

I am in a big shop with my wife and find large panels showing different colours. I like a dark pink one and the textures it leaves but my girlfriend prefers a lighter version. I either way go for the darker one and get in line to pay it but I see my girlfriend checking through other colour buckets.

I am in a laboratory looking at the demonstration of a Japanese scientist. He is using a special pen he has invented to write on whatever surface. He also shows how he can make a circle around whatever text he wrote to erase it leaving no trace of it but a label from a computer program.

I am in one of my mountain fields and find that an artist has put a real size sculpture of an elephant at the border. My wife is also with me and I tell her of a really good idea I just got. I want to put a locomotive looking like it is trying to go under the elephant's trunk but she doesn't get the joke.

I am with a Japanese girl in a market and manage to give her homemade ice-cream to an Indian seller. He only wants one taste and we try to convince another seller to buy one made with a kiwi-like fruit. Another Japanese seller tries it and decides to buy it from her and give her a royalty.

I am driving at night with two other guys and realize that I must have taken the wrong road. We actually reach a group of far right protesters and they start splashing our car. My window is open but they suddenly recognize me and stop splashing. Their leader must have told them about me.

I am in a living room with some American activists. One of the seats naked on top of me and expects to be fucked. I then tell her I am married and just leave her to a guy who is trying to lick my ear. By the time I leave the room everyone is fucking with someone and I feel relief to be out of it.

I am in a Chinese palace following a guy down a secret staircase and through an hidden door. He discovers a secret meeting and the leader wants to execute him with an ax but then only kills him with a blowgun. She spares me and we start talking about the training with do in the morning.

I am in a shop listening to a young guy working there. He is telling me of a product I should buy to build a wall with. He wants me to go to another shop but I realize that the bag I am carrying with my lunch is dripping. I just go out not saying anything and it actually stops the dripping.

I am in a hostel and hear that there is a southern Italian staying there. I then go say hi to him and I realize he is from the same region as another guy in the hostel. I then tell them to sleep together and get in my bed but an old lady all dressed with flowers and her breast out gets on top of me.

I am in a cafe crawling under the tables and find that on one of them is my father with his new wife. She looks quite gorgeous and they even have a baby who looks like me when I was a kid. I then remember that he even wrote me about him and I decided to wait he gets older to look after him.

I am in a room talking to a guy who got married to a Korean girl. He tells me how he didn't want to go to the rooms below but he once did it and that is how they met. His heart was so hit by the event that he immediately asked her to marry him even though they never talked to each other.

I am on top of a mountain with my youngest son. It is the first time he puts skies on and I just encourage him to go down the hill. He does so and and manages open up his skies and stop at the bottom but a new slope begins and I have to stop him before he gets on some snowboard jumps.

I am at an Italian friend's house seating with him at the kitchen table. His Indian wife is cooking for us and tells him to add banana to a curry she is making. He doesn't understand and keeps seated but I get what she means and just stand up to slice a banana inside a pot to then squeeze it.

I am in my mountain village talking to our neighbours. I then see how they have been putting concrete over a cable as not to trip over it. They also tell me about a Romanian woman who left a snail in their daughter's luggage and now she has become very itchy and is building a program to heal.

I am with my wife in the garden of a big house. We actually bought four small plants and we take two each and see where we can plant them. As I find one place that it is not too close to other plants I realize that it is not our garden and the lady inside is taking very good care of it already.

I am in my family villa feeling very sad that my cousins have sold it. As I walk out of it I realize that part of the big garden is now a wine bar. I don't drink alcohol but want to anyway talk to the owner. As I approach I realize he sold the rest of the garden to his neighbours to park their cars.

I am walking down a hill and meet my older brother-in-law walking up. He asks me how I have been and I tell him of all the walking I just did. As we depart I realize I haven't asked him what he has been up to. As I do so we keep on walking away from each other and he tells me of his walk.

I am on top of a beach observing the ocean with a binocular. It is very transparent and I can clearly see the bottom of it. A shark is very near the coast and approaches a woman talking to her husband on the phone. I am about to warn her but She is not afraid and just get on its back for a ride.

I am with my wife bringing our daughter to school and approach her classmates who are seating outside the door. I have a big concrete tile with me and just show it to them but my wife gets very upset saying it is inappropriate. As she leaves I realize each of them is seating under a concrete tile.

I am seating in a room with a naked Russian woman on my right. My German artist friend is actually seating on the other side of her and I see him writing down his phone number. I am actually quicker and just give her mine. I then think she would go for me but she actually goes for him.

