

I am at my best friend's son baptism and see that a kid has written a poetry on a blackboard. I then pick the kid up to read it aloud but realize that he has only written the kind of different cakes to choose from. He then demands that I choose one but they all look good and I cannot decide.

I am walking in a neighborhood with a lot of big condominiums and hear my small daughter crying. I then look up and see that a window is open and she must stay alone in that apartment. I immediately call my girlfriend to let her know that we did not hear the crying but she is not interested.

I am driving with my mother in her expensive car and I ask her why she does not have the interior yellow as her target plate. She then tells me that she does not have a yellow target plate and kept the old white one. As we get stuck in the traffic I see that all other cars have yellow target plates.

I am walking down a hill and realize that I now own a house that it is in the middle of the slope in front of me. I then go to inspect it and see that it is quite fine but the roof doesn't have anything to block the rain. I then check another identical house and see that they added a plank to do it.

I am in my Venetian apartment and notice that there is one extra bathroom in a bedroom. It still needs renovation and I get the idea that I should actually remove everything inside and turn it into an extra room to rent. As I walk out of the room I realize that the two rooms only have one exit.

I am on a road skating when I see my old Polish friend is also skating. I then reach him and tell him that I feel very sorry for the way I treated him. He is actually quite fine with it and starts telling me that he still needs to finish his thesis. I try to follow him but feel very tired and need to stop.

I am watching a documentary about a special dance that they do in an Arabic country. A Western journalist was praised for knowing it but he shows that it is too complicated. They then show random men in the desert doing it and it looks very really hardcore with them spinning on the ground.

I am in my tractor shed getting helped by a guy to rebuild the roof. We use long plastic stripes to stretch over it and already have one cut of the right dimensions. I then start cutting another one but realize that the roll we have is not long enough. The guy tells me to continue but it is hopeless.

I am watching a car race and see that the Italian team is loosing. One of their red cars get stuck in the sand but the pilot is able to back up and drive again gaining many positions. The Chinese team uses a humanoid robot that starts running very fast and no other team is able to catch it.

I am with my girlfriend on a road filled with small restaurants lining up on our left side. We actually want to eat Asian food and see that the first restaurant have no good reviews but the very last one has. We then share the sauce and I leave her half of my noodles but she eats a pasta instead.

I am checking a small land we just bought to build our house. The old house we just sold is just next to it and I realize that we should build exactly in the same way. I then think of just copying the house but realize we need the permission of the new owners and it must cost us some money.

I am checking the thick catalogue of a new electric car. As I search for the newest models I find that the company also produces trains. I am actually not so interested about the trains but about the fancy railroads that the company has produced to exhibit them. They are better than art works.

I am bathing in the Nordic sea with two local women. They are actually wearing a wet suit and tells me that we are on a site with a very high rating for scuba diving. I then notice that there are a lot of people ready to do so and feel the coral under my feet. They suddenly dive but I stay outside.

I am with my son at an exhibition and the curator shows us a comic book we can get for free. I then show my son a place where he can get it. He then walks to the corner of a room but also gets some pizzas. A fat man is there to look and tells him to put the pizzas back and only get the book.

I am walking in a valley and see my Polish friend with his girlfriend staring at a river. I then approach them and ask my friend to forgive me for my behaviour. He keeps silent and his girlfriend then say that if I want to apologize I have to swim. She throws me inside the river without warning.

I am in the entrance of a university and hang a banner announcing a workshop. I then take a marker and reproduce the name of the company facilitating the workshop on a large glass nearby. As I try to copy the letters from the banner a professor comes and changes a letter from it.

I am in a market place with a Kenyan man. He is actually talking to a small group of gangster about a bigger group. The latter have killed his father after he tried to sell sandwiches in the market. The small group then tells the man that he should take ravage by disrupting their business.

I am with my old friends about to enter an old apartment they only keep for parties. There is also an old classmate and she shows me how there are glasses attached to the mirror. One of them has fallen without breaking and I try to pick it up but the alarm sets off and we get ready to leave.

I am in a big disco and seat in the edge but realize that there is a beauty competition. I then see behind me the blond girl who got the third place and find her quite ugly. The girl who got second wraps her leg around me as she gets nominated but I cannot see whether she is pretty or ugly.

I am with my old friends getting inside a mall when a man stops one of them to tell him that his book is published. We then get invited to the book launch but I know I cannot make it. As we go to the toilette I ask my friend if they can also publish my book but he wants someone to read it first.

