

I am driving through a city following the road on my phone. It actually shows me to go through a highway stop and I do so even though it is very crowded. It is going too much underground and I decide to drive up on one side but it is a dead end and it is too narrow to turn around and go back.

I am in front of a field filming the landscape but my hand is too shaky. As I film one more time I see a man jumping up in the air and landing in a forest nearby. He then comes to me to look at the jump of a girl wearing a special suit but jumping too far out in a valley where she lands badly.

I am in the apartment of a former girlfriend and go in the hallway to get my shoes on and leave. The apartment is very nice but the hallway is very ugly with big broken mirrors standing on each side. In the crack I notice a white powder and realize that it is too kill the ants that try to enter.

I am in a church with a group of soldiers resting. I am actually their general and I want them to remove their shoes so that I can clean the floor but they get quite angry and start throwing coins at me. I then run to the end of the church and then around it to protect myself behind the altar.

I am in a room with my old classmates and see one on the other side pulling his hand up to talk. I then notice some weird tattoos with some dates and I expect him to be a far right member. He actually pulls his hand back down and another guy start talking about how bad it is to get vaccinated.

I am in the bathroom of our Dutch house with my spiritual friend. He is actually trying to close the window and I realize that the carpenters have just put a new handle. My friend finds that it works with a magnet but drops it in the WC and I try to get it out but it gets connected with a pipe.

I am seating in a warehouse with my colleagues discussing how to paint it. I then sketch on paper and show where I think to position the short and the tall ladder. The tall one should be placed against the grout but a colleague tells me it is too fragile and I propose to just put it lower down.

I am in the kitchen of our Dutch house with my boss. She explains me where to buy a cleaning product and I listen to her while putting some mugs in the dishwasher. As I am almost done I realize that the dishes that are already inside are clean and I should have taken them out beforehand.

I am with my sister at an office. It is dark but we find a lady to talk to and I tell her about my ID card. I explain to her that I have been living abroad all this time and I think there are going to be problems with it but she claims that I should just wait for the first working day for an answer.

I am walking up an abandoned building and reach the top. I see that there is a building next to it with a narrow passage and I could go even higher. Two American girls are already getting in and I am also about to do so but a young boy goes before me and he is too short to make it through.

I am driving along a lake with my former father-in-law and reach a kiosk. I then ask him if there were also kiosks before the economy got really good and he reminds me that we were in one together by a bigger lake where no one goes to anymore. The latter kiosk had then to shut down.

I am in a garage where they are cleaning campers. I pass behind one and find a wall with many old toilettes. They are all without lids and I have to help a girl working there to fit the right ones on top. I first think it is very hard but then find that each toilette is very different from one another.

I am at a conference looking at a paper with a European map. There are different trajectories all going from the north to the south. I then realize that they are looking for people to drive the cars of the European parliament to other destinations. I could also drive one but the reward is too little.

I am in the villa of an old friend talking to her sister. She is actually sitting against the kitchen counter and I start looking at her more closely. As I realize that she has a fully pink shirt her parents come home and I try to run out from the back but my boots are untied and I have to stop.

I am in the expansive car of a friend who is driving next to a Mediterranean coast. As I look at the sea on my left I actually see a small red temple underwater. To my right there is also a field with a lot of ancient sculptures all of women with very big eyes looking as if they have been bewitched.

I am in the corridor of a school waiting for my Swedish supervisor. He actually just got a text in his own language but wants to translate it to English. He then seats in front of a computer and starts doing so word by word. I wonder why he does not use a translating program but he is very fast.

I am in a courtyard with my mountain neighbours and walk out to clean my ears so that they don't see me. I actually hide behind the bushes and then come back but they tell me that my sister was just there to get me. She thought I was spying on her family and wanted to bring me to them.

I am running through a Belgian city and cross an old bridge. I actually reach a jewelry shop and see in the window that they also sell two big golden nuggets. I then stop at the corner to see on my phone what is the current price of gold and realize that the shop is charging for exactly double.

I am in the house of a rich neighbour seating on the floor with my girlfriend. Her little cat walks towards me and I try to push it away. I then realize that it is very quiet and I have overreacted. I explain to the owner that I have been used to very aggressive cats who jumped on me and scratched.

I am watching a movie about a man who is convicted for the murder of two women. He is about to be put to jail but he is not aware of his crime and keeps talking about a paper he needs to publish. As he is told that he is not going to be able to do it he flies out with the suit he has invented.

