

I am in an airport with my family and manage to get a ticket at a student price. We then start driving out of the parking lot and realize that they are doing some works and it is for free. My girlfriend wants to park indoor and then take the train but we can anyway park the day off our departure.

I am on an old bridge my daughter about to film the city in front of when I hear a man speaking some Italian. I then also want to show him that I am Italian and decide to draw the scenery instead of filming it As I make some progress with a belfry he actually look at it but he is not impressed.

I am in the garden of my best friend arranging to spend the night in his garden house. He actually comes out as well and tells me that before I do that I must clean up the living room where I spent the previous night. I then realize that it is his son who has made a mess but accept to clean it.

I am in our Dutch house with guests waiting for me but I anyway decide to shower before joining them. There are only some wooden planks to stand on in the bathroom and I can see the old floor below. As I shower I realize that the water actually cleans up the dirt and there are not rat holes.

I am checking the three dimensional drawing of an expensive car on my computer. I am surprised to find that it is not expensive but as I look into it I realize that the price underneath is only to buy the drawing. I then think who would spend all these money to do so and conclude a designer.

I am in the living room of our Dutch house watching TV and find a program with local girls looking for a boyfriend. The conductor then focuses on one of them and she suddenly pulls her shirt up. I actually manage to put my penis in my mouth and suck it even though the curtain is open.

I am in a small apartment trying to make my new laptop to work but I don't manage. My Gambian flatmate gives me his old laptop and I am very satisfied but then have to wait a long time for it to boot and realize that it is an old model. Some buttons are even missing but I can still use them.

I am walking in my native village with an Eastern European girl who just had an exhibition. She almost sold a painting and I tell her that I can make a new exhibition using the same format. She the grabs my hand and before it is time to depart even kisses me but she keeps her lips closed.

I am going out of a condominium when I see a small bag. I open it and find a pair of keys. I then go out to see to what car they belong to and find it is a very good car. I inform my best friend I want to drive away but he tells me he wouldn't. I anyway go back down but find that the car is gone.

I am getting several pictures from an old university friend. I then decide to add her and another friend on my social media account. I start with her but notice that her account is private and she only has one picture of her. She is dancing and that does not in the least show how she looks like.

I am working in a big monastery and realize that it is actually our new house. My girlfriend older brother is also helping us out closing the wall on top of a long corridor. He then tells us that he could make a door so that we can also use the space under the roof but I think it is too much.

I am entering a pizza place with my family even though it could be still too early. The fire in the oven is on and as we get close to it an old dead aunt comes to welcome me. She is the owner of the restaurant and knows exactly what kind of pizzas we want and they are already in the oven.

I am in a small auditorium giving a speech but cannot remember the three authors I wanted to mention. I only remember two and I then decide to only mention the titles of their work but I still cannot remember one. I then give it up and just talk to a curator about a new meeting we can have.

I am renovating an ancient wall in a garden when my mountain neighbour comes with a letter. It states when she will have to take an English exam and I also check if I got one. I see that I also have to take the exam even if I know English and it is right when I wanted to go on holiday.

I am inside a big market with a gay couple. It is after closing hour and we can walk through it checking out all the stands filled with candies. One of the gay guys asks me which kind I like and I say soft but then see that there is a tray filled with small penises and I hope he doesn't pick those.

I am in front of a small square where couples are training to dance. I also should join them but my girlfriend is still in the hospital. The teacher is there but she is very pregnant and I just start dancing by myself and tell the other couples how to bend their knees when a new song is played.

I am with my daughter in front of a restaurant and we try to go in but realize that the door is closed. She then tries to push it open but I stop her and show her how we can use the door as a percussion. I then start beating with my two hands the beats of a song and it turns out quite all right.

I am in the bathroom checking myself in the mirror after going to the gym. My chest is very big and I try all sort of poses to see how much muscles I have made. I even all shaved and realize I became very superficial and I should only go to the gym to feel better and not to look more handsome.

I am walking on a street in front of a toy shop and reach a shop selling electric supplies. I then go in to see if they can sell me a device to turn off my laser machine after one hour of operation. A lady gives me an electric component but I have no idea where I should add it and ask her to draw it.

I am in the bedroom of my parents' old house. As I walk out to the bathroom next to it I hear the voice of my ex wife saying that it is her bathroom. I then start walking to the other bathroom downstairs but it is close to where she is laying and I just ignore her while she keeps on mumbling.