I am in a bathroom putting my wife's lotion on my hairs. It is supposed to make them curly but they actually turn out straight. I like them like that and realize they even changed to a different color. I wish I could keep them the way they look but wonder what will happen when they dry up.

I am in my native village and walk in a shop to buy a new dress. The owner is already busy with another costumer and I just take a seat. As the costumer leaves the owner's mother comes in and find that he has stolen the wallet of the former. They don't find it a big deal and just give it back.

I am with my wife walking through a park when we meet our Neapolitan friend. He let his hair grow long and has sardines attached to them. His dance studio is just behind him and he invites us to a party there. We then go and queue up to get a dish of rice with some vegetarian sausages.

I am in the kitchen of my old mountain neighbour. It is her birthday and I realize that a man has just bought her a lot of cooking utensils. They seem to be of a good quality but cannot be put in order because she has no available drawer. I then realize I have removed the one under the table.

I am in a museum where a lot of pictures of racing bike competitions are piled on a long table. A female biker is also there and tells me about how many of them are queer. I don't believe her but then she shows me how the piles in the middle are all about queer bikers doing their activism.

I am in a pub with my wife and realize that I have just won the lottery. I don't remember having bought the ticket but then realized that she used my tablet to buy one and it automatically registered my name. We then think of using the money to build a restaurant on top of our house.

I am in an apartment with a guy painting the ceiling. We also need to paint the walls and I send a girl to buy another bucket of white colour. I then have time to talk to the guy who tells about a small speaker he wants to install in one of the rooms. I also tell him to install a small microphone.

I am in the French president's office. He has adopted me and just tries to understand whether I have to learn the language to attend a local school. His secretary is doing the research and I explain that it is not a problem for me to learn another language but they decide for an American school.

I am watching a film about a boy being taken away by the police in the middle of the night. As he seats in the back of the car with a detective he shows the latter how a word repeats in the book at exactly the last paragraph of a page. It is the clue of the murder the boy is being charged with.

I am in a campsite and join a guy with whom I am sharing a large tent. He complains about the fan of a trailer I am building for myself but then tells me of a tablecloth near my vegetable garden. I suddenly remember there is one there to show a path in the high grass but I never walked there.

I am in a trade show checking out some pipes. The Chinese ones are very cheap and a lot of people tries to order them. There is also a man selling Italian pipes but no one is willing to buy then even though he cut the prices to half. I then inquire with him about a transparent pipe he is selling.

I am on a bus filled with Sicilian women. The ones in front of my are actually eating some mushrooms from a paper bag. There is a lot of spices on them and another woman tells them that I was the one making them. I then remember to have cooked them but wonder how they got to them.

I am in a bakery with my son and order a loaf of bread. The baker using a scale to see how much I should pay for it. The price is way too high and he makes the calculation again. I then get ready to pay with my card but the price turn out to be double what he first said. I then get very angry.

I am seating with my wife at a restaurant when the Syrian dictator comes in. He wants to talk to me and I follow him to his office. I don't know what is the matter but he keeps on justifying his actions. He finally releases me and I can walk in the streets picking posters against his dictatorship.

I am with my wife in an apartment were two lesbian women are mistreating their two kids. We then let them escaped on their bikes and put them in our car. As I try to use my phone to search for our way back home one of the lesbians arrives but she is totally fine with us taking the kids away.

I am in a nightclub where a black guy is performing for his upcoming spectacle. He has a glass bottle around his big penis and just puts an ecstasy pill inside. The penis manages to shoot it back out but he is not able to hit anything. As he tries again the pill hits the ass of another performer.

I am in very small apartment with a girl who is helping her mother with her evening work. The latter gets a lot of iron every three days and she has to cut it inside the apartment. I then help her to get some metal bars from the top of the fireplace. They are already cut but they are still heavy.

I am walking with the daughter of my mountain neighbour on a road next to our fields. I am actually trying to see where I should put the replica of a lifeboat I have in mind but all the fields are too deep down and too steep. As we walk further I notice that some of them are even getting forested.

I am in a car with my dead grandfather. I actually have an appointment at a hospital but he is driving really slow. I then tell him to speed up even though it is already too late. As we arrive I find the officer I was supposed to meet already waiting for me outside and I follow her to a small room.

I am walking on a nice coast with a very quiet sea below. There are actually no beaches there but I can see that there is one at the end where the sea gets very agitated. I walk there anyway even though there are a lot of girls laying down among a lot of garbage and there is no space to walk.

