

I am walking in an American city with a black artist behind me. I turn and realize he just went inside a museum. I then try to follow him and go through the museum looking through a series of his pictures. They actually correspond to the various scenes I see going through the museum floors.

I am in a university and meet an old friend of mine who is now a professor. She doesn't have time to talk to me and I reach the cafeteria. I then talk to her students telling them about artists who used to seat in cafe and make portraits of other people. As they leave I ask to photograph them.

I am in a car with my sister driving to the south of Europe. I actually set up the GPS to take us to a German city but realize we have to pick my son up. We then stop at a gas station and I realize that there is a party. My Polish friend and his girlfriend are going there and I try to call them.

I am in a truck with one my mother's movers and he tells me that his colleague is already at her place mounting a special bed. It is actually old fashion and requires a long time to mount. I then realize that they are trying to cheat her and only do it slowly to ask her a lot of money.

I am walking with my drunk neighbour from the mountain and also pretend to be drunk. We get on a side walk and pass by several trailers. One of them is small and I tell her that I would like it but then pretend to go against and realize it is too big and I am actually drunk for real.

I am in a dining room seating with an English couple. We just had dinner and they start asking me if I have ever traveled before. I then prepare to tell them about my road trip throughout North and Central America but the woman tells me to come closer. I then realize I got far with my chair.

I am walking in a university asking for a guy who is supposed to finance me. I actually find his secretary and he takes me to the opposite side of a square to talk to his boss. As we get in a building there is a class waiting for the teacher and the secretary starts singing a communist song.

I am in my Venetian apartment with my girlfriend. My former tenants have left and we are there to clean up for the next tenants but I see that there are a lot of plants growing in the kitchen. I then take my pruning shears and start cutting the plants growing in groups at regular intervals.

I am in a supermarket with already my shopping cart full. I actually see an old Turkish friend and realize that we are supposed to have a dinner together. I then tell him to pick some products to prepare dinner and he starts putting a lot of Turkish products that are quite expensive.

I am walking with a guy outside a university building talking about our thesis. Next to him I actually see my old Polish friend also walking outside the university. He has been copying from my thesis and I hid behind the other friend so that he doesn't see me while we talk bad about him.

I am in a public swimming pool looking at a guy. He has been stealing a lot of money and another guy tries to rob him. The first guy then starts to punch him in the face but the latter doesn't seem to react. He is actually a centaur and runs to the opposite side to take his money.

I am watching a movie about a beautiful girl who has won a lot of prizes. She learned how to jump on a running horse but also one a motorcycle championship with just a scooter. She was behind several others when in the last moment she managed to pass them going through all of them.

I am in my old parents' place talking to my twin sister. She tells me that my stepfather was attending a meeting with his sponsor but he is not back. She then worries and I realize he must have told the sponsor that he was looking for another one abroad who was willing to pay him more.

I am on top of a mountain talking to a girl about skydiving. She tells me that it is too warm and I think that the snow is too soft but as we ski down I realize that it is very frozen. I am quite afraid but as we reach the bottom I go very fast and almost pass her and another skier.

I am on a plane and a hostess shows me how a chair was modified to kill a politician. Another hostess seats there and I show her how we are flying over my mountain cabin. We fly right on top of the mountain and I tell her about the installation I am building on it even though it is all uphill.

I am in an apartment waiting for the neighbours' kids to visit me. It is actually very late already and I think they must have gone to bed when I hear the doorbell in the apartment below. I then go check and realize that they are on the wrong floor. I open the door and tell them to come up.

I am in a living room seating at a round table with my spiritual friend and a young guy. The latter is very talented and has many drawings on his chest. The chest has a bright light and his face has make up. He tells us that he has even almost found a job at a beauty salon thanks to his style.

I am on a street of an empty city and see some black prostitutes. A man arrives on a scooter and ask them if he can have sex with two of them. They then discuss and he reminds them that they already did it before. One of the prostitutes tells the man to go to their apartment at the street end.

I am walking on the side of a river and realize that on the opposite side are our enemies. I then pick some apples from a market stand and throw them across. I try several times but do not manage. I then take more apples and walk down the river but toe road ends and I have to swim.

I am in a hardware store and show the shop owner my new generator. It doesn't have any wheels and he puts on a pair from a furniture. He then uses a plastic bag to secure them and it works really well. I then ask him for the price and tell him that I cannot speak dialect as I moved abroad.

