

I am driving my uncle expensive cabriolet to the restaurant below my mountains. As I get there to order a pizza I realize that it is early but the owner set out to cook anyway. I then wait but see that there is a big party and I will have to wait a long time. My car has also been moved to a garage.

I am in a university and walk down a corridor where there is a small crowd. There are actually some people who have graduated and I look at them seating on a table. I first think they are signing their thesis but then realize that they are signing magazines with photos of their design works.

I am in a car with some American guys crossing some high mountains. I can see the dolomite next to my cabin but from a different angle. There is even a river I have never seen and I say it could be nice to hike there but they start driving down to a lake. I then suggest a village where to stop.

I am in a bar showing an American friend how to connect his phone to the local server. He is not able to do it and I do it for him. I manage and he starts looking around at my photos. He gets in a folder with an old collection of photos showing my abdominal muscles. He is not at all impressed.

I am walking in a Mexican city and find it quite boring. I then want to get back to my hotel but get lost in a very nice historical center. As I keep walking I end up at a mall and realize that a guy with a knife wants to rob me. I then give each one of his band a banknote and ask their protection.

I am on a boat and remember I should pull up the anchor. I do it and the boat starts moving with the other boats through a border control. I have a lot of cigarettes but the police let go. I then wonder what I should do if a storm comes as I have never sailed on a boat. I actually don't have a sail.

I am in a station trying to reach my platform. The escalator is not working and an English hostess shows me the way to the emergency exit. I then go in there and end up in an airplane. My girlfriend is also there and we look at a young girl wondering whether our daughter will also be like her.

I am waiting in line at a post office and starts looking at pictures on my phone. They show my aunt with her new boyfriend and I find him very old and ugly. I keep scrolling through the photos she sent me and find a close up photo of them seating together but see that they look alike.

I am in a living room with my mother. I am actually going out and look for my shoes but my mother starts getting very angry at me. She shows me how my brown boots have turned black after I used the wrong polisher. I actually look at them and find that they are nicer in that darker colour.

I am in my former parents-in-law house and realize that I should eat breakfast. I am not hungry but anyway look in the third shelves where they keep food for me. It is empty and I try to look in the other shelves but my mother-in-law comes up from the cellar and gives me a chocolate bun.

I am at a meeting with a group of international researchers. A German accuses a Korean to have chosen the wrong location. She actually suggests that we should sue them and I get talk to her on the side. My neck hurts and she says it is because the Koreans have chosen a too humid city.

I am in a small room trying to cure a wound in my elbow. I actually find a package of silicon plasters in a book I am reading and I get one out. I try to attach it to the wound but it is too small and I try with a bigger one. It is also too small and I get the biggest one out but it is an entire bandage.

I am at an airport running to get my plane. As I reach the staircase I realize that I have left my bag in the terminal and pretend that I have hurt myself. I then get back inside and manage to get to the bag. As I get on the airplane I realize it is like a disco club with sofas and I seat with a stranger.

I am in a church listening to a preacher when I notice a box with expensive watches. I go to check one and then see another man asking the preacher for the price. I also want to ask but she just tells me to make an offer. I make a low one because my savings are running out but she refuses.

I am in a garden with some guys from the mountains and tell them to help me removing some rocks. One of them starts throwing them to another and I find it way too dangerous. I then tell them to stop and just remove some metal roofing spread around the garden. No one listens to me.

I am outside an office with a handicap colleague. He suddenly hugs me and I can feel his penis growing against my leg. I then push him aside and get in the office locking the door. I make sure that there is no other place where he can get inside and tell the other colleagues what happened.

I am in an island with some other guys. I am actually paying them per hour and they decide to saw by hand a big sail to leave. One of them actually prepares a small sail to see how it would work. We test it and the sail get our boat moving but there is no wooden frame to hold it.

I am in front of my mountain apartment and notice there is a pile of fire wood outside the entrance. In the main court I see that my neighbour's son is also piling up wood and he asks me to come and give him an hand. I actually have a Croatian friend coming to help me and I refuse.

I am in the field where I am building the cathedral and start to clean it out from some branches. It is actually quite easy for me and realize that it is quite flat but there are many kids playing around on the higher part of the field. I then tell them to either go play in the forest or come an help me.

I am watching a documentary about a cousin I did not know I had. She is blond and very pretty but I cannot remember her. The documentary even shows a disco where she used to work as a dancer and I realize that I was often there as a teenager but never really saw her.

