

I am in the apartment of an Egyptian man. He is actually hosting me for free and we decide to go out for lunch. I should pay for it but then he shows me that his previous guest was a Polish girl and he took her out with his friends to eat shrimps in the desert. He paid for the lunch then.

I am back in the Chinese city where I used to live and see a strong local trying to resell to a fruit seller the grape he had received as a present. He was himself a fruit seller but fall in disgrace. He is actually able to get a coin for it and that means for him the beginning of his new business.

I am taking my sister and her friend to my Venetian apartment. We get in from the back and find one of my tenants naked on the sofa. He is not worry about showing his penis and I don't see anything he can cover it with. Our cat shows up and I tell him to use that but a dog is chasing him.

I am walking on a road and see a big machinery ready to perforate the asphalt. As I walk forward I see that there is already an underground passage open underneath it. I then walk down but feel very afraid of the openings between each step. As I keep on walking I realize that they are closed.

I am on the medieval walls of an old city with my the husband of an Italian friend living in our Dutch city. He is actually mixing cement and I check the kind of proportions he uses. There is very little sand in the mix and as I am about to ask him about it he starts a machine that mixes it.

I am in the studio of a famous young artist and he starts showing us his paintings. No one really likes them and I get on his side to tell him to just keep it up but he then takes us to a second room where he wears a robotic arm to play a violin and a piano simultaneously. Everyone is amazed.

I am at an outdoor party checking out the camper of a friend. It is very tall and they are serving food on the roof top. I actually go to eat mine on the opposite side but then see that a bus full of people is coming. I quickly go to the opposite side to get more food but forget to pick up my dish.

I am sliding with my body down a mountain path and reach a village. I am so fast that even pass two guys on a racing bike and continue down to a park. I need to cross a small wooden bridge but an old lady with a stroller is in front of me. I try to pass her but she gets angry and keeps in front.

I am under an umbrella on a small beach when a group of young men runs towards me. I then tell them that they can use the umbrella but they start playing football right there. A goal keeper throws the ball so hard that I walk away and meet one of the men monitoring the ball trajectory.

I am in a library placing on a book shelves all the videos about me. Two of them I have actually got from my Swedish artist friend but I am only playing a small part in the videos and I decide to put them in the back of the bookshelf. As I do so I realize that one has my name right under the title.

I am in a small village at night and get ready to leave when I see an old Israeli friend talking to another guy. We haven't seen us in years and I go to talk to him. He is actually following me on my website and I tell him that I have new one now. He checks it out but likes the former one better.

I am walking in a Italian city and follow three persons. The road are actually flooded and one of them is sent forward. It is not as bad as it looks like if we walk on the upper part of the sidewalk and I also make it across. I actually move inside the neighborhood to avoid the water and keep dry.

I am in a condominium and find that an apartment has been turned into a shop selling office supplies. It is very small and the owner and her daughter also keeps supplies outside the shop. As I walk further I end up in a bigger shop and ask the owner if she thinks I look like an Arab migrant.

I am on a train and reach the Portuguese capitol. I then go out willing to explore it but find myself in a big restaurant. I seat on a table and ask the people eating how to get out. The older shows me an exit and I find myself in front of the royal palace but there are too many people to film it.

I am in a hospital and see my girlfriend's older brother with her younger brother's older son. I want to change his diaper but my girlfriend's brother says it is okay. I then walk downstairs to a the kitchen and start eating walnuts. The supervisor is there bragging how he put the kids to sleep.

I am in a shop with my daughter and realize that the alarm sets off every time I try to walk out. I then tell the shop assistant who bring us to another shop. Before entering she asks me if I can see where a piece of tile is missing. I immediately see that it is missing from a bench in front of us.

I am in a gym with other kids when our coach tells us to bit one another. They are all so young and I decide to fight against the biggest but one little kid keeps coming behind me. I then try to push him away without hurting him but the coach stops the fighting and accuses me of child abuse.

I am in an Asian restaurant with my old Swedish colleagues. I am actually only wear one shoe and I ask them if they have seen it. They then want to know the brand but I feel ashamed because it is a cheap shoe only wore by bad people. They can't find it and I just seat at one of the tables.

I am with my son at a tattoo shop. The owner actually wants to tattoo both of us for free and my son gets ready with his right arm on the tattooing table. I should try to think what kind of tattoo he should get but I get distracted thinking how to get tattooed the rules of my project on both arms.