I am in a train station with my spiritual friend. We are supposed to get on a train but I think it is going to be too crowded. As we wait for the next one I can see through the gates that it is quite empty and we run across that the doors are closing. I am able to open them again and we seat inside.

I am seating in a terrace of a bar and order a sandwich. The waitress comes out with a very small one and I open it to check if she at least put something inside. There are only thin slices of ham and cheese. As I am about to get very angry I see that she cooked for herself a big plate of tortellini.

I am at my former parents-in-law's house and see that my mother-in-law is very agitated. She is cutting sausages in a very rough manner and I tell her that I can also prepare some food. She then tells me that she already prepared a sauce for us and I only have to cook the pasta for it.

I am in a factory printing a prototype using a large machine. We can actually make use of a long tube carrying the melted plastic and I ask the operator to try to use it all. As he extends it to the maximum I notice some old friends and don't realize immediately that the tube is out of place.

I am in my parents' house seating in my old bedroom. I am actually drawing a man carrying a bag and decide to put in the bag the name of all the virtues. As my stepfather comes in I tell him that there are forty two of them but I cannot even mention one. I then try to look it up in an old book.

I am with my girlfriend laying in bed and watching a documentary about how to use a generator. We actually feel like making love but the door is open and we soon realize that we are sharing the room with one of my tenants. She suddenly comes in and lays in a bed perpendicular to ours.

I am walking in a small valley between two hills. The trees are not so high and I can see that there is an old path right in the middle of the valley. I anyway keep on walking between the trees and soon realize that there is snow on the ground and I am only wearing summer shoes.

I am in the apartment of my Venetian neighbour living below me. He is actually not able to fix the laundry machine and decides to leave. I then first think he wants to commit suicide but then realize that he is packing some stuff and he will go out in the city and live for good like an homeless.

I am in my native village in front of the house where I was born. I actually meet a girl I used to know when I was very little. I then ask her if she knows who I am and she recognizes me. I tell her about my life going abroad and then coming back but she doesn't seem so interested.

I am biking up to my parents' mountain place with my stepfather's bike. It is actually very well kept and I can reach the top quite fast. As I get inside their house I tell my mother that I need the bike certificate so that I can prove that I live there. I then complain about the local authorities.

I am in my mountain village talking to my neighbour and see another neighbour arriving with his family. I then walk out of the village to talk to his daughter but she is working in a garden with other women. I call her up but one of the women gets angry as she thinks that I am also angry.

I am our Dutch house when my Italian architect calls me. He is seating in the living room and I see him drawing some squares. He then shows me that by adding some centimeters between each of them I can draw some crosses. He then tells me that I can use these crosses to mount windows.

I am walking up a steep road pushing my son in the stroller. As we reach the top I find a watch on the ground. I then pick it up and plan to give it to my son but another guy takes it from me. He says it is his watch but plans to anyway get a new one. I then ask to sell it to me but he leaves.

I am in a theater rehearsing a scene in which I have to talk to a young miller. He replies to me but he speaks way too low and he doesn't have enough flour on his black t-shirt. As I leave I realize that non-professional actors get substituted with professional ones even though they were good.

I am watching a racing car on TV and see a scene showing a famous German pilot driving. He is without helmet and I can see that his face is now quite old. He is anyway first but has to stop and by the time he gets back in the race a lot of other cars have passed in front of him.

I am in a house talking to one of my twin cousins. My uncle arrives and he asks for my phone number. I then tell him that I can create a business card on his phone and then send it to my phone. He agrees and I try to do it but realize that I can use his phone to lift a tea spoon on the table.

I am walking with my girlfriend in a mall and realize that she is pregnant. We actually decide to abort and try to find a clinic where to do it. There is a illegal doctor working in a shop and my girlfriend get in line to talk to him pretending to buy a board where to stick pictures with magnets.

I am in the back of a car with my girlfriend's bigger brother. He tells me that I will have to bring his daughter's classmates back to their parents after they party. I actually only know where one of them lives and I ask to go for him but he is with us and we are already bringing him home.

I am in a mall with my parents and my mother decide to buy me some hiking pants. I actually don't need them and they are anyway too short. She just want to buy them for me and as they ask for the price a friend comes to tell us that there was a guy going around with a riffle and he hit him.

I am in a cafe with a man and his girlfriend seating opposite to me. He goes to the bathroom and I almost fall asleep but end up with my face on the girl's face. The guy comes back and wants an explanation. I then lie saying that she was telling me about my real Arab father she just met.