I am walking to an old village and reach the main street. There are very colorful old buildings there and I come to the church where they are celebrating a wedding. I then seat on a corner to film it but as I get my camera ready everyone has left and there is only an empty street before me.

I am driving with my girlfriend and an Hungarian friend on a highway. I actually decide to stop looking at my phone for the directions but end up in an Austrian village. As I try to get back to the highway we reach a restaurant serving ribs on pancakes. I then let my friend try to drive back.

I am strolling in a city with my spiritual friend and he tells me that he has just got a new computer and plans to give his old one to me. We will have to change operating system but he already knows how to do it. As he keeps on talking I realize that he just wants me to go on a journey with him.

I am driving up a highway at night. It was actually designed by a famous architect and it should be lightened up with different colours but the main light is broken and there is only a white light. I expect it to be better as I reach the top but it gets completely dark on the other side of the hill.

I am seating in the terrace of a cafe and notice a man spying on a couple. He is actually a doctor and the couple work as nurses in his hospital. They actually plan to dress up like doctors and the doctor follows them and manage to photograph them from the elevator just before the doors close.

I am in a big bookstore and realize that all the books are in French. The owner actually announces that the pro European party has just won the French elections and we all toss the books we have in our hands in the air. As I walk to the exit I find a book about the Italian anti European party.

I am in the middle of a big crowd greeting the former American president. He is actually right next to me and I observe him how patient he is listening to everyone and giving good advices. A black girl also comes forward with a metal box and the president use his finger to make a cross on top.

I am walking in a narrow road behind a cement building and see that it is used as a stable. A small cow is strangling itself and I warn the farmer who releases the chain around the neck. We then walk on each side of the stable and start to play simultaneously a Mexican song on our phones.

I am in a house on the sea with a girl. She actually needs to rent it to continue her studies but it is very expensive even though it is underwater all around it. I then explain to her that all the other houses are on the sea and she will also need a boat and she might as well find some roommates.

I am in front of the church of my native town with girlfriend and my oldest son. It is sunny outside but the latter wants to go back to our apartment to play video-games. We only have one day left together and then I ask him if he is up for an excursion but he also doesn't want to do that.

I am in a military barrack arranging the beers of the other soldiers in crates. They are actually training and one of them comes in and points the rifle at me. I then tell him not to shoot and explain that I am not an enemy but a southern colleague. I also ask him to please remember my face.

I am in a small apartment watching old football games. In one of them the coach is behind the goal and gets in a fight. I then walk out of the door behind the television and find the ladies of the house preparing a buffet while watching a more important football game live on a bigger television.

I am biking through a city at night when a group of young gangsters start chasing me. I try to be fast but they are very much after me and just make it inside a night club. People are dancing inside and I have no way out but the gang boss decides to just dance with me and don't beat me up.

I am walking in a city hall ahead of my relatives and start dancing. I am actually good and get in the middle of it where there is a small bridge. I want to show everyone that I can make a double flip across it. I can fall down and die but there might be a small reward for me and I want to do it.

I am in my mountain village with my neighbours observing a tree with big yellow fruits. One of them tells me that it is from my new neighbour and I walk to my apartment to see where he is. We actually meet inside a narrow under passage. He is wearing a girl shirt and just doesn't greet me.

I am in the garden of a condominium with my children. We are actually standing in front of a door that a woman needs to access and I tell my children to walk forward. There are a lot of stairs and my daughter just makes it through the garden but I call her back as there might be snakes there.

I am joining my colleagues in the room of a museum. It was actually all painted gold and I can see one of them putting glue in a crack. I then wonder if she is not making the paint all dirty but I realize that even the floor was painted gold and we are anyway leaving marks with our safety shoes.

I am biking with my small son in the back and realize that I am using his mother bike and it is electric. I then find the button to turn the motor on and try to accelerate but it actually makes the whole bike to stop. I try again and it starts going really fast but I get afraid to fall with my son.

I am at work very early to cut a piece of wood I need as a guide for a project. The saw is full of small magnets and I start to remove them but in the meantime an Easter European guy arrives and also wants to use the saw. I then tell him I am just getting it ready but also a girl comes to use it.

I am driving with my girlfriend at night and she gets hungry. We are close to a pizza place we normally go to in the summer and I drive down a dike to see if it is open. It is closed but there is another one in front that has the lights on. I propose to eat there but my girlfriend doesn't want to.