I am in the kitchen of our Dutch house when my stepfather tells me to use all the old newspaper as maneuver for my garden. I then get the idea that I could use them to level the ground where I want to build my cathedral. I start picking them from the trash bin but my mother is against it.

I am driving with my step cousin in my native highland and stop in a parking lot to sleep. We are actually in a gas station and I hear the owner talking to a lady about waxing her car. I then decide to leave my cousin to sleep and drive further down the road but end up in a shop selling old cars.

I am in a gym going to the changing room and find that a Chinese girl has left her card on the door for anyone to open it. Inside I hear that one guy saying that thieves could come in but the others say it is impossible. Three of them are among us pretending to be working for a state institution.

I am in an Asian restaurant with a group of artists. The one seating in front of me drops her hot soup on my shoes. I then pretend to be hurt but don't feel anything. Another artist then tells me that I should at least clean my shoes and I realize that they are made of a white waterproof plastic.

I am with my mother in a kitchen. I am actually doing the dishes and put some big glasses to dry. She then tells me that they belong to the police department and I tell her that I was already planning to return them. I have already done it once but she insists on explaining me where to go.

I am in a hostel and wake up that there is an Indian girl getting dressed in front of me. Her friend comes standing right next to me and I try to get under the blankets but my legs are too long and my feet stands out. The friend of the Indian girl is actually too close to me but we don't touch.

I am attending a class with a colleague explaining about contemporary cinema. He suddenly introduces me as the next speaker for a lecture I have already given to that class. As I try to search for the slides on my laptop attaching an external memory the students start leaving the room.

I am in a school with a guy showing me around. He actually needs to go back to his class and I follow him. His classmates have been already attending a lecture for a very long time and one of them notice the guy. She then rise her hands and tells the teacher how many hours he skipped.

I am looking at a guy picking up a cadaver from a forest. He actually forgets an arm there and rush in another part of the forest where he starts hiding many kilos of drug he has hidden inside. The police arrives and checks for the drug by the cadaver arm but they cannot find it.

I am in a restaurant eating pizza with my mountain neighbours. The man is seating on my left and still has a whole pizza to eat while her wife on my right has finished eating. He needs to go to my stepfather to get a shot and I try to explain to him that he will only have to pay for the medicine.

I am looking for a new lamp to install in the bathroom of my Venetian apartment after it has been renovated. I then search on-line and find a review of the best lamp. I click on the product and see that it is green. It does not match my bathroom but I can also get a red lamp for free.

I am laying on a double bed with a guy. We are actually perpendicular to the bed and I see that the daughter of my childhood neighbours is getting ready to also go to sleep. I then make space by moving to the side and when she lays down I hug her leaving the other guy on the opposite side.

I am in a small park watching the children playing football. A very small one runs forward with the ball and then suddenly turns to kick it back. As I realize how good he is my parents asks me if I will be dining with them. I say that I will although I have other plans and no proper clothes.

I am walking under a bridge when I see a girl standing upside down against a column. She wants me to come and hug her and I do it although she is very sweaty. I actually have to go and she wants to get a bike for me but I anyway start running. She gets the bike but I am much faster.

I am in a Japanese restaurant with my parents and I see them leaving. I actually have no shoes and just put each foot in a Styrofoam container. They fit very well and as I run to my parents the containers shrink around my feet becoming transparent. My mother asks me where I bought them.

I am driving with my daughter and reach a farm with a lot of cows. As I look at the cows I realize that one have a very human face. Not too far from it I see the farmer and he doesn't look so happy that we parked in the middle of the field. There is no other way to go forward and I back up.

I am in an amusement park watching people playing different arcade games. One of them is really good at shooting shadows appearing on a dark screen. Another is playing some kind of poker game and I hear him swearing in Italian. He wants more money and tries to sell me his watch.

I am walking with a girl and I wonder where she lives. I first think she comes from the countryside but then she tells me that she lives in the suburbs of a big Dutch city. She wants to show it to me on her phone but I trust her and just follow her to the metro station to get a train to go there.

I am in a museum and ask the curator where I should exhibit my work. She then takes me throw it and I realize that it is already packed with works from other artists. She actually takes me outside and tells me to exhibit on a big rock. It is very uneven and I try to complain but she leaves.

I am visiting my Greek gay friend in an apartment where he once hosted me. We are actually seating outside on the roof and I realize that everything became so old since the last time I was there. As I look at the sofas where we are seating there is even a layer of mold but he doesn't care.

