

I am walking in a city at night and see a pub with American girls playing pool. They are having a lot of fun and I notice that in the next pub also my old friends are playing it. I get inside and find that my sister is winning. My best friend is already out of the tournament but he was close to win.

I am in a large mall and can see that on a floor below me my uncle is teaching one of my twin cousins how to play golf. I actually thought that both my cousins were golf champions but I see my uncle teaching one of them a very basic shot over a wooden box. My cousin cannot even manage it.

I am in a yacht going up a small river. There is actually one kid with her mother bathing on one side and I wonder how it can navigate next to them without any accident. It can also go on very shallow waters and manages to reach a small harbour were all passengers but me can get off.

I am walking up a big and very steep staircase holding myself on a rope. There are a lot of people in front of me and I realize that the rope is tied to a guy who suddenly seats down with his girlfriend to contemplate the view. I then have nothing to hold myself with and try to make it to the top.

I am in a condominium and realize that my mother and her husband live there with a small girl. She is actually playing on the staircase and I come close to her even though she has certainly never seen me before. I have some candies with me and offer the healthiest one to her made with fruit.

I am on the ground floor of a building. The ceiling is very low and it is quite dark but I can see the reconstruction of a traditional stone house. I am actually very impressed by the result and see a smaller model showing how the plaster have been applied after placing the stones in a straw net.

I am in a big square and see an old Indonesian friend. I want to greet her and walk towards her but another girl I know comes my way. The latter hugs me and wants to talk to me but I want to keep walking towards my old friend. I try to but the other girl just stops me and I see my friend leave.

I am in a gallery with another artist and see a machine producing a long abstract painting. It is quite beautiful with many colorful spots but I notice that suddenly the machine starts producing a perpendicular stripe. It is not as beautiful but the artist explains to me that it is for stability.

I am in a small Japanese restaurant and look for the waitress to pay. I need to walk to a much bigger restaurant to find her. She is serving costumers keeping social distance and I realize that in the other restaurant we are all squeezed together despite the pandemic. I then call the local cops.

I am in the main street of a town going uphill. There is my cousin from my father side talking to me and we see my twin sister passing by with two dogs. One of them is actually newly bought and I try to pet him but my sister starts walking back. I then realize she doesn't want meet our cousin.

I am biking with my Neapolitan friend and our kids. We are looking for a place where to make them play but he decides to get in a ferry. As I keep the distance thinking whether I should also join them I see him bending to pick up her small daughter. He is naked and he penis very long.

I am driving with a guy and try to search for some decent music. It is all very cheesy and I pretend that it is the radio and turn it off in a tunnel. There is actually a beautiful view of a lake just outside and we park to check it out. We then see photos of two friends meeting there over the years.

I am in a cigarette shop with an Italian friend. She is buying candies for our kids and I also start eating from a package. The show owner then asks me for my ID and I give it to her even though it is foreign. She then scans it and I realize she is sending me an old bill. I then take it and ran away.

I am in an old city and try to film a small square but there is a pig next to me. I then find a nice street and try to film there but there are some ladies in front. My camera turns all the videos in a mosaic and as I try to disable that feature a gypsy comes seating next to me and it gets too dark.

I am walking on a road of a big Canadian city and find a camping bottle. There is a pretty blond girl walking next to me but I anyway pick it up. It is quite new and I keep on walking next to the girl across an intersection. The bottle cap is on the ground but cars have been running over it.

I am in a Swedish city approaching the main museum there. I have a meeting with the curator but I see that my twin sister is driving a bus. She is actually black and we are supposed to meet. I then make a sign to her that we can meet later and she makes a sign to me that she will eat.

I am walking in a forest and reach the outskirts of an industrial area. I can see two separate buildings each of them with two clocks. One of these clocks is digital and small while the other is analogue and very big. I then realize that the latter is at least half an hour behind and is not working.

I am back in our Dutch house and see that the garden is full of sand. I then realize that the neighbour has been digging out our bike shed and has left a big hole. As I go to the end of the garden to check I don't get angry with him but only ask him what has happened to the car we had there.

I am in a forest building my cubic installation. I am taking a break next to it and see some people passing. One of them comes to see the installation and even walks the stairs up even though they are not attached to anything. I then realize that the ground floor is surrounded with white walls.

I am in a laboratory and tell a professor to let me finish my doctorate. He actually agrees and gives me half of his office to install my welding equipment. As I manage to put up the gas tank I get a phone call from another professor who tells me that I should come to his office to set up a lecture.