I am walking with my parents next to a castle and see some childhood friends cutting the grass next to the walls. They don't recognize me and I just start running around. There is a nice bike path but my stepfather calls me back. I anyway decide to do the full round and meet him at the end.

I am at work trying to open a closet behind the chair of a colleague. He actually tells me about his sister who is supposed to live not too far from me. He tries to remember the name of the street and realize it is the same as her year of birth. He writes it on paper but it is when the war started.

I am in the living room of our Dutch house and receive a phone call. I actually don't even look at the number and immediately reject it. On a second thought I look at the number to see who could have been. There is actually a drawing showing the person who called me and I see he is black.

I am in a caravan with my girlfriend and she seems open to make love. I then try to hug her but she runs out and starts going down a road. I also have to run to reach her and realize that we left our son alone back in the caravan. We then have to walk back and it is actually quite far.

I am on a dirt road at night with my daughter. She doesn't want to move and I give her an apple but she throws it down the dike. I then try to kick it back up but it is really heavy. Some guys also arrives but in the end it is a monkey who can give it a strong kick but the opposite direction.

I am standing on a beach looking at the sea when my best friend comes from behind. There are some girls looking at him and wants to play cool with them. He then tries to push me in the water but I grab him by the neck and I am so strong that I can make him flip up and then in the water.

I am in the entrance of a supermarket looking at the announcements when I see my parents walking behind me. They don't recognize me and I feel quite relieved. I then wait some time longer to make sure they are gone but as I walk out I find them waiting for me wearing no clothes.

I am in the apartment of a dead friend when his mother and sister asks me if I want to go for a walk with them. I am only wearing a pajama and just go out to my car to get changed. The trunk door is actually broken and there are no longer any clothes but I am naked and they can see me.

I am walking in a city with a friend and see the school she attended when she was young. I actually remember that there was a small pizza place right in front. She then shows me how it is no longer there but in front of the church further down the road. I want to stop there but we move on.

I am in a parking lot looking at the caravan of a German friend. A woman is walking by and tells me that it is the most expensive one in the market. I then ask her how much would be to only buy a camping van but she tells me that they are also very expensive although I want it second hand.

I am driving with my oldest son down south. I first think that we are still in the Swedish countryside but then realize that the farms are not made of wood but of stone. I then think it could be a French town we are about to pass but we actually end up in a city and I recognize it is Italian.

I am in a shop with a pair of shoes I just got from a friend. I ask a Southern American guy working there if I can change them but he asks for the receipt. I don't have it and he just tells me he can change the shoes before his boss arrives. He then shows me some models but they are very ugly.

I am in a square with an immigrant guy looking at a bus coming. It is actually full of ultra-nationalists and we run inside a condominium to take shelter. I hide inside the small kitchen of a young couple that is still in bed but a person comes to visit them and my dark hairs stick out too much.

I am walking on a road and find an abandoned store. There is still some stuff inside and I use a remote control to open the door. As I keep the door open I try to see if there is anything my size but it all looks too big. On my right side is actually a smaller shop selling out the main stock.

I am driving with my girlfriend and kids along a forest looking for a place where to let them take a walk. I actually come to the end of the forest and have to turn around to find a path that is more in the middle of it. I find a road that goes the opposite way and just decide to drive down that way.

I am in a library checking out books. In a shelf I find the new arrivals and notice that they are all for immigrants. The biggest one is about an Arab country and I hear a boy talking to his mother on the phone about it. He says that he has been able to identify where her parents came from.

I am walking with my oldest son through a forest and see a ski resort ahead. It is closed even though there is snow and we can see the traces of skies. We then start walking up but suddenly there are a lot of rocks and I realize that there has been an avalanche and it is very dangerous there.

I am with my kids in a living room and see that there is a cat inside a wooden box on our right. I then go to feed him some croquettes and my daughter comes with me. He is actually a leopard and immediately jumps out to eat the croquettes. I immediately move out but my daughter is kept in.

I am watching a movie with my girlfriend about two boys. I am actually quite bored but suddenly they both seat in their bedroom and start scripting a film of their own. I become very curious about the one the first boy is making and I finally get to see that it is only a porn with some anal sex.

I am in a supermarket and walk out into a very narrow road. There is a small woman under drags dressing with only a black scarf on. She is all naked underneath and I try to avoid looking at her as I walk forward. She actually gets on my way and I recognize that she is my stepfather sister.