I am going up to my cathedral with a motorized wheelbarrow. It is actually very powerful and I reach the top with a load of stones. The workers are there but they get afraid to get caught doing something illegal and leave. I then download the stones but press the wrong button and break a level.

I am watching a comedian and she stands on her hands. I then also walk on the stage and tell her that if I manage to also do the same she should give me two minutes to perform as a comedian. She agrees and I manage to stand on my hands but then she leaves and I don't get to perform.

I am with my son helping a black guy on a wheelchair. We then run through the city and reach an old church. I go inside to see it but realize that there are three young priests dressing white. I then hesitate to use my camera but at I do it they take their camera out to take a picture of us.

I am on a bus with an old girlfriend and my sister and pass by a southern Italian city. It looks very nice and I convince them to jump down. We do so but the old girlfriend starts talking about the reasons why she wouldn't get back together with me. We actually end up in a restaurant to eat.

I am walking with my Swedish supervisor through an old corridor leading to a university. I try to tell her how my whole doctorate experience was not really worth it. I actually try to give her examples of other programmes with people doing interesting works but suddenly forget the names.

I am in an art fair showing one of my photo panels in a room. There are actually people coming to see it and they seem quite interested. I then try to explain what I do by showing them a picture of one of my exhibitions but I pull my laptop out and cannot find it. As I give up they leave.

I am standing by a canal at night listening to a man singing opera on a Venetian gondola. He is actually a friend of mine and I go to the opposite side of the canal. He finishes by singing about his beloved woman and I get tears in my eyes. I want to hug him but the street lights turn off.

I am in a big city running away from a man. I then enter a hardware store and look for a boat. The shop assistant shows me an inflatable one with a small engine. I decide to buy it for my escape away from the city and across the ocean but suddenly realize I also need a pump to inflate it.

I am in a small square listening to a girl playing the piano. She is good but a professional pianist comes and tells her that she can only replace the music sheet while she plays. The pianist than starts playing but suddenly stands to lets the public sing opera while the girl gets back on the piano.

I am in a villa attending a party when I get a call from a lady demanding that I deliver her a package. I then realize that I am a servant in the villa and that I have been drugged. Before the drug takes effect I manage to escape with another servant and reach the woods where we change clothes.

I am in a house watching a man beating his wife after she cheated on him. He then starts talking to him about his Swedish origins. I then ask him where exactly in Sweden his ancestors came from but he tells me of a city I don't know. He then goes in the kitchen to announce that he likes me.

I am in my former parents-in-law villa laying on the floor with my former Jewish girlfriend. She is actually showing me how to put my legs in a rotten timber. She goes all the way in and I can see that is is full of flies covering her naked legs. She claims that the flies leave a liquid on her skin.

I am in a house with friends and realize that I am almost missing my flight. They decide to anyway drive me to the airport but the guy who drives his very slow and even stop in a gas station. He needs some gas and my other friend tells him to only put a little so that we can hurry up.

I am in a disco drinking many beers even though it is very late. As I get out I realize that there is already day light and my son is also in the city. He needs to pee and I take him to a public bathroom. He starts using a urinary and I show how to shake his penis but there is a gay guy behind him.

I am in my Venetian apartment with the technician who just renovated it. He is now trying the gas from valve to valve but realize that there is still a leakage inside the house. He cannot figure out how but the realizes that the gas tube is connected to a heater suspended on top of our street.

I am in my former father-in-law's forest cutting a tree. As I manage he comes and seems quite upset because I did not start cutting the trees that where already on the ground. I then pick my chainsaw to help him but realize that the blade is still running inside the cover and I can hurt myself.

I am in my Venetian apartment meeting a Brazilian guy who just moved in one of the rooms. He tells me that he selected some stuff to be thrown and shows me some old wooden objects. I then see that a Turkish girl is sleeping in his room and she comes to hug me but I want to eat breakfast.

I am in a supermarket getting helped by three assistants to do grocery. I don't have a shopping chart and go back out to get one but find a light. It works well but I still don't have a chart and see that there is one in the supermarket. It belongs to a black girl and will have to carry my grocery.

I am in a neighborhood helping my brother-in-law to deliver some packages. There are two left and we bring one to a restaurant with black cooks and a white owner who inspect it. She finds some ceramic pieces for her bathroom but one of them is broken and she doesn't want the entire box.