I am in my Venetian apartment when the American president and his family enter through the window. They are actually renting a bedroom and I am glad that we just put new furniture there. I don't hear any reactions from them but then my flatmate offers them dirty grapes and they leave.

I am walking in a big supermarket and take some biodegradable bags. As I walk in a different section I put them in my pocket and then walk back in the previous section but two guys grabs my legs to make me fall. I then talk to a friend on how to hit them back and give them a lesson.

I am at a dinner with my old friends and some relatives. On the opposite side of the room there is also my stepfather who introduces a special kind of cheese. I then go there to help him cut it and he claims that the cheese it is from the legs of special cows with very short but strong horns.

I am in a station walking along a train looking through the windows if I see a place where to sleep. I see a free bed and get inside to put my stuff there but the train starts moving and I realize that I left most of my luggage at home. I do have some tickets and I show the controller if they are valid.

I am attending a political rally and look at the protesters of the current republican president. In an opposite square I see the supporters of the former democrat presidents. He is talking about how pulled the sword out and succeeded in fixing all problems. They listen astonished of his words.

I am working on my laptop and receive the drawing of an architectural firm to build my cube. I look at them and realize that they are not really a cube with the front resembling an old facade. I actually get other drawings from a different company and they managed to build a prototype.

I am on a boat in an old city crossing a big canal. There has been a storm and the city is flooded. I am actually supposed to meet a girl but decide to stay in the ferry for another ride. As I get out I get in a cafe where the girl is waiting. She is too upset to talk to me and leaves for another date.

I am in my dead grandparents' house with my son. I need to go to the airport but my cousins also comes and he wants to stay. I then leave alone but suddenly remember that I forgot my camera inside and go back to look for it. By the time I am ready to leave it is already to late for my plane.

I am in an amusement park with my girlfriend and another couple I barely know. We actually need to get going but my girlfriend just realized that there is one of her colleagues in the park. She really wants to meet him before we leave and I just let her go by herself while I walk to our car.

I am going out of my parents' villa and put the alarm. I actually activate the sirens and realize I must have done something wrong. As I try to look on my phone for the code to remove the alarm I see through the window three guys running down the staircase. I then let it on and run to a forest.

I am walking with my stepfather up the Himalayan plateau and reach the highest peak that is dark. There is actually a church on top and we get inside that the priest is giving the communion. He actually comes to us and give me a wafer but then gives several ones to my stepfather to eat.

I am with two girl bathing in an alpine lake. One of them is very ugly and the other quite beautiful. The latter asks me to walk with her to a nearby city and I do so but leave my pouch with the other girl. As we reach the center the beautiful girl finds her classmates and stops caring about me.

I am inside a university and seat on top of a big auditorium. There is actually a missionary there and I ask him how he manages to keep his church warm in winter. He then tells me that he only goes on a mission twice a year since he is persecuted with other Christians by the government.

I am on a ski slope watching snowboarders making jumps on a small hill. My cousin is among them and I realize that he is actually wearing skies. He tries to jump but they are not made for it and he falls down. Another guy with skies also tries and manages to do a beautiful jump in the air.

I am in an outdoor swimming pool with a guy who gets to meet a beautiful girl. I hear them setting a date and the guy falls in the water out of happiness. As I told him that now he will smell chlorine another girl comes to talk to me and I realize that she is uglier than that of my friend but okay.

I am walking in a big city when a homeless warns me about a pedophile approaching from an under passage. He actually looks very scary and I jump over an handrail to avoid him. As he gets more in the daylight I realize that he is not a pedophile and the homeless was just kidding.

I am on a van with one of my mother's workers approaching my native mountains. I see water falling down the peaks and a guy walking on a rope. The worker then tells me that we are also supposed to use ropes for a simple excursion. As we park he gives me some special shoes but I refuse.

I am in the office of the Italian authority trying to get permission to build my cathedral. I first talk to a lady and try to convince her to make a phone call to the director. As she does it I get to talk to a Lithuanian employee who gives me the mathematical formula to build the altar.

I am in a museum assisting an old German artist who have built a stone bridge outside. He then tells how he has built it in order to have a view over a river which has now disappeared. He then shows us a documentary where we can see that there was a stream a wind below one end.

I am driving on a small mountain road with a friend and all of a sudden remember that there was a storm there. On the news it was a big thing but I don't see any fallen trees. I then look more carefully and see that the trees by the road are actually bent and the wind must have been powerful.