I am driving with an former tenant out of the highway in the Italian city where he was born. There is actually a lot of police and he doesn't manage to slow down. Two cops start walking on our side. I can see that one of them is Chinese but he looks inside and tell my tenant to continue.

I am waiting for a metro in a new station. All the trains now pass through there but I no longer know which one to take. I just get on the first one that arrives and realize that it makes all the stops. A lady suggests me to change for a faster train but my stop is small and I think I better stay.

I am in a big refugee camp with some young Swedish artists. I then tell one that I used to work as an art teacher in the capital but another artist starts making fun of me. I then keep talking about how I used to also teach in a Chinese university and later in an American university.

I am in a park with two Colombian guys who wants to make a video with me. They actually want to beat me up and as one guy gets ready to hit me I tell him that my joints are weak and can dislocate. As he lets go an American girl comes to film my face while another paints my lips purple.

I am in a chapel with a southern Italian musician instructing on how to play an old Indian symphony. We are supposed to make music with food but I have too much on my plate and try again. It doesn't work and also the singer runs out showing her red hairs. She is actually a goddess.

I am in my Venetian apartment with my girlfriend. There are a lot of tenants but I hurry to the bathroom before they occupy it. As I seat in the toilette I realize that there is a broken piece on the floor. I pick it up but it is covering a hole and if I put the right cover the bidet start sinking.

I am in a Belgian city with my girlfriend and reach an art foundation. We go in thinking that we don't have to pay for it but as we go out we find a gate. The man at the cashier understands that we have little money and prepares a child ticket for me with a picture of my face looking young.

I am in my Venetian apartment and meet my brother-in-law in the kitchen. There is a bag of pastry on the table and I tell him we could eat it for breakfast. It is from an old man leaving there and we decide to go to a cafe but then the later comes to show me a problem with the blinders.

I am in a park talking to my Norwegian friend about my welding equipment. The pressure is too high and I ask him if it is dangerous but he tells me to talk to his female colleague. As I wait to meet her his stepson comes by and say hit to the my friend calling him father but he ignores him.

I am driving with my girlfriend outside of a mall on a dark road. As we pass under a highway with some lighting I realize that it is the road to my ex wife. My girlfriend is aware of it and wants to turn to her house but it is still too early and I warn her she will have to drive much further.

I am in a library seating on the sofa with another guy. We are both reading a book when I see a former German colleague passing with two local researchers. I then try to hide behind the book and then think of a disguise for me and my friend. The one for him doesn't work and he gets caught.

I am in a bar with my son and my spiritual friend. The latter is telling us about how he hired a professional cameraman to film him. He shows us a trick on how the cameraman managed to make an effect passing behind him. I am impressed and suggest to move our conversation to the beach.

I am with my ex wife driving passed her parents' house. We are searching for a bed and breakfast and find it behind an old farm. The owner is waiting for us but he doesn't realize my ex is a local. As he cooks an apple pie I manage to see my parents-in-law's house through the branches.

I am on a high speed train going across North America. We are actually about to enter the Canadian territory even though we are going from west to east. My spiritual friend is also there and start rehearsing a play with a singer in order to impress a cute American girl seating right behind me.

I am seating in the back of a Dutch cafe with my girlfriend and her friend. As they start talking with one another I check the magazines in a shelf. There is even a local newspaper and I read the headline of a rich man buying out two dairy factories including the main one from my parents' city.

I am walking through a big parking lot and I ma about to reach my car when I see that a group of gypsies is trying to open it. I then tell them it is my car and they leave but a smaller group stays behind. They seem quite aggressive and I run in a small apartment and put down all the blinders.

I am biking on a long dock ahead of my stepfather and his friends. As I see two deer in the water I also fall inside. I then pull myself up again and reach a mall where a group of immigrants start putting accessories on my bike. I then start taking pictures of them but they are too close.

I am in a laboratory with some guys and get a French girl next to me. I then start to caress her but her mother comes and see that I am dressing like a weirdo. I then try to explain to her that it is my biking outfit and get ready to bike home. Another guy then checks my bike to make it faster.

I am in my Venetian apartment and my Turkish tenant warns me that they have moved the laundry machine from the bathroom. She then goes to bed and I go to check. I then see that the laundry machine is gone and that the tiles are falling apart with no plaster in between them.

I am laying in a big bed with my daughter and decide to cut my hairs. I do so and then stand and look up realize that there is an homosexual also in the same bed. He shows me that he has some condoms already out. He wants to have sex immediately but I manage to invent a lie.