I am on a pedestrian bridge crossing a lake with other people. It is very beautiful and I try to film it but there is the metal handrail on the way. I then try to walk further and can see that there is a town under a cliff. A woman also wants to see it and she leans against me but we got too far.

I am next to a river looking at two old ships sailing inside a city. They are filled with the books of a Swedish museum and I realize it is a work of an artist who wants to exhibit them. I find it rather banal but as I go inside I realize that she has reconstructed the entire museum library inside it.

I am walking through a church with my kids but realize that the pope is there and he wants them to seat on his knees. I then go to him and he asks me what I do for a living. I then tell him that I am an artist and he asks me to be more specific. I explain my unfortunate life story and cry.

I am seating in a car driving with a girl next to me. It is already dark outside and I just drive south but the car is rented and the girl check where we have to leave it. It is a German city I have never heard of and she shows me on the map that it is completely to the east past the capitol city.

I am with my daughter looking at an old book. There is an old picture of a mountain village next to ours. I then show it to her and go to the next page where there is a picture taken on the top of our mountain. There are no trees left but only a stone ready to be carved with a religious symbol.

I am part of a beauty context and just present myself to the spectators dressing like a woman. I actually feel very shy and just retreat to give space to a friend of mine. She is actually much more daring and comes forward checking her bubs out. She then opens her shirt and shows her big bubs.

I am in an apartment with my Dutch boss demolishing a wall. He actually breaks it too much and we can now see the room of the neighbouring apartment. It is very dusty and I realize that the neighbour does not know to have that room. I then suggest my boss to make the room his own.

I am on a train going to a city but decide to get off in another city. I soon regret it and want to get back in and realize that it is still valid. I then walk to the station and find a queue of young guys who are enlisting themselves to go to war and I make fun of them.

I am in a restaurant having lunch with my colleagues and one of them thanks me that I have made a drawing of a shark tale. They needed it for a project but our boss say that it has to be three dimensional. I have a model of a shark in my computer but she doesn't want to talk more about it.

I am on a beach getting ready to spend the night there but I see that the tide might rise. I then go higher up where the sand is still dry and find a small ball. It belongs to a kid next to me but as I feel with my hand under the sand I can find many more toys. Someone must have dug them there.

I am in my workplace helping my colleagues to clean up. We actually get in the metal workshop and find that it has been turned into a small classroom. I then start packing the books that are on the desks but my boss keeps on watching me. I then understand that he is getting upset with me.

I am in a park walking behind my girlfriend former roommate. She is carrying a yellow plastic bucket in her head and I go behind to push her. The bucket does fall down and I expect water to pour on the grass. There is actually only a big piece of ice and I help her to put it back in the bucket.

I am in our Dutch house and realize that we bought a white and orange cat. It is small but I start getting afraid of it and make sure it doesn't come on my laps. It actually starts running very fast and I expect it to jump on my girlfriend's laps but then see that it makes a great jump over the sofa.

I am in a tea room and my girlfriend shows me a link her father sent her. It is a porn with black actors and we start watching it. A gangster is driving an expensive car with two naked girls in the back. One of them tries to escape but he turn around to push her back ever though he is driving.

I am in a church with my Russian friend and he shows me how low the ceiling is because of the cold climate. As I look around I realize that my photographs are also install in the front. They are connected with a thread and old man holds one end. As he walks forward he makes them all fall.

I am on top of a mountain and meet a rich guy with an expensive jeep. He wants to show me something and gives me a ride to a tower. We walk up and get out from a tight room. It is very windy and the tower is shaking all the way to the ground where I manage to get some small strawberries.

I am in an apartment and a technician shows me that there must be a leakage my apartment below. My parents are also there and tell him that they can pay for the damage. I don't want their help and tell him that it is not possible it is my leakage since I have just renovated the bathroom.

I am outside my family villa and see my oldest son holding a rat. I then tell him to put it in a bucket and he does so but realize that his grandmother has another bucket nearby with two other rats. She putted a lot of food for them inside and they are becoming really big and able to jump out.

I am at work and see that my boss is drawing a chart with my name. She is using different colours for different weeks and asks me if I prefer to work in the workshop or on location. I then tell her that I like the combination and she shows me a quite bad video she made of their first project.

I am in a station and watch a musical with folk playing different instruments. There are three Brazilian twins playing a very special one but I don't really like the noise. As I am about to leave three old man in the back start playing some dishes together and the two sounds get really nice.