I am working at my installation in the mountains when three twins with a white beard arrive. They start looking and I am sure that they have their negative opinions. I try to greet them but they keep walking. My girlfriend comes the other way and tells me that they were positively impressed.

I am walking on a busy road of a capital city. I then see the hunter who has been opposing my installation and I make sign to him that I won. He then laugh at me and I take a metal bar to hit him. I actually manage to push his car down a river and I make up a weird animation as my alibi.

I am having an interview to enter a master programme in fine art. I try to explain to the professors that they are not able to see a final result with my work because it is long lasting. I tell them to look at the small documentaries I make but one of the professors realizes that I still have her goggles.

I am in a vegetable garden with a girl and realize that there are still some empty spots where we can cultivate. There is one next to the road and I take a small shovel to plow it. The earth is very soft but I realize that it is too yellow and it will need some maneuver if we want to grow anything.

I am with two friends walking by a river and I realize that they are on the other side of a canal. I then manage to jump over it without falling and reach them that one of them has to run over the water to go across another canal. I try to jump again without falling but I also have to crawl across.

I am in a beer hall with a guy and a waiter tells us that we just won two beers. We then go to the bar tender to get them but he wants to know the kind. I then tell them how we want them but he wants us to be more specific. I don't know what to say but then specify two different nationalities.

I am walking in an old city with my spiritual friend and he shows me a small square where he used to seat to learn English. He actually did not study it at school and he had to learn it by himself but that method did not work. At last he decided to volunteer for an English speaking artist.

I am looking at an album with photos of my oldest son. We are playing playing together and he looks quite young but in the following pictures he looks quite old. I then wonder how it could be that the pictures shows us in almost the same position but in the last ones he is so much older.

I am in a garden and see that a French student assisting me with the filming of my installation is asleep on a picnic table. I am also very tired and go to sleep on the opposite side but she wakes up and wants to put her head against my shoulder. She then comes closer but it is uncomfortable.

I am driving a motorcycle down a highway but realize that I am going on the wrong side. As I manage to turn around and go back up I recognize the friend of a friend walking with a group of people. She invites me to her small apartment and I follow her there. I then recognize another friend.

I am walking with a girl to a beach but come to a dead end. I then realize that the road continues under a tunnel and we manage to get on the opposite side of a cliff. My favourite beach starts there and I show her how beautiful is the colour of the sea but it is all green and the tide is too high.

I am taking care of a vegetable garden I have for rent and find that there are a lot of green leaves on the pathways. I then start to rake them up in big piles and ask a Chinese man where I should put them. He then tells me that I cannot throw anything away but they will come to pick them up.

I am in a student complex when a lady comes to inspect our living standards. I then show her the rooms of the other students and she wants to verify whether they actually live there. None of them is at home but I show her that I am sharing a room with my sister and we even have a bathtub.

I am on a boat going through a canal of an old Italian city. It is very crowded with tourists but it finally manages to reach a deserted island. I then guide a group of young people across it but I am too fast and have to stop at a crossing to wait for them. They don't arrive and I eat a sardine can.

I am in an American family restaurant and pay for a breakfast I just had. The waiter only asks for very little money and I tell her to keep the change. She insists in giving it to me but I refuse even though with the other hand I realize that I have taken the bill I gave her back. She then kisses me.

I am in a classroom with a group of students taking a math exam by slicing a pizza. I also want to take part in the exam but realize that I have been banned from the high school. It was actually my supervisor who gave me an extra exam to take even though I already got my doctorate with her.

I am walking on a road with a friend and realize that he is quite drunk. He has been drinking in a pub with two other guys and they are now driving to another pub. One of them is quite sober still and wants to drive. A he enters the car I pat him in the shoulders and tell him to be careful.

I am in a square with my youngest son crawling around. Suddenly a much smaller kid comes walking towards us. I then realize that if the latter is able to walk also my son should walk. I then take him with my hands and then leave him up alone. He suddenly stands and then walks away.

I am in a restaurant eating lunch with my parents and I propose my stepfather to stay over for dinner. He actually needs to drive to a city up north and from there he will continue home. As he goes to the toilette my mother shows me a presentation he is preparing but I am unable to export it.

I am watching an old documentary about the political turmoil in a German city. As the main church is set on fire a bus with immigrants from another German province arrives. They are all decent citizens who needs to be relocated but the local population starts to protest also about them.