I am seating on a high-speed train going to the airport when I also see that my old Norwegian friend is inside. He actually has no place to seat and just looks at his phone. I am glad I have a place to seat but he tells me that he is going to the wrong airport but I don't know which one is mine.

I am watching a movie about three soldiers who manages to kill a spy. One of them tries to drive back to their home country but the other two decide to hide in a countryside house. There are people living there and they have arranged some beds for them in the courtyard with also live music.

I am with my girlfriend in a modern city and have to meet my Russina friend and his girlfriend. We actually find the cafe where they should be waiting for us but only meet one of their friends. He tells us that he is flying to an African island for very little money and has to leave right away.

I am in a small public bathroom and find it very smelly. I actually have a spray cleaner with me and start cleaning the walls. I don't have anything to dry them and just use my t-shirt although my socks also get wet. I have some extra socks on me and realize that I am doing an art performance.

I am on a plane trying to move myself in an empty seat in the back. I actually do it commanding the body of a woman but I keep on making her hit other passengers. I finally make her seat in the back and hear an interesting radio program. I then put on the headphones in front of me.

I am in an apartment with an old Dutch friend. I ask him about a young Italian author I just heard of and he tells me that he is famous. He then gives me his most recent book and I read his biography. He is only one year older than me but then I realize that he does not have a good publisher.

I am in my Russian friend bedroom and he tells me to pick whatever clothes I want. I am not interested in his jackets but start looking through his t-shirts. He has the same kind but of all different colour gradations. As I pick a pink one I realize that they are actually his baby son's rompers.

I am watching a program on the Italian television showing a presenter with a French guest. The latter can only speak her native language and the presenter lets her discuss a thing no one understands. As the French guest leaves the stage the presenter claims that he understood everything.

I am walking through a small German village and see a man using a big wooden wheel as his car. He parks it on a bridge and I am afraid it might fall on me. As I keep walking I see another man leaving in a boat house and he shows me how he has painted it with wax but it is coming out.

I am with two girls in a second hand shop and one of them decides to buy a cheap looking jacket with a fake fur. She then goes to the cashier to pay it but it turns out to be a lot of money. As she is about to pay both her friend and I take a bill out to help her but my bill is actually Swedish.

I am outside a small cafe with my spiritual friend and decide to go inside. It is actually a shop selling a lot of electric components and I pick an adapter. I then go back out and give it to my friend. He can plug it in a socket on his laptop and we realize that it is a modem giving us free Internet.

I am on the side of a street with some locals looking at the pope coming by. He does but we don't even greet him and I suddenly realize that we are on top of the roof of an old condominium. I can't really move forward because my hand is sinking in the cement and backward I can fall down.

I am with my son watching television in a small room. We are actually laying on the ground and he set the program we are watching to end according to when we have to go to the airport. There is an old woman on the bed and she also comes down to the ground and goes to lay next to my son.

I am in a Southern Italian friend's apartment and play with his daughter. She wants us to go on a skateboard inside but the place is very small. I then pretend that I am interested and she lays on the ground so that I can jump over her with the skateboard. Her father is also serious about it.

I am in a bathroom in the middle of the night and realize that an old friend has hanged his wet towel right on top of the WC. It is all wet around it and I dry it before opening up the towel in the middle of the bathroom. I then start peeing but miss the WC making the floor around it wet again.

I am in a car outside a condominium waiting for an American guy. He finally comes out and I open the door for him but realize that he has dropped a lot of scrap on the floor. I don't pick it up and we leave anyway. As I try to put some music on I find that the songs I downloaded are invalid.

I am working on my field in the mountains when my neighbour's son asks me if I need any help. I then tell him that I need to plow the land for my installation and I take my small son with me on his tractor. As we start driving on a dirt road I get off but my son keeps seated with him.

I am watching a movie about Russian prisoners being put in a very small military truck. There are only five of them inside and it is already full but the German soldiers want to try to fit twenty more. They then try to squeeze on the side but it is too low and realize that they will all die suffocated.

I am in a river bathing with some foreign exchange students. We are actually in the middle of a city and I am trying to convince them to rent my apartment there. I can't see it and we move further down the river to get closer to it and find that there is even a small sauna in front of it.

I am walking in a countryside road with a group of young Japanese people. I hear them talking about going from a Chinese city where they live to a Korean city in order to get their passport. I was also living in the same Chinese city and I ask them in which street they live but we reach a cafe.