I am in an art school cafeteria talking to one of the teachers. A student with white and curly hairs arrives and I think of photographing him. I then ask him to stand in front of a painting with a figure looking like him. I then realize that he is my spiritual friend and I also need to do one painting.

I am in an apartment with my biological father. He actually talks to me a lot and I start to like him. We decide to go out together but he tells me that I first I need to look in his computer. It got really slow and I can try to remove all the viruses as I already did the last time I was visiting him.

I am in an exhibition and check out the paintings of a Tamil artist. He is very well known but I don't find him so interesting. He is quite poor and leaves his dirty hat behind. I then wear it and go to my atelier to show the model of the cathedral I want to build but no one is impressed.

I am in a cafe with some international students. A local girl should take them around the historical town and I suggest a way around the main street. As she explains to me that she is going the opposite direction I realize that she is also a foreigner and looks quite cute. I then also follow them.

I am in the back of a car sleeping when my mountain neighbour's wife and his sister wake me up. They are driving in a road down a valley and ask me where they should go. It is pitch dark outside and I have no idea where we are. They then take me in front of a school I have never seen.

I am at my former parents-in-law's country house talking to my father-in-law. He tells me that there is a problem with the heating system and they will have to replace it completely. He has no idea how much it is going to cost but he expect to run out of money while I don't think so.

I am driving in a dark road and realize I have almost reached my destination. I then speed up but a policeman wants me to stop. I am going too fast and another policeman tries stopping me. Finally I stop at a third policeman but instead of getting a fine we start talking about my art project.

I am inside an architect studio about to take a seat when he asks me if I still need to renovate my Venetian apartment. I then tell him that I have recently done it but say that I also have a house in the mountain to renovate. I actually don't have any money for it but draw a sketch for him.

I am in a classroom when the school director arrives. He assigns me a name and tells me to play the spy with another student. I then run in the corridor and spy another classroom. I come back and tell everyone that they are gypsies ready to attack but the director wants to play another game.

I am driving with an old friend in a big city and we find a place where to park. As he starts to negotiate the price with the owner I go fetch my motorcycle even though there is no place for it. As I come back there is a lot of space and realize that my friend has left because of the high price.

I am in a public toilette and realize that a woman has left her pierce there. I then lock the door to look inside but I can see her husband through the door. I take the wallet and lock myself in the bathroom but unfortunately there are only candies inside. As I go out a detective is there.

I am in a small food store buying Indian food when I hear my uncle inviting young costumers to get in an hidden part of the store. They come out again with boxes filled of many stones. I then ask one of the guys and he tells me that he has paid very little for it. I also want one for my son.

I am by a big lake and ask a local guy which ferry I should take to cross it. He then tells me to take a ferry leaving from two docks down and I get on the ferry with him to go there. The lake there is more like a small river and I am supposed to jump out to reach my dock but the ferry moves out.

I am in an apartment when my girlfriend comes in. She thinks that the kitchen is very smelly and goes to the room. I then search what it could be and realize that there is a lot of dust on the door. I try to remove it and the layer of dust comes out but it is still very dirty underneath it.

I am getting in a barber shop but realize that it is run by some immigrants. As I am about to go out one of them accommodates me and starts cutting my hairs. I then think he just cut them in a fashionable way I don't like but when I go out of the shop I ask my mother and she likes them.

I am walking on a straight road going through a city. It is already dark and I see a basket hanging on a pole. As I look inside I realize that it is my baby son sleeping inside. I am actually wondering if I should wake him up and see that the person who had to look after him is inside a shop.

I am with my dead grandfather in my mountain village talking to our neighbour. The latter is telling us about a restaurant where he went with a rich family. My grandfather also went there when I was alive and he starts joking about it. I then tell him how happy he would be to live in the village.

I am in a small bakery and order three different kinds of Sicilian pastry. The owner is actually my stepfather's patient and I think of getting a big discount but he tells me to pay a lot of money. I don't have them and look in my mother's wallet. I find it a big bill and give it to him to change.

I am in a workshop using the tools from a big metal panel. It actually starts oscillating and I can't stop it. It is not even mine and I go to talk to two Dutch guys resting on the sofa. I ask them if it is okay that I use their tools. One of them is sleeping but the other is awake and he nods.

I am in a bedroom checking my baby sleeping in a crane. Her two cousins also come in the room and start making a lot of noise. I then take them by the ear and bring them outside but one of them starts crying very hard and the other runs back inside. My baby is still sleeping and I cover him.