I am attending a seminar with other students. My spiritual friend is also there and he interrupts the teacher saying that education no longer teaches pupils to do things from scratch. He then tells about my first wearable computer and I try to explain to them how difficult it was to wear it.

I am in a square with a guy who approaches a ground floor room. He is actually renting it to a young mother but she is one day late to pay the rent. She is not inside and he starts throwing her stuff out. I also help him but then realize that she might have forgotten to pay and he is too harsh.

I am in a nightclub dancing with an old friend telling me about another friend who got together with a girl for a long time but then broke up. As we keep on dancing while talking my Polish friend arrives with his girlfriend but does not say hi. They walk behind us and tell me about their car.

I am in our Dutch house when someone knocks on the window. I then open and realize that it is an Italian military policeman who came to give me two electoral cards. I thank him even though I do not understand why there is one for my Dutch girlfriend and he goes to another neighbour.

I am with a girl inside a garage and see a guy arriving with a jeep. We are one floor higher and we can see him masturbating. The girl realizes she had her jeep parked there and runs down to see if it was stolen. The garage keeper then shows her that he parked our two jeeps further inside.

I am in a park building a patio for a rich old lady. I actually already have the structure but still need to cement the legs on the ground. As I try to make an estimate on how many concrete bags I will need my Neapolitan friend arrives. I really want to finish the work but he keeps on talking.

I am nearby a small lake and would like to fish but there are two girls in front of me also fishing. As I look at how unprepared they are I see a guy on their left with a very good equipment. His rod breaks and another girl on the right of the two girls manages to pull it back up with two trouts.

I am with my girlfriend driving in a highway and think that I keep on going straight but the road becomes much smaller. I start going up hill looking for a place where to turn around. We reach a small village and get enchanted by the view with a destroyed fort on a green mountain below us.

I am in a small ferry talking with two American girls. They work for a cultural organization and I guess they are from the east coast. They are actually from the west coast and I tell them that I am also working with a girl from their city. I am actually not so happy with her but lie about her.

I am in my Venetian apartment when a student calls me to his room. He is having a video-call with our director and the latter wants to talk to me. He accuses me of having insulted our institution and I try to ask him more details but he keeps on yelling. I then decide to quit it and leave.

I am walking with a former lesbian colleague around a mall. She tells me about her brother who is not well accepted because of his queerness. He even had his eyelashes dyed blond and I ask her if she thinks I am also not so well accepted because of my dark skin colour while everyone is light.

I am in an apartment with my mother feeding my stepsister young kid. I actually brought bread for all of us and I try a piece but realize that it is covered in salt. I then think that the kid won't be able to eat it but my mother tells my stepfather about it. He wants to eat with me but I have to go.

I am biking through an old Italian city and realize that I once had a girlfriend there. I actually bike by many older women who could be that girl but I wouldn't be able to recognize her. One of them could be the one but she goes inside a museum and I know that my ex was low educated.

I am on the phone with a Brazilian girl that is the neighbour of one of my friends. She is actually supposed to open the gate for one of my friends who is going to lodge in a condominium next to her. She gives me another phone number but I loose it and ask my friend to find hers back.

I am waking up in the middle of the night and realize that I am in my spiritual friend holiday apartment. He is working on his laptop in the kitchen and tells me about a girl he met. I then ask him why he does not come to the beach with her but he tells me that he finds the water too polluted.

I am in a lab with a student who has just won a prize with me. We have been putting a robot inside a chicken and she shows me how the jury commented on it. On the top part they wrote that they liked it there and on the bottom they wrote next to the buttock that they don't like this part.

I am watching a movie about two gay actors who travel back in time when one of them was straight. They then find themselves with his old family in a big villa. One of them arrives by car but forget to put the hand break. As one actor tries to stop it the other gets to hold his twin daughters.

I am on top of an island checking the shed that a local man had illegally built. There are two floors but barely a place where to stretch his legs. I then regret not having built my project there and run down at a high speed. I reach the house of the local man but try not to greet his family.

I am at a train station trying to get a ticket to visit my mother. I then use a machine but I cannot choose at what time I can travel. It only gives me a ticket to travel late in the evening and I ask a train conductor seating nearby if it is an error. She then tells me that all other trains are full.

I am walking in a mall trying to find a way to the top floor. I first see an escalator but it is actually going down. I recognize an old University classmate and follow him around a counter where there is a staircase. It also goes down and I start walking on a corridor finally finding an elevator.