I am in a dark classroom editing a movie of all the photos I have taken of my right hand using objects. I have another video I made with right hand photos and superimpose it on the one I am making. They play well together but I have to put the audio down not to disturb my classmates.

I am driving a car with my girlfriend and come to the immigrant Swedish neighborhood where I used to live. I want to check it again but we need to find a parking and I know it is quite expensive towards the city center. I actually see a big parking lot covered with snow and we park there.

I am walking outside a city and get on a pedestrian bridge. It actually also connects to another part of the city I did not explore but I have to go down a lot of staircases to then get up again at the same level where I am now. The staircases themselves look to fragile and I finally decide not to go.

I am watching a movie about a man walking out of a garage. There are some gangsters at the door and they let him pass but then one of them decide to beat him up. The man is not afraid and warms his hands up crashing them through the ceiling. He then takes a chain to strangle the guy.

I am walking on a mountain road with my daughter and see my Dutch neighbours' kids approaching. They are actually riding an electric moped and we keep walking together. I find a big Swiss knife on the ground and I show it to their parents but there is my former father-in-law among them.

I am biking in a small and straight road in the countryside. I am actually much faster than other people but another guy soon passes me. I then realize that I am just training inside a gym looking out of the window. My old friends are also there and one of them can get in for free twice a week.

I am getting inside a very big classroom where I am supposed to take an exam. I am not prepared and I ask a girl to seat next to me in one corner. We actually get a Latin sentence to translate and I tell her to help me. I cannot read her calligraphy and the teacher starts walking around.

I am inside a big station with my son and his mother. We actually need to catch a train and try to buy the tickets at a machine but I cannot select the arrival station on the screen. We finally manage and start running to the train but we also have a small dog for each of us to carry.

I am in a city talking to my old Swedish art professor. We actually go to an Asian restaurant together and order some takeaway food. He really wants his dish with Swedish bread and we seat in a park to eat it. I then tell him of my time spent in a Chinese city but he doesn't care about it.

I am walking on a countryside road and reach the gate of a zoo. I know that there is an hardware store inside and I ask the three guys at the counter if I can just go in to buy a few things. One guy allows me but then talks with the other two and I have to leave them a stolen phone as a warrant.

I am looking for a small bookshop next to a frozen lake. I finally find the back of the shop and ask the owner to show me some philosophy books. He has one about a Stoic who was actually depicted as Jesus. As he shows me a more contemporary one I suddenly see my old friends behind me.

I am in the mountain field where I am planning to build my installation. There is already grass growing after the digging and the terrain is nicely flat. As I am about to take the measurements I realize that I am too much down and have to go further up a slope. I do so with my old tractor.

I am in a park playing frisbee with two other guys. They are really good together but one of them throws me the frisbee. I am actually standing on top of a hill and I try to throw it down with some power but the frisbee just goes along the hill without going down. One of the guys runs to fetch it.

I am in the house of my Italian neighbours and can see the field where I am planning to build my installation. I then realize that it will be possible to see it from there. As I tell my neighbours that I have to go back to work I am also able to see the top of a very high mountain right behind it.

I am driving with a family friend through the countryside. There are beautiful old farms and I actually recognize one. I know that there is a lake north of it and I assume we should stop there but my friend keeps driving. He is actually on the way to meet his girlfriend who studies in another city.

I am with a guy walking below a crane. Some people are trying to replace the hook and the guy just takes another one and assembles it with a different piece. He then gives it to the leader of the workers to inspect. The latter is really impressed and takes him on the side to offer him a job.

I am in a restaurant with my Greek homosexual friend and ask him an advice about my mountain installation. I explain to him that I rely on different labels triggering content on the visitors' mobile phone but there is no network. He then tells me that I should stabilize the internet consumption.

I am up on the mountains showing a friend my van. We are actually driving it down and I realize how big it is in comparison with the small roads. I then decide to turn on a bigger road and we reach a town. There is a big curve I have to make to avoid driving inside it but I keep straight.

I am at the Swedish tax office with my old friends. One of them has blue eyes and I realize that a Swedish girl is looking at him. He is actually called up to the desk and soon it also get my turn. I have a ticket to scan but I am not sure which one is the right direction and it doesn't work.

I am walking with my twin sister on a dike next to a big river. The dike gets very high and I want to continue going straight but suddenly the road ends and there is a under passage to go on the opposite side. We then start walking back and my sister asks a local policeman how to continue.

