

I am biking in a city with a lot of traffic when a girl starts biking next to me. She tells me that I must have my lights on ans I do so but the red one is in the front and the white in the back. I then stop on a sidewalk to fix them and the girl leans against me and demands me to caress her hair.

I am walking with my dead grandfather in the French capitol. He shows me where the liberating forces where stationed after the war and then we keep on walking along the river. He then warns me that it will make a big turn and get back to the city but I can see a mountain in the distance.

I am in the field of my mountain museum cutting some long pieces of iron with a grinder. The neighbours of my village comes to see me and their son says that my grinder is too big. I then tell him that I have two smaller ones but for this jog I need a big one but then realize he is maybe right.

I am walking on a pathway under the roof of a big barn. I then realize that the gratings are very well placed and it is very safe. A I walk out I find that the owners have been up all night and are still playing very loud music and are not willing to go to bed even though their eyes are all black.

I am in a hotel chatting with two security guards. I am actually about to leave but they tell me of a very nice walk in a abnormal mountain. It is a religious pilgrimage and the walk takes place in the night. I then look at some photos on my tablet and see that a group of people walking back.

I am at a beach with other students when our philosophy professor tells us to swim all together. It is actually very easy and until the water is clear I follow him but as soon as it turns dark I decide to turn around together with an older students afraid that if we go too far it will be hard to return.

I am talking to the lobbyist of a courthouse. She wants to know who my girl is and I explain who her sister is. I then go in the room where they are still considering my case but one of the testimonies is wearing a bomb and another one is forced to sign a contract to avoid him to explode himself.

I am walking inside a house and find a girl waiting for me in the entrance. I then giver her kiss but she tells me that I cannot because the state TV is on. I then walk in the room where a lot of people is watching TV and separate my daughter and my younger son making fun of the state run TV.

I am in a studio with a friend when I see a German girl with her friend getting in the building. I then knock on the window but they don't seem to hear me. I anyway let go since one of them has a boyfriend but then find my friend putting in an album the photos of when they were little.

I am walking on a road and get to a square where there are a lot of dog running around. I then take a tennis ball and throw it to them but one of the owner tells me I shouldn't get licked by the biggest dog since he has a disease. The dog comes back with the ball and start licking all of my arm.

I am on a field trip with other students and reach the studio of an artist. It is very big but I soon realize that the artist is my former Jewish American girlfriend. As I start to panic a bit other students pull one of her work out and put it in the water. It is supposed to float but it starts sinking.

I am in a coastal town with my former Dutch colleagues. Our boss wants us to bike all the way to a far away town in the inland. I want to disobey and just wait for everyone to leave with their racing bikes to bike home but the secretary is still waiting next to my bike to see where I am going.

I am at my old work seating with a colleague and listening to our boss. He wants to do some laser cutting and we both have suggestions about it. He is actually very satisfied about my advice and I think he is going to ask me to work for him again but he just shakes my hand and I leave.

I am in a helicopter taking a soldier to a canyon to execute a prisoner. I am actually a friend of the prisoner and need to liberate him but as we arrive to the canyon the general tells me to wait inside with him. I then pretend to be too hot and he consents that I seat on the roof while he drives.

I am entering a restaurant and see a blond girl working by the entrance. As I enter the terrace I see that the same girl is seating with my friends on a long table. I then seat in front of her but she moves again and start asking how to cut a metal plate. I know the answer but she is too far away.

I am walking in an old city with my youngest son when a bus arrives. It is also very old and I decide to stop it. I want to ride it a bit with my son to go faster across the street but the driver sees that my son is not wearing a diaper and refuses to drive with us. I agree but loose his pacifier.

I am at a meeting with an old American colleague. I remember she was a professor in a Finnish university but then had to move to an English academy. Here she lost her job and had to start from the beginning. I feel pity for her and I caress her hair. They are short and of a weird red colour.

I am in an atelier with a lot of other artists. As I walk around to check their work I see one of them searching for a scissor. I then realize that she is making a sculpture using many scissors of different kinds stuck in a rock. The scissors have also transformed into the rock and I wonder how.

I am waiting on a road with a guy who challenges me to fight. I then box so hard that he gets hurt. When his friend arrives we pretend like nothing happened but he soon realizes I beat his friend and punches me in the belly. I actually also punch him in his belly and he falls on the ground.

I am in an empty parking lot with a lot of garage. I am actually working for an old carpenter and help him with another young carpenter to fix one of the garages. It is an easy job and I am happy I can get paid only to work occasionally whenever I want. I then leave with everyone most happy.