I am in a square and hurry up to meet an Italian professor who has already been waiting for me for a long time. He then takes me inside his university building up a ladder. It looks very out of fashion but either way when I come to his office I meet his colleagues and we decide to collaborate.

I am walking around a villa where my former father-in-law is building a new house using a caterpillar. As I walk all the way around it I find that he is also building a all with giant granite rocks. There is cement around them but not in between them and I wonder how they can stay up together.

I am in the garden of my best friend when he comes to give me a towel as a present. It is quite dirty and I just use it as a bandana for his son. As I am about to wrap it on his head there is another guest who comes out from a window to warn me not to do it. I then put the towel in my car.

I am at an open theater waiting for the actor to begin a play but he suddenly comes saying that the pages of his script are frozen together. He can no longer read them anymore and just in the public and start flirting with a woman. He doesn't like she has gray hair but she has a red bra for him.

I am driving in a highway at night and reach a gas station. There are actually two cafe there and I just choose the first one even though it is about to close. The owner anyway lets me stay in a front room and when I go back to my car I find a message he wrote me wishing me a good journey.

I am approaching an old city built on the sea side and check out a white building. At first it looks like it is falling apart but then I see that it has been recently renovated but the sea salt is eating up the plaster. Another building next to it is also getting damaged even though it is made of stone.

I am in a shop waiting to be served but there are other people in front of me. A couple asks for a blue and a pink rain jackets. I also want a blue one and as the guy helping them gets freeI warn him that I have already spent a lot of money in the shops and he hurries to give me a rain jacket.

I am walking through an ugly neighborhood with condominiums all around. As I reach an intersection I get my camera out to make a film and my old neighbour from the mountains shows up with a friend. I then try to film the other way but she shows up again even closer and I just give it up.

I am in a small and dark apartment with my girlfriend and she shows me two swimsuits for our son. She likes a white one but I can see that it is too small for him and just tell her to go for the other one but then think that the white one might in fact fit well if our son wears it without diaper.

I am in a hostel and wake up to go out. I will have to fly home the next day and I notice that a Swedish friend is also there with his girlfriend. They have been up dancing all night long and I realize that I could do the same for my last night in the city but then see that they are loosing their flight.

I am at my mountain museum showing a local the time we built it together. It is very beautiful with the sun light going through a texture in the back while we set up one in the front. As I look through them for real I realize that the hunter next to me has put a lot of poles to mark our borders.

I am in the bathroom of our Dutch house with my children and show them how I can drink an egg we just found in a basket. I assume it is fresh and just crack it and try to drink it all but while the white is liquid and I can swallow it the yolk is hard as if it was cooked and I just spit it all out.

I am at a dining table with my German artist friend and my girlfriend. He is showing off saying that he almost has no white hairs but I can actually see a lot on his head. My girlfriend asks him how he manages to have so little and then he says he is using a blue colour but I can see it is orange.

I am driving in a highway with my girlfriend and get confused by some yellow lines on the asphalt. Suddenly some motorcycles coming the opposite directions comes on my lane and I have to promptly move to the other ones. I am then quite confused whether it is a highway or a normal road.

I am in a big shopping mall with my kids and want to get something to eat. There is a supermarket on the other side of the hallway where we are walking and I can see that there are some huge baguettes. I only need a normal one and some fruit for the children but there is no trace of it.

I am walking in the jungle and reach a village with all male people outside. Their whole head is painted in white and get ready to go for a procession. I then reach the only woman who seems to be the organizer and ask for some paint. She then shows me one guy who is just about to put it.

I am in a busy mall waiting for the elevator. There are actually a lot of people queuing behind me but there are actually two lines and next to me is another guy. As the elevator arrives he gets in first and then lets me in but immediately closes the door saying we can save energy traveling light.

I am working in the garden with my neighbour explaining how she thought her house was falling apart the last time I used the pneumatic hammer. As I help picking up the debris I made I find a basket full of earth. I then spread the earth on the ground but soon find a French shampoo inside.

I am in our Dutch house when my new boyfriend arrives with a fancy white car. I am not embarrassed of showing him to my girlfriend but as he comes in I realize he is very old and ugly. He actually keeps on a side filming us while my girlfriend and I seat on the kitchen table to have dinner.

I am in a dormitory sleeping when a drunk guy runs in and gets out in the terrace. I then keep my eyes open to see what he does next and I see him coming in with a panel and throwing it at me. Luckily it comes flat on my face and I realize it could have hurt me if it would have been turned.