I am a detective and my colleague sees that on the window of a serial killer there is a note about how to get his car keys. We then walk to a station and get them from a black homeless. We then see him getting on a truck and we also try to do so but our young colleague is pushed down.

I am walking in a school and find that my classmate are taking a big exam with my old supervisor. I then go in an empty classroom but my new supervisor is also there and she tells me how religious the school is. Her husband also comes and hands the students there exams to correct.

I am seating at a small conference making a drawing with many animals. A famous architect then thinks I am making a visual sketch about the different presentations. I show him I am not but he anyway invites me to his studio on the Swiss boarder. I then ask him for the correct address.

I am in the German capital and fetch my bike next to a car of a family that is taking their son and my son to school. They think I am homeless and they invite me to spend the nights in their car. I then tell them that I was just late and follow them through a path I have never biked before.

I am in a Chinese neighborhood with a lot of traditional houses turned into contemporary galleries. There is also my girlfriend getting inside one selling fashion articles. I can see they also sell cheap mountain shoes on the ground floor and I also get inside but she is already on her way out.

I am on a roller-costar with my son and he explains how he has designed himself with his classmates. It seems very advance but it is actually going to slow. As I ask him about it we reach a big curve and I see a young guy testing the speed with a remote control only to play with some friends.

I am with a friend and we see two nice girls walking out of a building. We then try to follow them down a staircase but it is a very dusty building and we reach the exit that they are already gone. We then take the elevator up and find that they have left us a message. One of the girls is still there.

I am in an hotel room on a bed next to a bigger bed. As I check the mess I left an old family friend comes in. He is also sharing the room with me and gets very disappointed. I then tell him that I will clean up the room immediately but he takes his laptop out to complain to the hotel manager.

I am in a barn with an ultrasound scanner. I am actually supposed to check the fetus of a pregnant cow and I get in an other room with the device. As I try to position it against her belly she starts moving. I finally manage to get a picture of the fetus before she gets into the other room.

I am at a police station attempting to renew my passport and show my documents to a Southern Italian officer. He finds that many of them are unnecessary but I miss the copies of my parents passports. I then tell him that my father lives abroad but I am the relative of a famous writer.

I am home at my parents discussing with my sister what car to use. We have three different options and the last one is our stepfather pick up but I find it too big. As we decide to take my mother's small car she comes in and I ask her if I can use the aereosol for my nose but my sister needs it.

I am driving with a young foreign couple through the town below my mountains. They seem not so interested about it and I drive in the more historical part. We first pass a church entirely built with stones and then continue through a very large square. As I look carefully it is a cemetery.

I am in a Swedish city walking with my girlfriend and her friends. We get in a stadium to see if one of them can buy the ticket but there are no matches scheduled. He then wishes to buy something from the gift-shop but it just closed. As they leave I manage to buy a scarf of a team for him.

I am in my parents' mountain village and see that my stepfather and other neighbours are building a barricade on a dirt road. I then go out and see that they are trying to block a local farmer. I get angry about it and they finally let him pass. He just needed to park his tractor in his garage.

I am seating on a small wall next to a pedestrian street when some young teenagers also seat down. One of them has two girlfriends and starts kissing them right next to me. I feel very uneasy and he also asks me whether I have an adapter to transfer his phone memory to a normal computer.

I am in a Scandinavian forest building my installation. I am actually running out of water to mix cement and walk with the bucket on the path back home. I then realize that it is still half full and I am just carrying extra weight. I will use another bucket to bring the water back to there.

I am walking next to a lake at sunset and find a big rock to lay against and film the landscape. As I prepare to do so I spot a wolf to my right but I keep on filming. As I finish the wolf is coming my way but I just move to the side and it growls. There are steps on the rock and he goes that way.

I am in my mountain village and see that my neighbour is trying to cut grass with a small machine. I have actually borrowed a small screwdriver from him and I try to give it back but the machine makes too much sound and he doesn't hear. I then walk in front of him and just give it to him.

I am walking in a building with an old friend and tell him that he should also contribute to the gasoline. He doesn't really agree and starts running down a staircase. I am also about to do it but find some small offices promoting different local projects. I then try to search for one to sponsor me.

I am watching a TV series about a fat boy going to school. He actually meets a girl who is posing as a model in the corridor. She is in love with him but he doesn't know that and suddenly show her how big his biceps are. She only loved him when he was fat and now stops loving him.

I am with my girl checking the abandoned house where my stepfather son-in-law will renovate. We enter the main room and wish to continue further but it is very dark. We actually find a small girl sleeping on a bed and I tell the girl to get her but as we walk out I hear another baby crying.