I am in my uncle's house seating on the sofa with one of my cousins. He is actually helping me to remove a photo preview from my phone messenger. He manage to change a setting and I get back editing a video for my best friend. As I don't manage to export it my aunt arrives and wants a kiss.

I am in my mountain apartment with my ex wife and I try to light the fire in a Swedish ceramic stove. I actually need more wood and I walk outside to get it but when I get back inside it is dark and my ex thinks I am a thief. I try to talk to her but she holds my neck and I can't make talk.

I am walking in a big American city and find a bag with trash. I then take it with me and go to seat in a square next to two Japanese tourists. I actually want to look inside the bag but the girl next to me starts touching me between the legs. As I stretch my arms out she suddenly stops.

I am in the cafeteria of a hostel talking to some young girls. I cannot really say where they are from and they tell me of a city. I already heard that name and check it on my phone. I then see a map of Balkan country with fire and realize that they are war survivals. The city must be all rebuilt.

I am with my small daughter walking through a Polish city and reach an abandoned square. I realize it could be dangerous there and I walk across it. There are two guys approaching us and I get ready to hit them with an old phone but then I see a cafe to my right and go inside.

I am in my mountain village with my girlfriend talking to my neighbour's son about my installation. I already approved the design of another architect but he wants to go through all the papers with me. I then try to skip the ones designed by the other architect and only show his sketches.

I am walking in a Chinese city with my former colleagues and see a group of locals carrying some equipment on a cart. I already know that it is to sing karaoke in the park but my colleagues try to ask them about it. Across the street they also find a shop selling the equipment for little money.

I am walking on a big road with the Finnish girlfriend of my old Russian friend. We actually reach a bus stop where he should pick us up but I realize that I have left all my stuff back home. I could use her scooter to go back but decide to stay and joke with her about how young he still looks.

I am in a forest about to cut a tree when I see a chainsaw on top of small hill. I then check it out and realize that it from my former father-in-law. They are setting up a party for his son and they ask me to cut the trees around it. I then start the chainsaw but realize that the trees are too bent.

I am in a station with my Polish curator walking down an underpass. He is quite fast despite having diabetes and I try to catch up with him by saying bad words in Russian. He does not turn around and I try to say a few bad words in Polish but he also ignores me and go up the underpass.

I am in a shop with my new moped when the owner takes out the newest model. I get to try it and realize that it is much better than the one I just bought. I want to recommend it to my son but I see that he tries a bike version of the moped and he really likes it. I then try dissuade him to buy.

I am in a cafe with some guys when a group of girls come in. I notice that they are only a few and I push a guy to meet one. The latter recognizes that I am Italian and wants to talk to me instead but I see that my Russian friend is flirting with another girl even though he is about to have a kid.

I am in a bank signing a document for my ex wife. I put the signature in the wrong place and I have to sign again. The man at the desk then tells me that I will receive a bill as soon as I will leave the country. I don't understand and he tells me I need to pay every month for my son's food.

I am walking at night on a dock in the city center of the Swedish capital. I reach one end and notice the new lighthouse that will be installed on the opposite end. As I observe the conventional design I see that my ex wife is walking on the top looking for a place where to commit suicide.

I am walking in a building and realize that it is a school. As I pass by a classroom I see my old classmates inside. I then walk in to get my old seat but a new girl took it. I then tell her to immediately move to the front and kick her chair realizing that I won't be able to copy any exam in the front.

I am biking with a girl around an American town. She is actually from the capital and doesn't know her way around. As she tells me about some exams I will also have to take I point at some white factory buildings and we manage to get back to to train station where we began biking.

I am seating with my girlfriend in a small room waiting for her best friend to pick us up. As she arrives I notice that my girlfriend's head is squeezed in her chest and I tell her to stretch her neck. She manages and we get in a car to go to a library but then see that my girlfriend is a Muslim.

I am in a small meeting with the minister of interior and his closest collaborators. I am actually new to them but the minister has looked through my art project and congratulates me. As I wait for him outside I notice that he has read a print out with a list of all the reviews about my project.

I am walking with my girlfriend through a forest and try to ask the people coming the opposite way if they have seen my son. They actually all speak French but I finally find a young guy who understands me. He then shows me that my son is waiting alone by a waterfall and I reach him crying.

I am guest of a woman with another girl. She has cooked tortellini for us and we seat at the table congratulating her about them although some of them are uncooked. The girl tells us that she will start university and I assume that it is quite close to her hometown but she tells me it is far.