I am at an opening listening to some gay artists. I actually stand silent and just take the photo of one of them and start playing with it. Hi black face is printed on a steel and I manage to twist the metal so that the face gets deformed. I then show it to him and he is very impressed and happy.

I am in a crowded square with my old friends and realize that everyone else is Muslim. They are actually celebrating a wedding and start playing music very loud. No one dances but I start to and I also stimulate my friends to do the same. The Muslim guys around us then also start to dance.

I am in the terrace of a friend looking out at the horizon. His balcony is full of pink roses and I wonder when the sun will start shining on them. It is late in the afternoon and at last the sun comes. My friend says it will last until evening but I understand he must have no sun in the winter.

I am inside an elevator with a guy and a girl. We reach our floor but the elevator goes a bit too high and the door doesn't open. I then make myself heavier and the guy manages to get out. I tell him to press the elevator down and he does so from the top but it starts going higher and cannot stop.

I am walking at night in a city with my son and he starts going much faster. I am sort of loosing him and decide to go even faster to catch up with him. I manage to reach him but then he goes so fast that I arrive at an intersection and have no idea whether he went left or right until he calls me.

I am in a pub with my old English colleague and our students. One of them starts laughing at the fact that our American director died but my colleague reproach him saying we ought to bring respect to those we carry culture. I then start sobbing and then cry really hard feeling not ashamed.

I am visiting a state memorial with a lot of other tourists. I really dislike it there but have no idea how I can make it back to the city. I actually read a big led sign promoting a bus company that can take me back but I also read I had to book the tickets before end. I anyway want to try to get in.

I am in the apartment of an old couple hosting me and a girl. The latter goes to sleep in the attic and I realize I have to do the same. I then go up a wooden ladder telling the couple how sturdy it is and then lay in the bed next to the girl when suddenly she grabs my hand and gets on top of me.

I am on a tourist boat with a group of Chinese and decide to go out to look at the horizon. We are actually leaving the coast and I wish to film it for the last time but by the time I get my camera out it is already too late and I can only see another boat. I start filming it but it also gets behind us.

I am walking up a staircase where two gay dancers are waiting for me to give them instructions. I then try to come up with some rules they could follow to start a new dance but one of them asks whether this time they can just disobey everything I tell them. I accept and they get very acrobatic.

I am on a beach with the daughter of my best friend. There are a lot of people laying to catch some sun and she starts jumping between their legs. They immediately close it and I actually to film this and ask to do it again with another row of people. She tries that but they are not so responsive.

I am walking to my installation that it is very early and get a phone call from my architect. He is sending two group of people to see it but they got lost. I have no idea where they are but I think they better walk back and find the road that brings them directly to the installation without detours.

I am checking a page from a web based encyclopedia to see what code I should use to put an image. I find only the title of an image in parenthesis and just copy it but then realize that there is a small command I can use to abbreviate the description of the image. I then copy the entire phrase.

I am walking with my son up the road to my native highland and meet a group of people looking at some art works. One of them is a wooden pole from which a small tree is growing. It is not so impressive and I show them my work to also a girl who used to go to school with me and never saw it.

I am in a baseball field standing by the third base next to a player. He is actually a journalist and introduces me to a player who is world famous. I then look at him digging around the pitcher base making an actual hill with the red sand and tell I also used to be a pitcher when I was a kid.

I am in a museum with another artist and talk to the curator who gives us very precise instructions on how to show our portfolio. We have to hold it with one hand and turn the pages at a set speed but always making sure that one is opened as if it was squared. I try that but it is too hard.

I am at a small conference with all the main leaders of the Dutch parliament. They are all eating a triangular sandwich but the smoked salmon inside is too hard and it all comes out. The prime minister is also there and shows how one has to keep the teeth pressed on the sandwich to cut it.

I am walking with my son through a field covered in snow. Ahead I see my former bosses and I walk to them thinking they will greet me but they are too engrossed in a conversation. I then cross a street where some kids are playing football but my son wakes up and a lady wants to greet him.

I am at a fair with some new cars and I see a green station wagon I really like. It is produced by different manufacturers and I talk to one representative but he tells me that I still have to return my old car and that I am only renting it from them. I try to remember where I parked it but cannot.

I am in my mountain village and leave my kids with a babysitter so that I can go cut some grass. She actually follows me but I don't mind and just keep walking on the side of the road. My youngest son also do the same but the grass is too high for him and I am afraid he might get some tics.