I am walking in my native village to get new clothes. I actually see an old cousin but he doesn't recognize me and I anyway think I am wearing too old clothes. As I keep walking towards the shop I realize that I have forgotten home the clothes I bought there and thought of replacing.

I am checking my email and find that I have been accepted to a doctorate in an Italian university. There is no scholarship but I have nothing better to do and I check the attachment. There are photos of the current doctorates and I also see that there is an old friend and he is wearing a tie.

I am sleeping in a German house when the owners come to talk to me. They want to continue the conversation we had the night before and they ask me what I think about the German capital. I am actually still under my blankets and pull myself a bit higher up to try to answer them.

I am walking in a park with a girl on my side. My arm is actually across her and I touch her breast. She then wants to have sex in a church and I follow her there. As we get in she starts crawling on the wooden floor and I realize that she is very fat and ugly. I decide to run away immediately.

I am in my old university talking to my Swedish supervisor. She has talked to all the other professors and they have decided to have me back as a teacher. I then tell her that I cannot because I am about to be a father for the third time but she tells me that I will have to mostly do research.

I am at a restaurant with my old friends but some of them are still missing. As we wait for them to start eating one of them asks me if he can try my scooter. I then tell him that I can take him for a ride and we go down a country road. As we get quite far I realize that the front tire is flat.

I am in a bathroom of a big family house. I should actually wash myself and I wonder how they can be so many living there with such a small showering. I then even fit inside and I am about to give up but then see they also have another shower. It is very big but I feel claustrophobic inside.

I am watching a movie about a mafia boss coming back to his town after years. He then goes to seat at the pub owned by his brother. The latter is being the bartender and the mafia boss asks him where he spent the night. The brother cannot lie to him and just say that another boss is arriving.

I am visiting my aunt at her place and we start talking about my family situation. I am actually seating in her kitchen and she is standing behind me touching my shoulder. As I tell her that things are not going so well with my mother she suddenly presses her nails through my skin.

I am in an dark attic checking the tools I have. My trimmer is too old and I consider buying a new one. As I also think of another machine I need to buy I see that I do have a new trimmer of the German brand I wanted. I then check it out but realize it is a machine to plow the land.

I am in my old American university lab talking to my director. He is still offering me to work on a commission and I listen to what I have to do. He wants me to do a research on a TV series I have never heard of. He doesn't even tell me what to research and when to deliver the results.

I am walking with an old man to the center of my native village. Everything is new and I don't recognize it anymore. I then tell the man that it is getting too gentrified but he likes like that. As we keep on walking through a square I wish I could film it but the man takes me to a knives shop.

I am walking a city and walk inside a pharmacy to get a medicine for my back. It is actually a Chinese traditional pharmacy and the owner makes me seat on a chair. He then tells me three points I should press on my back when I feel pain. I then should pay but have different kind of bills.

I am on a plane and see an atomic bomb going on the opposite direction. In front of us there are a lot of military helicopters and the plane has to fly lower down where there are many other planes flying the opposite directions. As we land no one is alerted but then we hear an explosion.

I am in a big museum watching a picture of my installation together with many other pictures. A curator is looking at it and hear him asking to talk to another artist. I come closer and realize he is telling him his personal password even though it is too long and too hard to memorize.

I am walking in a field with my girlfriend. She is scarring our daughter in the shoulders and I see that there is a German shepherd approaching. I am afraid it might attack us but it runs away down a forest. There is a second german shepherd but this time it runs towards us to protect a flock.

I am on top of a mountain with a servant and he asks me about the vineyard we own below the mountain. I then tell him that the grapes are ripe if he wants to pick some but he is confused on where to pick them and I have to follow him downhill. As we get there I show him the right grapes.

I am in a small kitchen with my parents. My mother is seating by the window and I get close to her but she wants me to get a haircut. I then tell her that I want my hairs long and take my stepfather by the neck. I start yelling at my stepfather who does not try to resolve our argument.

I am working in the field building my installation in the mountains when my neighbours come to help. There is a black guy among them and I tell him to be careful when uses the ax. I then instruct everyone where we should start digging but there are too many and they could hurt each other.

I am in a cafeteria trying to walk outside but it is prohibited. I then get in the garden and ask an old friend who leads me on the roof. From there my old friends below start throwing things at me and I pick glass containers filled with spices to hit them back even though I am getting surrounded.