I am driving a car in a small country road. It starts to get very curvy and I begin to control it using my laptop keyboard. A recorded voice then tells me that I should rather use my mouse. I try to ignore it and start crashing the car. I am about to be caught by another car but manage to win.

I am with some workers in the basement of my barn. They have built a few walls and are about to leave when their boss tells them that they should also cover them with wood. He then checks with them how to do it but there are way too many screws to put in the ceiling for just the door.

I am in a cafeteria room listening to some professors who have to give a speech when the waiter and gives me a kiss. I then walk to the desk where she is serving food but there is her cousin before me. She gets a salad with many homemade things and I also try to ask a similar dish.

I am biking along a river back to the Swedish city where my son studies. I actually just get on the bike that I see my old Swedish curator friend with a basket of vegetables. He then tells me that he is no longer a curator and only cultivates. I then ask him what kind of vegetables he selected.

I am in a cafe talking to my Norwegian friend who is actually going to a Mediterranean island on holiday. He starts telling about a stronghold he wants to visit in the middle of the island and I interrupt him saying that it must have been built by his ancestors who have been colonizing the place.

I am walking down a busy road of an Italian city and see that one of the local policeman have an old sport car. He is actually telling a journalist how the local police have other refurbished cars. One is a yellow car with big tires and it is made to follow criminals in the desert around the city.

I am in our Dutch house when I hear the doorbell. I actually removed the bell and wonder how it made a sound. I open the door and a big woman with white curly hairs immediately blocks it with her feet. I don't speak any Dutch but she anyway shows me a bucket where to put money.

I am biking below the mountains and reach a village. It is very nice around it but I realize that I don't know how to continue. I then turn to the plateau but the road shrinks and I end up in a barn. A girl without a tooth open the door for me. I then walk through it and greet her with a kiss.

I am in a small living room talking to my girlfriend's oldest brother. He is actually saying that he used to experiment with creating artificial skin. One of his former colleagues is there to confirm it but then my girlfriend's brother says that he always worked independently from the government.

I am at my best-friend's place and tell him about a cargo of containers. He asks how big it is and I make an estimate. We then decide to move it to a parking lot and I start driving it there. As I reach the gates a policeman advice me to park it elsewhere but then I realize that tracks park for free.

I am in the small shop of a gas station with my daughter. There are refugees there and they start sleeping on the floor. I then try to get out but one of them is laying in front of the door. I manage to move her and we walk outside searching for a place where we can sleep but it is all too crowded.

I am looking for free parking in a place where a friend told me to find it. I only find parking I have to pay for and just leave the car there and walk in a small office the pay. I actually have my daughter with me and inside I also meet my aunt who immediately wants to show her to a friend.

I am on a roof with another soldier and we spot a terrorist preparing to attack us. He doesn't realize we are up on the roof and I position my rifle to shoot him. It is quite a distance but I manage to hit him in the heart. As he dies I realize that now we have disclosed our position to his friends.

I am in my mountain neighbour's apartment. I am actually using their bathroom but there is only a small window I can use to get out. As I try to do so I break it and ask my neighbour why it is so small. He then tells me that he needs for ventilation and I suggest to do it in the kitchen wall.

I am skating with my stepfather on a mountain road and get to do the last part downhill. We are quite good but as we almost reach our car my stepfather wants to do some skating on the grass. It is very muddy and I barely managed to extend my legs. We finally go back all exhausted.

I am with my girlfriend in a small shop. We need toilette paper but only find kitchen paper. I then tell my girlfriend to take it anyway but realize that she also took a lot of toilette brushes. A girl in the shop also needs one and I tell her to take it. She then tells us to take something from her.

I am in a harbour and walk on a metal bridge leading to a yacht. It actually gets too narrow and I fall in the water. Also the yacht capsizes and I pull myself up realizing that I broke many teeth. As I talk to the bodyguard of the yacht owner for a refund I realize that I have more broken teeth.

I am in the valley leading to my cathedral with another girl. We are actually waiting for our turn to work above and finally get called. I then start walking in a path through the forest but the girl decides to walk straight though the field. I warn her about the hunters but they are in the forest.

I am with my parents at night searching for a good cabin where to sleep. We actually already checked one out but it was too old. We then check a newer one and the bottom floor seems very good but when we get upstairs we find that the ceilings are very low and the rooms too small.

I am with my best friend biking down a small road next to a mountain. We are actually going quite far and my best friend worries that we will never be able to bike back but I want to see where it takes us. Finally we end up crossing the boarder and reach a city with a lot of traffic and tourists.