I am in a small country road and see a small car coming towards me. It has a big trailer behind and I realize that it is carrying several other cars of the same kind. I then count the number and realize that they are very many considering the weak engine of this model and how old it is.

I am on a train with my wife and she asks me what I think if she also has a relationship with her former boyfriend. I tell her that I would break up with her and she walks to another wagon to tell him. I then see through a mirror that he tries to kiss her and I just stand up to beat him up.

I am in a dark room with a woman breastfeeding her child. I am actually the father of the latter together with another guy. I then ask whether I can spend some time with them after the weekend and propose to go for a walk. The woman agrees even though the other guy proposed swimming.

I am cross country skiing on a large plateau. There is no one around me and I feel like I am winning. As I actually see the end line two other skiers get quite close to me and I have to push very hard to keep up with them. We are almost all in a line but at the last moment I manage to win.

I am in a beer hall listening to women trying to organize an international event only for themselves. There are some guys seating on a table in the middle and I bang my fist to say we should also organize an event for guys. I have very good motivations but they are drunk and unable to respond.

I am in the living room of our Dutch house with my wife and her mother. The latter's boyfriend is also there and doesn't look so happy with my but then my wife hugs her mother and everything seems fine again. I then tell him that I am still not okay for the way his girlfriend is treating us.

I am up a forest and hear some old people talking below. They are from my mountain village and say that it was the best place on earth when they were young. One of them also mention how I came to screw things up and I begin to yell at him from the top of a ladder but he is on top of me.

I am in a room preparing to go fishing. I have never done it before but I wait for a friend to help me. He comes with his mother and I notice that the latter is pushing a machine resembling a grass cutter. She then explains to me that it is used to spot the fishes by pointing it at the water.

I am in a small shop I have never seen before and realize that the mother of one of my daughter's classmates is working there. She is selling colours and I help her sorting some acrylic tubes. I need to hang them but there is a plastic piece I have to remove in the back and it is too hard.

I am walking down a condominium and find a junky waiting outside. I try to avoid him and just keep on walking to the right but there is also another junky approaching. As I also manage to avoid him I realize that I am in a round square surrounded by junkies that wants to kidnap me.

I am outside of a church with a priest who is not so happy about my lack of faith. I then give him a chance and go in to listen to his preaching. On the way I find some weird fliers the interior of the church painted in futuristic motifs. He also tries to be futuristic in his speech and I hate it.

I am walking on a street with a girl but realize that we forgot our jackets at home. I only go to fetch mine and then reach my wife who is entering a Japanese restaurant. The girl is still behind and I try to show her where with are but she keeps on watching her phone with her head down.

I am in a museum waiting for my cousin to give us a guided tour. She finally arrives and I realize that she is now blond and looks quite beautiful. My lesbian curator friend is also with us and as we walk around she asks me to prepare a large painting to put somewhere in the museum.

I am in an apartment with a woman and her daughter. The latter already has a small kid and I play on the sofa with him. As I am about to leave I cross the living room and he actually manages to crawl all the way behind me. I then realize how strong he is to crawl already at his young age.

I am in the office of my Italian architect and tell him about a book I am preparing. He has been also working on it at the beginning and wants to publish it with little text and large images. I then get very stubborn and say that I want small pages and all the text I have been writing so far.

I am in a public toilette and need to brush my teeth but there is only the female bathroom open. I then keep it outside and start brushing but a ball comes my way from a nearby football field. I then throw it back and one of the players is so impressed how good I am that he comes to talk to me.

I am outside my wife's art academy and hear some students talking. They actually live in a campsite and pay a lot of money for it every evening but now they found a guy who is willing to host them for free. The latter tells how he was also living in the campsite and the owner would count them.

I am in a station walking up to a platform and hear someone tramping up the staircase. It is actually my old Polish friend and I also run up to reach him. I then tell him of the many exciting projects I want to do and wish he also gets involved but his train arrives and he just gets in and leaves.

I am walking with my best friend down a road when we see a guy on top of a factory gluing a poster on a billboard. My friend start to insult him and I keep away from him. There are other people working on the roof and they think he is drunk. He doesn't care and throws trash on another roof.

I am in a classroom with some students working with computers. I just seat down to draw when the Chinese director comes in. He gives a short speech about the Communist party and I add a small speech about the union of us students. He is impressed and invites me to a party meeting.