I am in a big warehouse looking for a forklift to buy for my uncle. I find it but have to tell the cashier the code so that she can put it in her computer. There are some digits but they are not correct and she improvises other digits but they turn out to be those used for a box of screws I don't want.

I am at a conference and talk to the American organizer before seating down. As he gets started introducing the conference I suddenly remember I had another appointment. I then try to write a message on my phone but the American organizer reproaches me and say I can do that later.

I am with a very fat guy in a disco where an Italian friend is hugging with three other girls. He seems quite drunk and I don't want to keep there any longer. I then have the fat guy to transport me on his back but he is in love with one of the three girls who is actually very tiny and skinny.

I am walking down a hill to an international kindergarten where I left my children. The lady at the reception lets me in to see how they are doing. They seem happy and I seat down with them and play a game with their teacher. The latter gets me to stand and tells the children to decorate me.

I am in a kitchen with the laundry machine going fast. I am not sure it is good for the clothes inside and just change program to make it go slower. My girlfriend gets in to check and I don't tell her anything but then realize that I put a program with a very cold temperature and it won't work.

I am walking with a friend up the bed of a dried out river. There is a woman biking ahead of us and the friend tells me that she is a champion and can make it to the top in no time. I then look at her pushing hard over the rocks and ask myself what is the purpose of all her incredible effort.

I am seating on the sofa of a small apartment when I hear the doorbell. It is the neighbour's daughter dressing like Santa Claus and bringing the presents for our son. I then cover his eyes and ears and let her come in. She just puts two red bags on our small Christmas tree and then leaves.

I am in the house of my German artist friend helping him with some wallpaper on a long wall. It is actually an old bed sheet I am attaching with gyps and he is quite satisfied of my work but I realize it is not straight. A Dutch musician friend is also there and removes it to do it again straighter.

I am in a square trying to prepare for a history class. The teacher is also there and I get to know that we have to study another chapter. I don't have it and she cuts it off from her own book so that I can study it. I then leave her in peace but then realize that she gave me a foreign translation.

I am in a fast-food looking at a Russian woman getting a cocktail. She even walks inside the kitchen to prepare it herself and I also follow. I then realize they manages to get the kitchen out of an wine cellar and take a picture of me tasting a loaf of bread even though they are busy inside.

I am working on my vegetable garden and realize that I have left a white sheet over the tomato plants. It is now very hot and I remove it and only to find that the plants underneath have not grown. My mountain neighbour offers to take care of them and start to remove the seeds from a tomato.

I am in a square where I just bought a used carousel. As I am removing the sticker from the previous owner it starts turning and some kids get on it without paying. I just let them turn but realize that there is something wrong with the engine as it keeps on accelerating and decelerating.

I am at a ticket office trying to buy a ticket for a ferry. There is a billboard between me and the lady at the cashier. At last she has to come out of her boot to talk to me and tells me the price of the ticket. I am up for it and she goes back in so that I can but I did not ask about my children.

I am in an office and realize that the mountain above it is catching fire. I then get my camera out on time to photograph wild horses escaping down. I think I got some images but when I show them to the guys around I realize I have only taken pictures of cows and they are not so good.

I am walking in a small garden with my oldest son. As we walk up a staircase I realize that it is soon time to leave again. We were together so little and I feel very sad about it. I then began to miss the time we were always together and wish it would have stayed that way but it is now too late.

I am looking at a guy welding a panel from a crane. The panel is already welded and I don't get what he is up to. I then go check the work inside the building area and see that they have welded a structure in the ground. It is next to a cottage I wanted to build and decide to make it larger.

I am walking with my children along a river. There is a high wall next to us and we cannot see the water but soon reach a castle. The road ends there and we have to go back but before we do so I try to show my children how it is inside. We cannot get in but I find a spot where a lot can be seen.

I am in a car with my best friend and two other girls. One of them is his girlfriend but the other seating next to me is just a friend. They want to go all the way to an Albanian city but I find that it is too much driving. I then ask to just make it to a Croatian island but they don't want to.

I am in a small square seating in front of a black guy who is examining me and another girl on a Roman philosopher. I then start telling him all I know but then he asks me how the philosopher related to god. As I try to answer some friends of the guy arrives and he just go to welcome them.

I am on a bus going down a forest road when the female drivers starts driving through a field. I can actually see my project museum on top of it but we soon drive back down in the forest. As we arrive my girlfriend gives me a lot of business cards of people who are willing to give me a hand.