I am walking in an industrial district and come to a big depot. There is a guy standing outside and he invites me to go in with him and other people. The place is filled with tiny chickens and to walk we have to kick them away but some of them are parrots of different colours and some are dead.

I am in a parking lot waiting with some students for a bus. A very small one arrives and I immediately go in but then the students tell me I have to pay the ticket first. I go back out but don't want to go at the end of the line and just manage to put myself behind the first students and get back in.

I am driving with my girlfriend to the sculptural park of a rich man. We actually reach a place that remind me of a small park but once inside it turns out to be very big. There is even a house made of soda cans and I realize I know the artist who built it. I remember his face but not the name.

I am in a kitchen talking to a couple. The guy is actually without his t-shirt and I also go to a hallway to remove mine although I don't feel so fit as I did not train in a long time. After looking myself in the mirror I realize I am well shaped and can make it back to the kitchen to talk to the couple.

I am crossing a bridge of a big German city when I get a message on my phone. It shows a link of a video I made of some art students crossing the same bridge inside a truck. They are all with their asses out being very vulgar and they accuse me of having instigated them when I only filmed.

I am in a warehouse with the son of Neapolitan friend. He wants to build a box and I start drawing for him the pieces of metal sheet he needs. They are several small ones but he wants whole pieces and I warn him it could be too expensive. His brother is also there and they decide not to do it.

I am in a field with my family and check the field next to it. It is part of our property and I really would like to cut it but my kids are there. I anyway see that the grass is not too high but as I look more closely I see that some small trees are already growing and they might be too big to cut.

I am with my daughter in a park when a lady comes to ask her how she would describe a peafowl. I am sure she has it in mind but does not know how to describe it. I then come up with a good way to do say by saying it is similar to a turkey but with more colorful plumage and a fringe on top.

I am watching a movie about a couple looking for a place to make love on a beach. They find a big mattress and position themselves there but the lady realizes that on corner there is a lesbian couple. She actually peeps between their legs but one of them gets angry thinking she took a photo.

I am walking with some students outside a private school. It is actually very good and I also applied for it but then check the t-shirt of one guy where the school logo is printed and realize it is a different school. I anyway go in and listen to the guys talking about how computer power increased.

I am in a library and see my dead American director seating on a sofa talking to other people. I then approach them but as soon as he sees me he tells me to resume my task to photograph him. I take my camera out and tell him that I watched a movie where a guy did the same to his master.

I am with an Italian artist friend leaving a cafe that it is getting dark. As we walk through the empty terrace he shows me that he has reproduce all my drawings in a single paper. I am actually very impressed he did so out of memory but think he should not now use it for his own exhibitions.

I am with my girlfriend at a car dealer where we were supposed to buy an old car. We actually bought a newer one elsewhere but we just drive with it inside expecting the Arab owner to get upset about it. As we get out of the vehicle the owner comes saying I have a very good taste and I did well.

I am in one of my aunt's kitchen seating at the table. There is actually a wedding cake in front of me and I start to eat the chocolate on top. My aunt then warns me that it is the cake my father made when I was little for his and my mother's wedding and I am surprised it is still good to eat.

I am in my parents' place when my stepfather announces that my inheritance has gone to my stepister's husband. The later is a southern with no qualities and at first I just don't care about what he said and get ready to leave. On a second thought I throw a bowl down but it doesn't break.

I am getting in a car next to my girlfriend who is ready to drive when a mulatto guy starts threatening me. I then pull two iron bars out but they are too small and he starts chasing us. I then think my girlfriend will get caught immediately but she is very fast and at one point the guy just stops.

I am just outside the changing room of a gym and see an ugly girl walking out and buying ice-cream at the reception. I also get a small one and start eating it leaning against the wall. I am only wearing my underwear and the receptionist gets upset but I explain to her that I have no keys.

I am in a university campus looking for a Mexican friend and see her in a horse wagon with other students. I really need to talk to her about her exams and ask her when she will be back. I then talk to an older gay student about a gay pride but forget about my appointment with the Mexican.

I am crossing a big square when a Swedish artist friend toss me a icicle. My oldest son is also there and he also gets one. We then start sucking it and see that my artist friend is arranging people as if they were going to have an orgy but then brings in a female Russian camel to fuck them.

I am with my stepfather in a mall and he follows me inside a small shop of an Indian selling electronics. As I ask the latter for a tablet to test a game I am building my stepfather gets his wallet out to pay but the tablet has a device on top to read discs and the Indian tells us it is an hard drive.