I am in a museum showing my Chinese boss the model of a roller-coaster. He doesn't know the English word and starts talking to me in Chinese to see if he understands correctly. I then show him photos of me when I was young riding the roller-coaster and realize how long my hairs were.

I am in a karate school laying on the ground when the guy next to me starts fussing about my outfit. It was produced by his father and he reaps off the brand. I then tell my teacher about it and he take him on a massage bed and stubs him in many point with a pen to release his badness.

I am on a square and see a guy with a shaving machine. I then ask him to cut my hairs in the back and he starts doing it slowly. I feel his belly against me and I tell him to hurry. He then shaves me completely and then demands a lot of money. I run away but he follows me with his chainsaw.

I am walking on the road to my mountain village and tell a worker that I can no longer build a cathedral but will focus on building a cube. As he starts blaming me we reach one of my forests and I hear my neighbour's son saying that they will pick up the wood I promised someone else.

I am driving in an American desert with my old friends and reach a futuristic city. We then park the car and look around but everything is closed. My best friend really likes it there and wonders how it is at night time. He then decides we are going to go back in the evening to go to a club.

I am with an old friend entering an hotel. He also had booked a room there but he had to check out. I then pretend he is only coming to check my room but plan to keep him inside to sleep. The receptionist understands that but we ignore him and proceed to the room talking aloud.

I am in a field and see my neighbour's son in an old stone house. It is actually mine and I realize that he is decorating the inside with wood. He tells me that the kind of wood he is using will last for at least two decades but I realize the wood in the ceiling is much older and ask what kind it is.

I am in a hostel talking with a group of backpackers about a Spanish village. Two American girls complain about it but I actually tell them of a nicer village more to the south. We actually decide to walk there and we set off on the asphalt road. I am ahead with two guys but they hitchhike.

I am in a kitchen working as a servant for the house owner. He has several guests seating around the table and I start asking each one of them what they want to eat. As I ask the owner he tells me about a very special food and I pretend to know what it is but then he shows me what he means.

I am in the big hall of an art festival and see many big banners hanging from the ceiling. One of them is actually describing my project but I realize that it is too dark to read anything and the text is too small. Another artist shows me her work on her computer and it is very bright and readable.

I am at a party with my old friends and I realize that all of them have a new wife. They show them to me and I notice that they are all young Asian girls. One of them is actually single and I suddenly find it he is my ex wife boyfriend. The latter has dumped him and we now talk to him about it.

I am walking in a country road with a cart carrying my broken chainsaw. I actually pass by a mechanic where a friend of mine works and I could let him fix it but I keep walking through a village. There is a young boy coming my way and some kids starts bullying him but a lady defends him.

I am in an apartment with an old family friend and realize that I have to share the bedroom with him. I actually only have a single bed in my room and we decide to move in the sofa from the living room. As we do it I see the family friend gets to lay on my bed and I realize that it is double size.

I am in my mountain village and find that my neighbour has built a big house in the garden. There are people working on the roof and I notice that it got on fire. I then go upstairs to see what happens and realize that it is made of metal resembling a church and only the lower part got burnt.

I am in a museum attending a debate with other artists. One of them talks about his experience drawing the wall of a museum and when it gets my turn I decide to read from a text selected by the curator. It is written very strangely and I have to stop several times embarrassing everyone.

I am in a school with other students and we suddenly get occupied by a group of guerrilla soldiers. They actually check us out and tell us that it is not allowed to be taller than them. I am actually a few centimeter taller and they order that I should walk around without my military boots.

I am walking on a road and hear that my sister is behind me with a group of German friends. I then try to hurry but see that a piece of rock has just fallen from the road side. As I look at it I notice that it is painted on one side and realize that it was thrown by my sister's friends.

I am driving a car near the American northern border. There is actually a guy with me and I show him how on the other side we are actually in Mexican territory. We stop in an empty house there to pee and I want to keep everything intact but as I go out I realize that the guy has left the TV on.

I am talking to our Dutch neighbour and he shows me a picture of a cabin where he went on holiday with his family. He tells me that it has been constructed with flat timbers but he actually shows me the inside. I can see a section of them and I realize that it they are of normal size.

I am with my former Swedish colleagues in a park and I find a place far from them where to lay down. I do so but a Bulgarian colleague comes laying nearby and I realize there is another woman laying in front of me. As I look at her I see that she is my old Jewish girlfriend.

I am in an underground metro station of an Australia city. I am actually quite impressed about it but realize that the trains come very seldom. As one finally arrives I get on and notice that everyone is treating me with respect. I then realize that I am wearing the jersey of an important university.

