in a bedroom drawing when a girl tries to come in through the glass door. It is actually locked and I let her in. She is leaving for work and wants to greet me but her breath smells like cigarettes and I really wish to dismiss her. She actually wants a kiss for me but I really tell her off.

I am in a bed having sex with my girlfriend. She has to pee and we go to the bathroom but there is also an old friend there. I actually also want to pee after her and by the time I go back to bed she is hugging with my friend. I then throw her on the floor and walk out to remember my dreams.

I am in a metro station at night and show my card at the gate. The controller then gets out to digit a code on an elevator. I am let inside but an also homeless manages to come in. I am disturbed by him and want to go out but we arrive at a floor below the ground and it is not the right one.

I am with a curator friend going along a hill in Italy. There are a lot of big properties there and I tell him how lucky I am to just have a small one but then he reminds me that it would have been nice to have a land to take care of. We actually reach my apartment and I propose to seat outside.

I am in the changing room of a Dutch gym and try to find a place where to shower. All the toilettes are actually occupied and I try to open one to check if there is a shower inside. I find it and the water is running but there is a strong smell because it is filling the WC and the pee is coming out.

I am at an airport and a hostess wants me to show her my passport. I then do so and she lets me pass even though I lack a certificate for intercontinental flights. I walk inside and go up a really old staircase under construction. It leads nowhere and I find myself in an empty room with a girl.

I am in a bus going back to the village where I bought a cottage. It is full of high school students and I start looking at the ones next to me. They are talking about politics and think that I am from the South. As I try to show them that I am also a local a blond girl comes seating next to me.

I am in a big conference room with another girl. We are the only one there beside the director who starts asking us questions about our practice. He asks me how I intend to day and I right away explain to him that I read from a Roman emperor how philosophers die in the way they also preach.

I am at a beach enjoying the sun when I see my stepfather talking to a man. The family next to them suddenly get agitated and tell my stepfather to get away. I then see my mother with her little granddaughter approaching and I go to my stepfather to find that they thought he was a pervert.

I am in a research lab and get an idea on how to subdivide the different kinds of data in different colors. I then go to tell a colleague about it and she shows me that another researcher has already used three of the colors. I actually have many more but she keeps talking and I cannot tell her.

I am walking with my girlfriend in a modern city in China and suddenly reach an old historical site. There are some ruins there and I try to seat on one to film but there is a wolf walking around. I try to seat on a different ruin but he jumps on top of it and we decide to just leave the place.

I am in a restaurant with other artists and I take out pen and paper to start drawing. An old artist friend comes in and announces us that we are inside a roller coaster. The paper in front of me is actually a screen and he explains us that this is way we don't feel that we are spinning around.

I am walking inside an airport and pick a card in which it says that I should behave like a rich man. I then buy toy guns for me and some girls and we walk in the waiting room shooting. An old man gets angry and I throw him a big carrot and a bottle of apple vinegar but then I run away.

I am in line at a food truck and it gets my turn. I want to order a red home made juice but ask the bar tender for hot wine. He actually starts slicing ham for me but I want it with bread on both sides. As I try to instruct him how to do it I see some take away cardboard cut with my drawings.

I am looking at a postcard I got from a priest. It shows the mountains where I just bought a small cottage and I can even see the name of the nearby town. It is actually misspelled and I am about to write him an e-mail back but then notice that the map is actually a photograph with a man.

I am in a kitchen with my Polish friend. We are actually living together and he just came back from an event. I want to ask him about it but I see that he is drinking and then putting the glass in the trash. I wonder if he bought newer glasses but see that we have only one left of the same kind.

I am in my parents' apartment ready to leave but my stepfather starts telling me about their other apartment. I already have the keys to go there but realize that they are a pastry and he is explaining me how to make it. I want to go but he takes me to the supermarket to buy the ingredients.

I am walking up a road at night and see my girlfriend walking down with a walker. She is actually disabled but I keep walking and also hear that she carrying our newly born child. It is actually crying but I keep walking and come to a traffic light crowded with Dutch people celebrating carnival.

I am at the bottom of a scaffolding and follow some people up to watch a video projection but two small kids come down. I then bring them back up to look for their parents. They are watching another projection and the mother takes care of them while the red hair father starts touching me.

I am in a building with a guy and we run through a long bathroom that his father has designed. We finally come to the urinary and we start peeing together. He is actually peeing sideways and I suggest that also the urinatories can be designed tilted to the side. I also put a sticker on the wall.

I am in an apartment under the street level and greet two couples that are leaving. They are actually celebrating Christmas together and they tell me of a nice piece of meat they have baked. One of the girls shows me a fancy box with a picture of the meat and I realize that it has been precooked.

I am next to the lake with an hunter's dog. I let him smell my hand and he dives in the water even though it is cold. He then comes out and I realize that he is my son. I then continue the journey by car and we actually drive next to the harbour and up the mountain where my new cottage is.

I am in my old room walking around and looking at the walls. As I see that there are still traces of the equipment I had install I get a message from a Canadian artist. She wants to come to the apartment and I realize that she wants to have sex but I really dislike her and I try to find an excuse.

I am swimming in a small lake and realize that I am wearing my camera on my belt. I then try to lift it up from the water but only get my memory stick. I keep swimming along with a couple but the lake gets even bigger and I start putting my hand with the memory stick down in the water.

I am watching a movie of a man driving a van with a rich family. Suddenly the van falls in the sea and everyone draws but a small boy who starts swimming away. The man gets him and then takes him to his villa to arrange to be his father but the boy starts singing a very sentimental song.

I am walking with my old friends down a mountain. My best friend is also there and starts complaining that we have walked too little. He then tells me how much he usually walks with his other friends and I start to think about the walk we just took. We have actually been around a mountain.

I am queuing outside a shop with my mother. She is actually holding a small boy looking like me and I also want to hold him but she tells me to go to a butcher. There is one nearby and I can see that he is pressing a piece of horse meat with a flat hammer and leaving a matrix of small dots.