I am in an office working on an old computer when a rich guy comes to congratulate me for my project museum. I don't know how to respond and just show him pictures on how it is evolving. They are actually quite bad and I cannot select one that shows also the floors I have put inside.

I am in a pub and go to a corner to play a video-game on a console. I have to input the name of the game I want o play and I decide to go for one with dinosaurs. I then try to type it but there are only silly games appearing and I realize that people behind me are watching and it is embarrassing.

I am driving with my girlfriend in a used car we recently bought. The car dealer is also seating behind inspecting it as if he wants to buy back from us. Touching the seats he realizes that we still have the paper he used to protect them underneath the cloth. I then manage to remove it entirely.

I am walking next to a bridge to a parking lot when a TV crew stops me. They want to know about a fascist leader who was recently imprisoned and I tell them that I have talked to him for his birthday. Suddenly I realize that I am on my way to drive to the prison to give him some flowers.

I am in front of a gate and hear the people on the other side speaking Norwegian. I then talk to them in English and they invite me inside. As I am crossing a small swimming pool that is next to the gate I hear people speaking Swedish. This time I turn around and talk to them in their language.

I am in a big classroom doing an exam. I don't really know what I have to do but notice that the students in front of me are all drawing. They are also all Chinese but not the teacher. As I look at him I realize he must have been an old acquaintance and as the exam finishes we go out together.

I am in a small house about to give a party but the people leaving right next to us are renovating their house and it is a mess. Some guests arrive already and I tell them where the food is but then realize we have a huge room with two levels and I have made a lot of food for all the many guests.

I am reading an article a student wrote about wearable technologies. She is saying that the whole trend is dead and that there are only a few products that are promising. One of them is a device to be worn in the finger but I also know of other devices one can wear in other parts of the body.

I am seating in a park with other people. Among them is also the American girl who helped me with the building of my museum. Her back is itchy and she asks an ugly old man next to her to take a stick and scratch her. Another guy was her boyfriend and complains she only wants to fuck.

I am with my best friend driving a tractor up a mountain. It gets really steep but we anyway manage to the top. We are actually too high and my friend starts pushing the tractor down a terrace. I then get out not to get hurt on time and watch the tractor land perfectly without any damage.

I am walking up a staircase searching for the floor where my new apartment is. It has been subsidized by the state and I see that also other people are searching for one. We reach a metal staircase but it is too high up and I see that I will never be able to reach it safely. I then give it up.

I am at the opening of a festival with my girlfriend and kids. Only the artists are there and I wonder where the Dutch curator is. She completely ignored my emails and I go out of the room to search for her. I find her going in and I start jellying at her what one feels to be completely ignored.

I am in a classroom having a discussion with two professors. One of them finds that I can invite whoever I want to our next meeting. They both try to think of a professor with my competences but realize that they are all too specific and that I am too eclectic. They then think it is not a good idea.

I am in a small shop to get a new bike but the owner only takes a measurement of my head using a special device. I then wonder how he can determine the size of the bike based on my head but in the end in only gets me a helmet. I also want one for my son but the bill gets way too expensive.

I am in the terrace of a holiday home with my family. My girlfriend finds a white inflatable boat to bring to the seaside. It is quite old but I agree we can bring it along and fit it in the car. It is quite deflated and I get ready to blow a lot of air inside even though I might get hyperventilated.

I am on one side of a big river asking one of my mountain neighbours where her husband went. She then explains to me that he is taking fishing lessons right on the opposite side. The river is actually too wide and I don't see him but realize it is a good place where to go swimming with my kids.

I am in the hills coaching a guy on his bike. I then tell him to go up a path without knowing anything about it. As I keep on following I realize that it ends up in a small canyon but the guy is good enough to jump across it and get on another path that it is much steeper and harder to bike on.

I am in a warehouse when a lady calls me. She is working for a shop and is sad to tell me that she was not able to get me something that starts with a letter. She assumes I know what she means but I don't and she just hints at a shelf. I did not need them and I am glad she could not order it.

I am in a kitchen playing with a little girl who is already crawling on the floor. She is actually my newly born daughter and realize that unlike my older daughter she is blond and blue eyes. I feel very young and start crawling around after her making her laugh very hard every time I catch her.

I am biking with another guy up a forest. It is very steep but I manage very well. There are only some kids playing on the path and I have to get off the bike to tell one to move out. We then reach a hotel room where we should rest but the guy biking with me is very agitated and I cannot sleep.