I am walking with my girlfriend around a lake and realize that the path has many cuts made by a skating competition. As we keep walking suddenly some people runs very fast from behind us. I then realize that they are part of the competition and they are doing a second round of the lake.

I am watching a documentary about a writer who got a residency in a cabin. It is located near the Canadian boarder and he seems very happy also because he doesn't have any money and now he can live for free. He doesn't know how cold it will soon get and how miserable life will be then.

I am reading a book of an old girlfriend. It is very well written but I have a hard ti me to understand it and just go look a the images. They are all fading away and when I get to the back of the cover I realize that she has been publishing three more books. One of them is based in an Italian city.

I am in a small square crowded with people. My former American director is on the opposite side and asks me and a colleague how we feel. She answers and then it gets my turn to answer but the microphone stops working. I then walk to a room where he offers me a research position.

I am in a dirt road and see that there are some walnut trees on one side. I then try to look if there are still some walnut to pick but cannot find any. As I walk further I find a huge olive tree and want to get some olives down but the main branch that I can still reach has been cut.

I am in a small square and see at the end of it some people riding two camels with griffon heads. As I try to photograph them I see that the people are actually fighting. I don't understand why and get closer but one person leaves and the other doesn't know why he was attacked to begin with.

I am in an Italian restaurant eating with a guy and he tells me how he started in a village to the north and he is now going south. I am actually going the opposite way but decide to follow him. As we go out I warn him that the terrain got frozen but he doesn't listen and starts sliding down.

I am on the platform of a station with two bikes when the controller comes to tell me that I should have an extra ticket for them. He actually gives me one for free and get on the train but realize that he also warned me to take it only in the evening. Another controller comes but he lets inside.

I am driving in a village and realize that the Dutch cops are following me. I then stop at the end of it and wait for them. They are actually two young inspectors who needs to ask me a few questions. I bring them to my mountain apartment and we seat down to fill a questionnaire in English.

I am walking in a field dragging a chart. My mountain neighbours are actually working in a forest and I also get in but it is totally dark. I then ask one of them where is the way to my forest but he tells me that it is way too far. He then takes an old military jeep out and start driving me there.

I am a guest of a rich guy and seat in the kitchen with him and his friends. We have little to talk about and I actually see him doing the dishes. I then ask him if I can do them to repay for his hospitality and he allows me but then I see there is only a few dishes left and it doesn't make sense.

I am walking down a mountain and see the old water system. There are fountains at every curve but the iron has completely rusted. At the bottom of the mountain there is a bridge and that has been newly renovated with marble. As I cross it I see that there are memorials written in iron letters.

I am in a small market and check the second hand stuff sold by an old soldier. I see that there are a pair of long plastic gloves and I try them on but they are too filthy inside. I then check what his grandson is selling and see that e has many manga series with naked female characters.

I am walking down a hill in my native mountain and find a very nice path below a power line. I go all the way to the bottom and get ready to get on a new path. I actually want to change my shoes and start singing but then my girlfriend comes and she explains that she took a different path.

I am with my small daughter and we reach a small square where kids are dancing. There is a small one her age and I want them to play but the teacher calls them in. We then look at how she tries to teach the kids English. She uses very difficult terms and explains rules I did not know of.

I am driving on a small road with my girlfriend and come to a road block. I don't care so much about it and keep driving through it even though she complains about it. As we get on the opposite side I realize that the road is frozen. A car comes our way and I move to the side but almost crash.

I am in a public library with a girl and read the name of a professor written on his backpack made of bamboo. We then make fun of him and get in an elevator laughing. She suddenly stops laughing and wants to make love but we reach a garage with expensive cars and I cannot find mine.

I am in my Venetian apartment and realize that a guest of my tenants slept in the kitchen without bed sheet. I prepare to get angry to one of my tenants but the three of them show up for breakfast and I invite them to see a village with a pyramid of an emperor but they need to go to school.

I am walking with my girlfriend on a beach and see three guys playing volleyball inside a big hole on the sand. They ask to play with us and we decide to give it a try. As we go down and start play I realize that the hole is actually too small and it is impossible to throw the ball to one another.

I am with my cousin in a university meeting a student who already studies there. My cousin also wants to be part of that university and the student provides him with a contract to rent his room. I check it out and find it quite reasonable but my cousin is in doubt and in the end lets it be.