I am watching a movie about two military jeeps driving in the desert and hitting one another. They are filled of mercenaries and one of the bosses goes up to the roof to see what is going on. His bulletproof jacket gets stuck and as he pulls it off the other jeep starts shooting through his jeep.

I am next to an abandoned barn in the forest cleaning up the land on one side. There are several dead branches on the ground and I start piling them us paying attention not to hit any passerby. I then realize that the land is a better place where to build my installation then the field below.

I am in a city hall waiting for a meeting with the director. He is supposed to assign me an assistant and I notice that the latter is already there. As we keep on waiting for the director he tells me that he has no ideas what he can assist me with. I then tell him how he has to look into materials.

I am with some friends walking down a road in a forest and tell them to move to the side as soon as big tractor approaches. In the back of it we notice two small twins that the farmer is carrying with him. We then walk to the village but it is only an indoor mall with very old merchandises.

I am in a bus and hear some American students commenting on how comfortable it is. I then remember when I use to ride Swedish buses how much I disliked them but then see that we are approaching the condominium where my step grandmother lived. It is very ugly but the bus is very good.

I am in the living room of our Dutch house holding my youngest son to train him walking. He is quite afraid of letting my hands go and I give up the idea of trying to let him walk by himself. As I try to put him against the bookshelf he actually starts walking by himself to his sister's desk.

I am in the old house of some poor people cooking food for them. There are not so many ingredients but I manage to make a nice cake. As I start cutting it I hear my rich cousin approaching with a noisy car. I then walk outside to greet him and see he brought along a lot of cheap grocery.

I am in a pub with some people and we listen to the DJ playing really nice music. A girl then asks me to sing along but I refuse and she starts singing in perfect Spanish. I then compliment her also in Spanish and the girl next to her also starts singing a song as if she was a Spanish native.

I am with my girlfriend in the living room of our Dutch house when we see a lot of rats. We then open a drawer and let them go in there. I pick a box of poison and empty it inside the drawer but the rats that come forward to eat it are now very small and I look at them slowly eating and dying.

I am walking in the night with an old American friend and his girlfriend to their university. I am thinking to also enroll there and let them walk forward. As we get inside we need to get on a small elevator and I go in after my friend. Another guy also needs to come in but it s limited to two.

I am on a trampoline with my kids and try to pick pieces of metal before they jump on them and get hurt. I also find a bag of sandwiches but inside there is only a donut left. I then ask my kids if anyone wants it but none of them do. My oldest son would have loved one but he is far away.

I am in the villa of my best friend and go to the top floor. As I look to the wall I see several square windows and realize that the villa has been designed after a drawing I made of a cathedral to host my project. On the floor I see more window frames that are being painted black by a company.

I am at the edge of a small square and see a guy training on his bike. He was actually part of my baseball team and I look at him trying to stand on his front wheel while it is still spinning. He says out loud that he is not going home until he manages but I realize that he is too fat for that.

I am at a restaurant with my parents and help a British homosexual couple to join us with their small kid. One of them actually complain that they don't like the restaurant because it is too expensive and I decide to just get what my mother orders. She goes for a juice made with large carrots.

I am in a kitchen preparing lunch when I hear my best friend outside. He is actually holding another guy from the back and pretends that he is a girl. I then see that he has his penis out and he is harassing him. As I look more carefully I see that he already came and wants to fuck him twice.

I am walking on a flat and straight hiking path and notice that all the other hikers are wearing many more clothes. I then realize we are very high up in the mountains and that these hikers are all old. I walk pass many of them trying to look for an exit to the side to look at the view from above.

I am at a small art fair that it is closing up and an old owner of a stand offers to give a ride home. She actually has a big stroller and I get in with other young people. There are two seats in the back and two seats in the front but another guy gets in even though they are already taken.

I am in our Dutch house and have to drive my car out of the paying parking lot in front. It is actually a huge yellow jeep and I cannot even get in. I then start pulling it out from one side but realize that I am almost hitting a car standing on the opposite side. I don't care and just keep pushing.

I am at a butcher and walk out greeting the people standing in line. Almost at the end is also my family and I tell them that I can come to visit them the following weekend. We should go skiing together but my mother says that it could be bad weather. I then tell her we will come either way.

I am in the mountains with a guy who wants to sell me his automatic car. I don't really like it but I ask him to take me for a ride. He then starts going quite slow and I tell him that I like the orange colour but I prefer a different American car that is not electric. He says that it is not expensive.