I am in an airport waiting to board a plane with my girlfriend. A Mexican classmate is also there and she squeeze her big breast against me to check a map of the place where we are going. I feel very uncomfortable but anyway show her the capitol city and notice a huge pyramid complex on top.

I am in a gallery space where I am supposed to put the tags I have made for my museum in the mountains. As I look around in the empty space for some proper spot where to install them I realize that all the walls are different and with a different inclination but the windows are a good size.

I am at a party with a lot of other officers wearing their uniform. I am also wearing an identical uniform but then reach a group of them and tell them how much I dislike it. There is a small car next to me and I just rip the uniform and put it in there saying how my grandfather was a partisan.

I am walking over a small hill when I hear some young people speaking a language similar to mine. As I try to listen closely I realize that the first two are speaking another language but the two in front of them are speaking my language. I then hurry up to meet them but they won't talk to me.

I am in a cafe talking to two girls. One of them is actually an architect and I show her the project museum I have built. She is quite impressed and come closer to me even though I don't like her. I then stand up and just show her a wooden bridge over a valley and just say I also built that one.

I am walking with my oldest son out of an apartment into a large green areas facing other big condos. I then explain to him how when I divorced from his mother it was the same feeling of going out of the apartment not knowing I would never go back to it. He doesn't get it but I start crying.

I am on a bus with a very good friend. He is actually seating opposite to me when the driver start going around checking our tickets. My friend doesn't have it and just shows the driver a pass he has from another country. Even tells him that during the night breaks he will sleep at my place.

I am walking with my girlfriend in a poor neighborhood and pass by a small hairdresser. I then tell my girlfriend she should cut her hairs there but soon realize it is only for guys. My girlfriend goes in anyway and the Latino barber invites her to dance in a much bigger room he has in the back.

I am getting out of a station with my children when a bus driver tells us to get on his bus to go to the city center. We then follow him but he just gets on the bus and leaves. I then try to see if there is another bus on the other side of the road but then just decide to walk across a big bridge.

I am walking with a group of rebels and reach a crossroad. There is a stone sign there with some mysterious inscriptions. I ask the rebels to find me about it and they say it is a important site of the revolution. I ask for the name so that I can write it down but they are unable to spell it for me.

I am in a house and open the door of a bedroom but find three girls having sex. I then walk out of the house and just wait for them to finish but a young guy comes out saying he lost his virginity. I then understand he was in the middle of them and tell him to go back in but he is satisfied.

I am in my mountain village about to take a walk with my children. It is very foggy outside and our drunken neighbour tells me that the storm that was supposed to come the previous day is likely to come during the day. I then try to warn my children but they have already walked forward.

I am walking in a small town and take a narrow road leading to a giant square. There is a big celebration there with people wearing masks even though it is not carnival. I then approach two ladies and ask them to photograph them. One of them has a hat but she keeps her eyes in the shadow.

I am with my kids in a city and realize it is where my parents live and it is right when they take a walk outside. I really don't know where to go to avoid them and just decide to walk the main road. To do so we have to cross the terrace of a cafe but my daughter seats in one of the table to eat.

I am walking with an empty stroller in a suburb and take a small road. It ends in front of a condominium and one of the guys in the garden there tells me to leave. I then realize he thinks I am a gypsy. As I make it back to my car I am about to get in but my oldest son calls me and I stay out.

I am in a school where I have just enrolled as a student and think how I can make paintings out of my illustrations. As I reach the main laboratory I see the beautiful work of the other students. One of them has made a panel that looks like it is iron and the other as engraved on cardboard.

I am watching the magazines of a shop inside an airport. They are all too expensive and above them I see they are selling boxes of candies. I actually open one without paying and throw a candy up in the air. I manage to get it with my mouth and then look at the reaction of the shop owner.

I am in a mall when a famous Japanese model comes for a shooting. She starts walking with her little dog among the clothes for sale. I then start crawling and pretending like that a blue bag could be also her dog and she finds it very funny and wants to include my idea as part of the shooting.

I am in a kitchen placing dried tomatoes on an oven tray. A person is watching me and starts telling me how good I am doing all the work and taking care of two children. I then announce the fact that they are three since my girlfriend is once again pregnant but I also have a fourth older son.

I am in an abandoned house with my children and try to find a safe room where to spend the night. I then really make it in the inner part of the house and start to arrange the floor so that we can sleep but then realize that my children are running outside and it can be quite dangerous.