I am in our Dutch house and hear that the alarm went off. I then check what is the issue and find three guys seating next to the back door outside. I first think they are the thieves but then realize that they might be the guards sent to check our house and they might think I am the thief.

I am with my Norwegian friend in front of a new art academy. As I look at the spherical roof a teacher brings us to an oval table with other researchers. The guy in front of me is Finnish but starts presenting himself in Swedish. When my turn come I then only say I am a Swedish doctorate.

I am walking in a forest and reach a city where I find a man begging. I don't pay attention to him and just walk forward but he also comes along and I realize that he is biking around the country. I also have my bike on the other side of the city and I am doing exactly the same experience.

I am in a field where different pieces of wood are placed in different shapes. I am actually assigned with one shape and should try to see how it can connect to identical shapes. I then try to move the pieces around but realize that they are parts of a robot and get a little girl to wear them for me.

I am on a bus on the way to my parents old house and listen to a guy who is complaining about the traffic. He has very smart solutions to solve it and I am really impressed. Two women in front of me are gossiping about him and I look up his time on-line and find he has travel the world.

I am in an American library with my girlfriend. We are about to go out but realize that we have to go through a receptionist. She has a list of people that are now in the library and I can see they are mostly Latinos. She wants us to pay and my girlfriend has to remind me our card number.

I am walking in front of a new gallery space. It is actually a group of young Italian artists who are running and I check out how they are painting the white wall so that it looks like it is made of blue stones. It is very beautiful but then I see some drawings on the window and find them very ugly.

I am at a party seating on a side and looking at the people dancing. One of them comes forward asking me whether I know a girl. I actually remember her from the time she was following me on social media. She is there and comes forward to introduce herself but then starts kissing my nose.

I am in a library talking to a politician. She is telling me how good is the major of our town in the mountains. I then tell her how bad he was handling the building of my museum but she insists that he should be major for another round. I conclude reminding that he was part of the far right.

I am in a terrace with the bar tender and his wife. I actually let them seat and bring them a very good cappuccino made with an old machine. They are really impressed with it and the wife has also some questions about my art project. I then let her watch while I write my dreams on paper.

I am in an old car with a girl driving through the countryside. I am actually supposed to take to a convent but there is hailstorm on our left side and it is sunny on our right. She is very fascinated with the situation and I stop the car in front of the convent to kiss her but she doesn't react.

I am in a park building a playground and realize that it is almost closing hour. I then hide behind a bush so that I can keep working and see some screws are still missing in the back of the wooden castle I am building. My boss actually comes with a beer and I realize that we have extra time.

I am at a concert seating behind a piano where a young prodigy is about to play. There is another woman on the other side and the boy takes his seat between us. He then starts play and I can see that his fingers are really fast but he does not press the keyboard hard enough to make sound.

I am visiting a new city with a small group of people and we get to go up the highest building. The elevator goes up like an escalator and we are able to see inside all the terraces of the people living there. I then tell a girl next to me about a friend who also lived like that but suddenly died.

I am in a small square with my architect and look for a place where to print his technical drawings for my new project. He also made an animation of it and I wonder if we can ask the shop to export it but the man in the shop is dumb a cannot even use the printer to cut circles in the final print.

I am on the phone with a Dutch colleague and he tells me that he is going to use his car to go to a shop. I can also use my car but as I hang up my two female colleagues tell me that it is not allowed to use our private vehicles. I then think of buying a new one similar to that of the company.

I am in a garden with my spiritual friend and he gives me a south American necklace with a god carved on stone. He puts it around my neck and tells me never to remove it but it is tight and I go in a kitchen to find a thread to add. I find a white one and I try to replace without him seeing me.

I am at work looking at one of my colleagues suddenly showing how good he is dancing. I think my boss is going to be upset but he really likes it and invites everyone to dance. I don't want to and just seat against the wall and look at how all the young people have learned to dance the same way.

I am walking inside a bed and breakfast that it is very late. The owner is actually asleep on a chair waiting for me but I keep on walking to my room. I then put myself on a bulk bed to sleep but the owner also comes to lay down on the same sleep. She is very old but I am not too disgusted.

I am on a big road with my girlfriend carrying our daughter in her shoulders while I am carrying our son. I see that there is a path on our left that goes up the mountains and I propose her to walk on it. It must be much faster than walking on the road but she insists on going straight ahead.