I am in an abandoned village with my small daughter. We slowly walk on the main road waiting for my spiritual friend to show up dressing an Halloween costume. We are supposed to play a game together but he is not coming out. I then see that he keeps hidden in a booth without costume.

I am going out of a restaurant and get in the parking lot that only my parents' car is there. I will use to travel down south but my step father suddenly arrives with my old car. I then ask him whether I should use that one instead but he tells me to keep his. I do so but a lot of cars arrive.

I am watching a TV program about the trial of a girl who is accused of homicide by the people of her town. She then tells the jury how she is actually very poor and innocent but another girl stops her and tells how she in fact owns quite many properties and makes a good profit renting them.

I am in a room trying to fix the light of an electric panel. My architect is also there and thinks it is an art installation I am building. He then wants to take some pictures of the installation and I finally manage to plug the light in but it is not working. As I am giving up I realize there is a switch.

I am in a car with my girlfriend traveling west from an Eastern American city. We both had low expectation about it but the hills there a beautiful with a lot of villas. I then suddenly remember that I was previously driving there with a Mormon friend and that I have should have remember it.

I am looking through a book and realize that there are pictures of me and my Polish friend when we were young. As I keep flipping the pages I see that we were climbing a very tall rocky mountain. We look happy and I should feel quite nostalgic about it but realize that I felt quite uneasy then.

I am walking on a road and see a souvenir shop. I then decide to go in but there is a long line and I end up in a public toilette. A girl is waiting me there and tells me that she got really horny looking at me. She actually has a boyfriend and I feel rather intimidated but we decide to go back out.

I am in our Dutch house with my old friends visiting. It is actually my birthday and they lift me up in the air and start walking around the living room. I try to photograph them but they keep on moving and I could drop my camera. I then ask my brother-in-law to take it easy but he doesn't.

I am in a city with two local guys and I tell them how I use to go with my oldest son on a boat in a dirty river there. They then show me that there are much more beautiful places and we start biking out to the river delta. We only follow it briefly and one of them shows me how I can go around it.

I am in my mountain village and ask my drunk neighbour if I can borrow her grass cutting machine. It is actually quite good and she tells me that she got it from another widow after her husband died. I then start using it but my girlfriend complains that it will take me too long to do so.

I am on a small bridge and talk to my best friend who is in the terrace of his new house overlooking the water. He then tells me that my sister got a new jeep and I notice that my brother-in-law is also there. I then ask him how come they keep on changing cars but he gets angry and denies it.

I am walking down a forest path and come to a crossing where I should wait for some girls who will give me a ride home. I get actually curious to check the forest down the valley and check if they are coming. As I don't see anyone I walk down but realize they can't get in contact with me.

I am in my mountain apartment and get in my bedroom that it is very late at night. I expect it to be rather cold but there is an electric heater on and it feels like I can survive the night. As I check it I realize that the temperature is set to the minimum and I decide to put it to the maximum.

I am on a small beach with my girlfriend and talk about my ex wife when we actually see her coming on a boat. She is trying to tell me something but I don't understand. I then get closer to the water and hear her screaming that her mother has found the first condoms we have ever used.

I am with my spiritual friend in front of an American art gallery. There is actually an opening and I start looking at how the wall brick have been decorated in different colours. As the music also starts the owner approaches us to congratulate on our art works. I don't care and start dancing.

I am in a empty hostel and see that the owner is eating potatoes from her own garden. As I go to my oldest son who is still laying in bed I realize that the owner is showering in our room and has left the door open. I then try to distract my son not to look inside and decide to go out for dinner.

I am in a building that is completely under renovation. The workers have set up machines to lift panels along the old wall and I get in a corridor to reach my apartment. It has also been renovated and I notice that the same company got the contract to renovate a shop down the corridor.

I am with my youngest son in a hotel. He is actually asleep in the stroller and I have to attend a conference. I then check the location in the lobby and find the right auditorium. I slide through it with the stroller even though the conference has already started and the panel is looking at me.

I am in a car at night with my mother and she tells me that her old car is on my name. She actually wants to sell it and an old friend seating with us wants to buy the pieces but I tell them that it is a good car and it can last a very long time. I then think of taking for myself and really use it.

I am in an empty classroom with an old classmate training to become a model. There is actually a WC in front of her ad I use it to pooh. I take my time trying to also finish an assignment but she tells me that another classmate is waiting for me to finish together. I do manage to finish it alone.