I am hiking with my family in a valley and have no idea where we are going. We find a picnic table and decide to stop and think whether we want to walk forward. Our mountain neighbours suddenly drive the other direction and I then think we should keep walking till where they parked.

I am on a train and want to stop at the next station so that I can take a train to go back. The latter train is already at the station but as we go pass it the train I am on does not stop. I then realize I had to push a button like on a bus and do so at the following station but there are no trains.

I am in a town with an old cousin and her American husband. I actually tell him to park his huge pickup faraway from the downtown as I don't think he can find any parking there. He agrees even though he is born in that village and knows very well other parking spots that are in the center.

I am in an apartment with my girlfriend getting ready to bring our daughter to school. As I check on my phone I find a message from her teacher asking whether our daughter will resume school on the date we agree before the summer holiday. This is in a few days and I almost forgot about it.

I am walking with my oldest son next to a lake. I actually wanted to stay with him there to swim but he wants to go to the city. He starts walking there but he is naked and I just have my underwear on. I then try to convince him that we will have to go home first and put some clothes on.

I am in a big shop selling electronics. We actually need a TV at home and I look at some unknown brands that are really expensive. In the back I find some computers that have very good monitors and are just a bit more expensive. I then think I should rather by one of those and stream movies.

I am playing a video-game with a boy who lives at the seaside. Suddenly a giant monster appears and starts eating underneath the cliff right behind him. The top of the cliff falls on the boy but he is still half out of it and I try to rescue him but then realize that not even a caterpillar can do that.

I am in an art studio talking to my German artist friend. My girlfriend is also there and he tells us how when he was still at the art academy there was a gallery buying his paintings. As the gallerist got poor our friend anyway moved to another German city and another gallerist approached him.

I am in a police office lining up with other foreign workers to sign a paper. As my turn arrives I get my ID card out and sign a form. I then leave but then realize I forgot to put my social security number. It is too late and a policeman starts asking me more specific questions about my profession.

I am walking out of an America station with other guys who are going to take a bike trip together. I don't have a bike and their guide gives me a spare one. It is a racing bike but the handle is that of a normal bike and I find it quite hard to seat but it goes very fast and I keep in front of everyone.

I am watching some old news showing a Turkish fleet in front of an occupied territory. An American fleet arrives to recapture it but the Turkish fleet starts to bombard it. The captain of the American fleet then manages to find an hiding place while also bombarding back without any success.

I am at a party and meet my old Polish friend. I then try to make up with him and tell him I will visit him in the Swedish capital. He doesn't want to and says that he is now a professor and works in a different city in a special department. I then go to another room to gossip with my girlfriend.

I am at my old job cutting a metal bar in the same length. I have no idea what I should use it for and just ask my boss. She is angry I left all the pieces in one room but then shows me how I have to make a teapot welding the pieces together. The pieces are actually too long and I don't get her.

I am in a trench with other soldiers when our commander comes in. As a punishment she wants us to build higher a structure we built in the middle of the trench. I find it a very absurd idea and I go in the castle where her office is to tell her that we should at least make the trench stronger.

I am watching a movie about a black guy taking his kid to a cemetery. In front of a monument there is a pile of graves belonging to his friends who have been decapitated. The name of one of them is misspelled and he tells the undertaker to correct it before playing with his son throwing stones.

I am in the hills with my Argentinian friend and we try to see who is stronger pulling a rope. We are equal but then I realize that he is using two hands and with the other hand I manage to pull him all the way to me while our German friend is watching. I don't dare to compete with the latter.

I am at a farm of some friends who tells me that my Polish friend is no longer working for them. They had a Swiss couple for some time but they soon left. Inside the their farm there is a priest who is telling about an ark and I try to listen but a wax leopard starts biting me and I move away.

I am in the garden of a villa where the royal family is celebrating. My oldest son is also blue blood and I stand in front of them for a picture. He is actually coming with another princess from the airport and as he arrives we take a seat in a special part of the garden for only blue blood people.

I am seating in a huge hall listening to a concert. The singer asks whether the public wants him to continue or whether it is better he comes back another time. Everyone but me wants him to stay and I just stand up to go to the bathroom and check another part of the building that is a castle.

I am at a restaurant with a couple who used to curate a sculpture park in my native highland. The man tells me that they got another terrain and they just want to keep all the sculptures inside it. I then assume that the woman is also living there but she is staying at a monastery in town.