I am in a city afraid of falling and hurting my hands. I have some gloves but they are broken on the top. I then ask a policeman for a glove shop and he sends me inside a small gym. I go in looking for the owner but they all look very young. I find him and he asks his mother for the gloves.

I am in my Venetian apartment and notice that my twin sister is in my tenants' bedroom. I then tell her to come out and apologize to my tenants saying that she didn't know it was rented. Another tenant shows me a big room he has discovered and I think of renting that one as well.

I am at a dinner with my supervisor and my opponent. My stepfather is seating on the opposite side of the table and starts asking me about my current project. I tell him that it is all blocked because of some people not helping me. I then stand up pointing at my supervisor and opponent.

I am walking in my father native village with his sisters. I see that my grandparents' house is still inhabited. As we walk forward I realize that my mother could be around and I start walking alone with my baby daughter. I then get in a cafe and share my location with my cousin who is nearby.

I am in a second hand shop with my girlfriend and see that she is buying many books for very little money. I actually see them on a big screen on top of the cashier but notice that two of them are very expensive. I then tell her to remove them both so that she can still keep the price very low.

I am driving with my girlfriend to a Sicilian town. As we get to a roundabout we realize that we have already reached a big Sicilian city. We then get out to eat at a restaurant but realize that we are still in the middle of the peninsula. We then try to pay but they don't accept our card.

I am walking with my best friend and our girlfriend along a hill. In front of us we can actually see the cross where we used to walk when teenagers. As our path turns down to it my friend drags me in a museum but it is quite boring and we go to the exit walking through the art works.

I am in a room with many international people. We actually stand in a circle to celebrate our departure but an English guy warns me that I gave a false jewel to his friend. I then run out of the building and down to a station. It is dark and I miss the right railway cross ending up in a village.

I am in a club following the work of an architect who is installing an installation I have designed. There are already some metal pillar standing but they are actually removing them. I then ask when my pillar will arrive and I realize that they are too expensive and I won't be able to afford them.

I am in a basement meeting some fishermen who are supposed to take me across a bay. They don't care about me and just tell me to seat with them at the table. They have some fresh fish to grill but one of them gives me a dish with old fish. As I start eating it he says I will have to pay for it.

I am walking with some American tourists down a canyon and reach a very deep spot. A lady then looks up and realizes that there is a pervert masturbating on top of us. Next thing I see is the lady embracing the pervert and falling down in the water with him without letting him go.

I am seating on the sidewalk next to the water. Behind me I have an ancient city and in front I look at the modern city on the coastline. I know that there are mountains behind but there is too much heat and the mist covers the horizon. It can also be pollution but I feel well and don't care.

I am in a cafe and listen to a guy who was just left by a Greek girl. She just went home with her parents and I tell him of all the distant relationship I had. We then look together at a map showing how to reach the Greek coast but it is in fact a very long journey. He should rather take the plane.

I am in a dark classroom with some young guys. One of them stand up and start drawing very nice cartoon characters on the white board. Another one also go next to him and get ready to colour the characters. I then realize that they don't really care if they will be soon deleted.

I am in a bar talking to my American curator friend about an exhibition I am preparing for Korean museum. He is actually there with a Japanese curator and I suggest that he could also do an exhibition in her country since I am so nearby. My friend then says that he even has some funding.

I am in a club and can feel a strong smell. It is actually coming from my pants and I realize that I haven't washed myself in days. I then go in the bathroom and do so even though it is very dirty. I use some soap and feel suddenly very excited. I realize it is lubricant for making love.

I am watching a movie about a girl and her younger brother. They are at home getting ready to go to a ball and the boy wants to drive there by car. The girl wants to go by bike as she can get a better chance to meet someone who wants to become her boyfriend. She actually finds an ugly guy.

I am in my mountain village and see that one my father's relatives is there to sell grocery. He promises a big bottle of wine to my drunk neighbour and then I take him to my other neighbours. The latter is actually my former father-in-law and they get to talk about cutting trees in the forest.

I am in a park with my Swedish artist friend and he shows me all the plants along a path. I then realize that he has designed that with another artist. It is actually quite close to my idea to do my work in nature and I assume he must have copied it although it is in a much smaller scale.

I am at my best friend's place and look in his fridge to see if there is anything I can cook for him and his wife. There are only a lot of leftovers and as I try to select some I notice my friend is cooking two cab ages. I first wonder how can they cook in a pan but then see that they have been sliced.