I am crossing a field where some guys are playing football with many balls. As I reach one of the corners a red ball comes my way and I kick but it goes back out on the opposite corner. One of the players then gets in front of the golly to try to score but another ball hits him hard in the face.

I am walking in a zoo with a young girl and her family. She is not embarrassed and just puts her arm around my waist but I really don't want to put mine around hers. As we reach a cage she goes in with her father to get some tiny bird. She comes out with one on her hands but I am afraid.

I am behind the stage of a concert hall preparing to listen to a pianist. She starts her performance but she is really clumsy. Another girl tries to help her adjusting the volume but it doesn't work. The pianist then excuses herself and just gets to use a traditional piano with the right keyboard.

I am in the lobby of an hotel and ask for a ticket to go snorkeling. The lady working there gets in another room to fetch one and I can see that there are some famous Korean actors also waiting in the corridor next to it. They are actually playing with the gate and one of them manages to lift it.

I am on a road rollerskating with my wife and our son behind us. There is suddenly a downhill and we start going quite fast. I then realize my wife is not holding our son hand but he manages to keep behind us even when a biker surpasses him. In the end we reach a quiet town with shops.

I am with friends outside a closed restaurant in my native highland when the owner comes out. One of her dogs also comes out and I am afraid another one will follow but it is only a pig. She then makes us seat at a table outside and tells us to go inside ourselves to get a cheap plate of pasta.

I am with my wife in a room and notice she is getting messages on her phone from my dead friend's mother. I then expect her to write her back but see that she only shares our location. I am quite surprised that she is so incapable to communicate but then notice she also sends a picture.

I am in a museum and try to find the place where I am supposed to build my installation. It is very messy and I finally find a tag with my name. The space is too tight and I just move more forward and begin to draw a circle on a floor. I want to make a star out of it but it is still too messy.

I am in a car with my wife driving along a river bank. I am trying to find the entrance to a pedestrian tunnel to walk on the other side but she goes too fast and we end up in a village with a lot of colorful cranes. I want her to stop so that I can film them but she keeps driving to the city center.

I am following a curator down the spiral staircase of a museum. I actually start throwing balls of clay of different colours around. It is an act of vandalism but the result is very beautiful and the curator congratulates with me and wants to do a project together. We then decide for a meeting.

I am in the home of my Italian architect at night. He is actually getting ready to go out and I just play a video-games he recommended. It is very boring and decide to watch some television instead but he comes to the living room with sneakers. I then understand he wants to go jogging with me.

I am pushing a man on a wheelchair down the platform. The train is leaving very soon and I just get on the first cart even though there is already another man on wheelchair. As we get in I get to talk to the lady accompanying the latter and realize she just leaves in a clinic most of the time.

I am in an apartment with my girlfriend. We are actually chatting with our pajamas still on and quite a mess around us. As I look out of the window I notice that two girls who wants to rent a room from us are climbing up. I then realize that they must have rang the door and we didn't hear.

I am in a big hall with a lot of people and a black guy giving out plastic coins. I don't want them and just look at him cheating other people by throwing them on top of playing cards on the ground. The coins are of either black or green and one can win a lot of money with the latter colour.

I am just behind my oldest son watching a video-game he is playing. He is supposed to be an helicopter pilot but he just flies in a suspended corridor with enemies popping up right in front. He just has to shoot them and can only turn very little. Also the graphic is too pixelated and hard to see.

I am in the back of a big house my wife and I bought when two old men come by. They actually seat on our staircase and I realize that they are coming up with a price for the house. My wife contacted them when we had too little money but now we are fine again and I just start cutting wood.

I am in a field camping with other travelers. I am actually cooking a pot of tea in the fire and I tell them how I have been picking leaves walking across the Australian desert. The girl seating next to me is also Australian and really dislikes them. I then have to come up with another subject.

I am in a house waiting for my German artist friend to arrive from the airport. We are actually supposed to travel together but I am taking my time to play with my children. As he finally arrives I realize there is too little time to catch our plane and I should have joined him directly at the airport.

I am in a field checking out the borders of one municipality with another. The one I am standing in has a small river and the opposite one is on the sea. A ferry docks there and foreign tourists come out but are very upset as their hotel is not on the seaside but all the way across an ugly square.

I am in a clinic and ask the two physiotherapists at the front desk to help me with my back. One of them is a woman and tells me that they cannot help me if I have an upper back pain. I do after digging the ground and the other physiotherapist who is gay shows me the exercises I should do.