I am with my children at school when I see a teenager looking at them. He brought them there and I realize I have to bring him to his school. I then walk with him across a big building and finally find his classroom where we start building a wooden puzzle that is the front page of a newspaper.

I am walking with two old friends on a path when another friend calls me. He wants me to weld something for his uncle but I don't really follow him and the path ends up on a wooden board over a swamp. I almost fall down and I just put the phone away and manage to jump over the swamp.

I am in an apartment my girlfriend's older brother has rented in a forest. There are too many young trees in front and I cannot see the landscape. The floor is also way too steep and as I walk to the end I slip all the way back. I then wonder with my brother-in-law if there wasn't a better place.

I am on the second floor of a big house looking out of the window. I can hear an old friend talking with his parents about the many medicines I was supposed to prepare for him. I have only made a few and I hear him coming under my window to get the bag where all the ingredients are.

I am at the entrance of an amusement park with my oldest son. My girlfriend and our kids are already inside and I also pay for two tickets. It is a lot of money and I ask if we can leave a bag somewhere. It is not possible but as we walk further I find a foulard on the ground and put it in the bag.

I am in my parents' old house broadcasting a radio program. I walk down the stairs and reach the living room where I get a bit distracted looking outside the curtains. I am not even sure the broadcast is working even though it is featured by the main radio channel and I cannot screw up.

I am watching TV during the day and find that there is a commercial with an indigenous girl standing naked on a boat. She is very wild but suddenly she appears dressed in western clothes with another indigenous girl. In the next scene they are both naked again and all wet by a waterfall.

I am in a big apartment with my girlfriend and hear my old mountain neighbour jellying. She is trying to tell me that I have some visitors in my other apartment down the river and I grab a bike to hurry up but my girlfriend's bike gets attached to it and I realize that the latter is without wheels.

I am with my oldest son in a restaurant speaking Italian. A person near us wonders what language we are speaking and I just draw on the table cloth the European map. I then show him where they speak Spanish and where they speak French and then assume he knows what language is left.

I am walking in the back road of an American city looking for a supermarket. I cannot find one and just seat on a bench looking at the people passing by. I then realize I just came from the wild and I am not used to be in a city anymore. I try to look at the city skyline as it was still a forest.

I am going out of an hotel when a young girl hugs me. She wants to become my girlfriend and I agree. We then decide to have dinner together in the hotel restaurant but I first have to eat with other people and she has to eat with her father. She is not happy about it and I regret to be together.

I am in an apartment with my parents and a friend. They actually want him to leave but I try to explain that he is very important to me. We either way have to fix the floor of the living room and realize we will have to go to the hardware store to buy wood and my friend will need to come along.

I am with my girlfriend driving my tractor on a big road. Suddenly a guy driving a big crane in front of us starts to back up and goes over our engine. I then starts to beep and he finally realizes what he has done. I then hold one of his arm behind his back waiting for the police to intervene.

I am building a shed next to the road of my project museum. My hunter neighbour comes with another old man to inspect it. I assume they want to cause more troubles but I start talking to them and they seem quite kind. I then shake hands with the hunter to make peace and stop fighting.

I am in a hostel lobby laying on a sofa to rest when the daughter of my parents' old neighbours comes seat next to me. I then think she wants to chat but she is soon busy on the phone and starts talking to another guy. They are actually planning to travel together very far and for very long.

I am in a school with the war raging outside and have to use a new machine to weld out in the balcony. I then prepare myself to do so but at last decide to use my own welder. As I crawl on the balcony I start welding some fake flowers but realize they are made of wood and I can only glue them.

I am looking at a book with an Indigenous pyramid. I read that the European priests could only bade in the bottom one while the Indigenous priests could get purify in the top one. I then try to look where in the pyramid are these pools and find them in a good illustration on another page.

I am having lunch with my German artist friend and his girlfriend in their garden. I want to hear some music and my friend goes in to get a pile of CDs. I then look at them and realize they are all experimental music I don't like. They actually choose to play the very last one I never heard of.

I am in a gym looking at two girls getting ready to break with a karate movement a pile of bricks. As I check more carefully I realize that the bricks are only condensed oil and the strongest of them is not even sure she is going to be able to penetrate with her hands to half of only one of them.

I am in a garden with my girlfriend. We are already up north and our holiday down south is over already. I realize that the summer has just began and I get quite angry with her. I then start insisting that I want to go back south and spend more of our holiday there since she is home from work.