I am in a small village on the hills with my best friend when a young guy comes with a small truck. He then asks him to help him pay it off but my best friend gets really angry and tells him to go back to the city. I actually get a ride from the guy and realize he only needs little money.

I am biking in an empty industrial area with a friend. My girlfriend has a much smaller bike and is already at the end of the road. As I am checking the map on my phone to see how to go home I realize that we have to turn right in a smaller road. I then try to call my girlfriend but she is too far.

I am driving through a city with my old classmates in front of me. One of them stops next to other cars and I also do it so that other people can pass. We then go to a nearby park to discuss what to do next but I realize that the people park next to me needs to get away. I then rush to go back.

I am at a dentist and she looks in my mouth. All my cavities need to be redone and I expect her to book a new appointment but she takes a book out. She then starts drawing different cartoons I should watch and tells me that I can otherwise read two books inspired by a newspaper article.

I am in a barn with four ostriches and wait for each one of them to come near me to remove a small feather from their head. They all have very ugly feathers and I decide to go out with them to train. They run fast but I am able to go in front of them even though they already have a leader.

I am seating on a boat and realize that the girl next to me is an old classmate. She doesn't remember me and I try to look on my phone for a photo of another classmate. I only have black and white photos but finally I find one with colours and show it to her. She suddenly remembers me.

I am running on a beach with two girls and I want to go in the water but they keep on running. We then reach a place where it is fine for them to swim but there is a cadaver floating on the water. As it comes close to us we realize that it is also from a girl and that she is dressing a costume.

I am in my former parents-in-law's villa with my best friend organizing his graduation party. I then tell him that I really dislike one of the guests going around with a four wheeler drive but he tells me to make a small speech also for him. We then all get outside naked to start the ceremony.

I am in an airport taking my parents to check in. As they do so I go in the bathroom to pee but on the way out take the emergency exit and find myself inside the terminal. A security guard then thinks that I am trying to smuggle some gold and takes me to a laboratory to check my watch.

I am in a city assisting a woman working for a company to install commercial signs looking like Christmas decorations. As she gets busy with one sign I decide to steal the one she has just installed. I then take a long stick and manage to get it out down but the police starts shooting.

I am leading a group of soldiers through a winter landscape at night. We can actually see the path because it is made of cardboard but it ends and I choose to keep on walking straight. The snow starts getting very high but we see a shopping mall and get there to finally eat some fast food.

I am showing my son the field where I am planning to build my project in the mountains. I explain to him that we have to dig around a square shape and he already starts digging. He is really fast and in no time gets very deep. He finds water and I tell him that we need a channel to get rid of it.

I am in my parents' garage and realize that my half-sister has been drilling holes. There is dust everywhere and my stepfather gets upset because it is also on his life archive. I then tell him to calm down and start vacuum cleaning but the dust doesn't come up and I have to change settings.

I am in a big city with two guys. We are supposed to go to visit a friend who lives there but her apartment is too far away. It is raining and one of the guys parks his scooter indoor while I decide to go to a nearby cafe with some girls. As we enter a costumer starts flirting with one of them.

I am in a big room and see some paintings on a wall. I then walk towards them and realize that I made the biggest one. It shows my half-sister watching TV and I realize that the paint itself is cracking. The cracks are almost following the different colours and I wish I knew it before.

I am with my stepfather walking in an old city and he tells me about a street seller working there. He once took us to a catacomb but I don't remember. As we cross a small bridge I see two guys going out of one and I notice how they are dressed with traditional costumes even with a falcon.

I am in an apartment getting dressed up for a date I have with an American girl. There is also a Taiwanese guy coming along and I read on my phone that he cancel the date because of a storm coming in the afternoon. I then write that I anyway live next to the bar where we should meet.

I am in a big countryside villa and see a group of policemen outside. I then tell them how my sister and her husband put vodka in some barrels next to the fire and burnt down all the bridges around the villa. The head of the policemen than takes me in his office to start the suing procedure.

I am walking next to a small lake with my best friend. He is actually telling me about another friend who has been together with a girl for a long time. At first she only allowed him to kiss her and after many months of relationship she finally started giving him a lowjob without any further sex.

I am seating in an airplane that has just landed. On my side is the current American president and we have to wait for him to get off the plane. On my other side is actually the former American president and I see hi opening the emergency exit. He expects also to have a staircase but falls down.