I am in my mountain apartment and realize I have left my daughter with my aunt. She has been there for a long time and I immediately go out to fetch her but she is already on her way back by herself. My aunt gave a robot dinosaur and very sharp plastic sword that are really not for girls.

I am in a university and enter an important meeting of the main researchers there. I am also a researcher but they don't take notice of me and I just wait for them to finish and then leave. I am actually wearing some old skates and I smoothly make through a crowd and go seat in the garden.

I am in a small restaurant and order some food. The waitress then tells me that I have the same accent as a guy she knows. It is actually the second time a person says that my accent is like that person and I tell her. She then starts laughing really hard and also all the costumers around us.

I am laying in a big bed and turn on the large television right at my feet. There is actually an old movie and it shows a blond woman also laying in a bed. In the same room there is a guy and she tells him to lay in a smaller bed but then invites him to lay with her and gets him to such her tits.

I am walking in a park with my wife and realize we have now a third small tree growing in our living room. It is actually a third child it is growing in her belly and I beg her to abort it. I just finished growing up our two other child and I find it way too hard to begin again but she really wants it.

I am driving a car back home and check on my phone a road that should take me back. It is rather straight and I turn on the navigator but it takes me in the complete opposite direction on a road with a lot of curves. I hope there is a highway ahead but the road keeps on turning to nowhere.

I am watching a program showing an explosion in the Russian capital. It actually shows people flying in the air but I soon realize it all generated by a computer program. It then shows a man walking through a street in the city. He actually interviews people speaking in English without fear.

I am in the apartment of an Asian girl. She has been editing a book I wrote and I was supposed to edit her book but I didn't have time. I then seat down and start to read through it but the air is filled with cigarette smoke and I cannot handle it so much. I then decide to postpone until later.

I am on a road talking to a young philosopher when I see my former Swedish colleagues driving out from a parking lot in front of us. I don't want to make eyes contact with them and just keep on focusing on the philosopher but anyway notice the fancy big jeeps each of my colleagues bought.

I am walking on a road at night looking for a place where to buy some food. All the shops are closed but I find a supermarket and get some mandarins. The lady at the cashier wants a lot of money for them but I realize I mix them with some oranges and remove them but they are still expensive.

I am in a hostel with three other friends and search for a place where to sleep. We find some spots on top of some bulk beds and I go pay for it. There is a man behind a small window and I just give him me credit card and only later see that the price per night is way too high for what we got.

I am in a hospital next to a small giraffe. She is tied up with a plastic rope and I can see she is really suffering. I then take her for a walk down a corridor and as I open a door to another corridor she sees a black guy walking ahead of us. She thinks he is a from an African tribe and runs to him.

I am on a abandoned dike at night when a girl with big bubs approaches me. She is there to tell me that I will have to spend the night in the dike operation cabin but we start to hug and kiss. She then also adds that she might come to visit me there even though there is another guy with me.

I am walking in a church with my wife and find different arrows showing where four artists have disappeared. I then get next to one and as a priest starts preaching about them I hold a chair. The chair starts shaking hard and I get in telepathic contact with the artist but no one believes me.

I am in a metro station trying to withdraw some money but all the machines are out of order. One maybe works but a guy gets in front of me and takes a long time. As it is finally my time there are more people behind me and I try to get the money out but it requires many different pin codes.

I am seating in a tax office when a lady working there calls my name. I stand up and she asks me to think of a letter and I choose the initial of my company. I then explain her what it is about and she looks at my files saying that I cannot have such a business. I protest and she tells me to leave.

I am in a room with the Chinese president and show him a vest with pockets. One of the pockets has a mobile phone with an audio piece he made. I then tell him that I want to present in a Chinese art show but he disagree. I explain that in the other pockets there are works by other presidents.

I am in a station searching for a train to go home. I try to read the information on a screen but I don't recognize any of the cities. A Japanese girl then tells me to follow her but I first have to buy my ticket. I try to do so at a machine but there is a lot of advertisement and I don't manage.

I am in a garden with three men discussing how to renovate the window outside their club. They think of applying a corrugated plaster but I explain to them that they first need to put a wooden frame in the outside so that they can use a long metal float to put the plaster straight around it.

I am in a car with my best friend driving through my native highland. He actually wants to bring me to my village even though I don't feel like it. We then drive down a dirt road and park in the middle of the forest. As we start walking we notice a small door on a rock where a witch lives.