

I am in a square waiting for a lawyer who is suing the hunter who has been trying to block the building of my project museum. The latter is actually a smoker and the lawyer is making his case on the fact that our health is at risk but I also been making a lot of smoke welding the museum.

I am in a classroom of a university where I have just been employed. I am actually only the assistant of an old man and I introduce myself before going on a beach outside to fetch my drawings. They fell on the sand but I manage to pick them up and go back in to sharpen the blade of a sickle.

I am in a park talking with a microphone to a very big crowd of young people. I ask them who wants to keep a psychiatric clinic just outside the park and I realize that only a few want it. I ask them why but don't pay too much attention and then just say that it is not up to me to decide.

I am in a restaurant eating with my wife in front of me. I only have a piece of bread to finish and just eat it in small pieces. My wife then asks when I plan to finish but I get quite impatient and hit the table with my fists. She then comes with grapes and starts feeding them to me one by one.

I am in a park with my twin sister and she gets in a cave and starts undressing. I then notice she has many nipples of many dimensions like a xylophone and she wants me to suck them but there is a hippy in the cave and we go to the toilette of a cafe but there is no door and we can be seen.

I am in a villa and realize that my spiritual friend is in the loft looking at me. He is editing a video using my secret journals and he even finds some under a staircase. I then tell him not to use them as they contain sensitive information but he doesn't care and I have to get angry to stop him.

I am walking naked on a dirt road but reach a group of friends. One of them is on a donkey and is blocking the road. I then try to walk more to the right but also the donkey comes my way. I manage to go over a gate but the donkey too crosses it but then start grazing and no longer disturbs me.

I am reaching a mountain with many other people joining an environmentalist gathering on the top. There is an American girl who begs me to guide her. I agree and try to show her some bigger mountains in the horizon but there is some mist and the higher we get the more they disappear.

I am at a conference waiting in a cafeteria with other scientists. My paper was not accepted but one of them gives me a paper and I realize that it is about my work. She then shows me that the scientists have actually been marked out after they were discovered sniffing cocaine prior the event.

I am in a small train station waiting for a guy. He is supposed to be my new boyfriend and he comes with an heavy suitcase. It looks very suspicious and I don't dare to ask him what it is inside. I anyway ask him to help him carry it expecting to share the weight but he just gives it all to me.

I am on one side of a busy road at night with my wife meeting my dead friend's parents of on the opposite side. Their other son comes to me and start laughing about the way I react when a guy on a scooter drive by. I then join his parents and ask him where he will spend his summer vacation.

I am in my Italian artist friend's studio and interrupt his girlfriend to tell them about my project. He actually gets angry saying that I should have let her tell us about her project. I then leave with my bike and go back up my mountain apartment thinking we will never talk to each other again.

I am in a garden at night with a young blond girl. She actually gets inside a small restaurant and I follow her but there are other young blond girls and I cannot recognize her. I then seat by one to kiss her but her face is quite ugly and her old father immediately comes and tries to beat me up.

I am in a small apartment with my stepfather and one of his old friends. The later is very agreeable and makes his a lot of compliments but I know that my stepfather doesn't want to be his friend anymore. He then takes him to the living room and puts him against the window to tell him that.

I am in the house of an old Italian artist friend seating right in front of her. As she tries touching me with her legs I immediately stand up and decide to fix her roof. We lean out on the edge of it even though she is really fat and there is no gutter. We are both quite amazed it isn't breaking.

I am parking my car in a small restaurant on the hills. I want to spend some time inside to update my project but see that there is a group of business men getting inside. The one welcoming them at the door is my old Estonian boss and I go to greet him but I look like a bum he ignores me.

I am in a house with my spiritual friend's brother bragging about a girl who is willing to date him. He just wants a night stand but she wants a relationship and her friend also tries to hold my hand but I just walk down a special staircase leading directly down to the kitchen and out on a beach.

I am running in the countryside with the full moon and reach a small village. The houses make a lot of shadow and I get quite afraid to run in the dark. Ahead of me there is the moon light again and I can see an animal and I am afraid it is a guard dog but as I get closer I realize it is only cat.

I am starting to walk up a mountain and reach a group of girls who are already exhausted. They brought limited supplies with them and are desperate to eat something but have no idea if it is already lunch time. I then check the hour on my phone and tell them that they should definitively eat.

I am on a bus with some young people and one of them wants to follow me to the mountains to photograph my project museum. I am not sure I would lie that but then get a video message from my Norwegian friend. He is reproducing a piece of the museum and also wants to come to see it.

I am at a restaurant when my Polish friend also gets in with his girlfriend and a Greek friend. They seat in a small table opposite to mine and greet me. I then get curious of what they are up to and find an on-line video of a walk my friend took dragging a chain with a hook up the Baltic coast.

I am in a small conference room with an Italian guy and his girlfriend. I am supposed to collaborate with them on a project I don't find so interesting but then an older woman arrives and tells us of her idea to make products out of other artists' work. I really like this idea but not the couple.

I am on a beach when my parents arrive to tell me it is time to go home. I just don't listen to them and throw myself in the water. The sea is very agitated but there are still many people bathing. I then keep swimming and come to another beach where old people are competing dragging boats.

I am in an empty square observing my oldest son with an electric bike. He seems to be very incapable to use it and I kept telling him he has to change gears. I am almost giving up when he gets the concept and starts I to go very fast down a metro tunnel and comes us again only on one wheel.

I am at the airport with my youngest son and realize that they still haven't assign a seat for him on the plane we are about to board. I then skip the line in front of me and tell the steward to do so but he says that I can just stow him in the overhead locker and he can use it as some kind of bed.

I am walking with my little daughter in front of a hairdresser. An Arab guy working inside gives her an hair comb as a present and I realize it is only a trick so that he can cut her hairs. We then make it around the corner and hide at the end of the street with all the hairdressers casing us.

I am working for a man in his villa but have to wait for another guy he wants to hire. The latter doesn't come and I suggest the man to start anyway. He then tells me to get a beamer so that we can project a pattern on a wall and I can see him brushing the wall walking on it without a ladder.

I am helping out my daughter's teacher to arrange a workshop. The students have made small houses with their shoes and were supposed to build a city with them but did not manage to tie the together. I then tell the teacher I can do them and start tying them with a thin rope that breaks.

I am carrying an heavy gas can into a building. There are a lot of people inside and I am supposed to weld a broken staircase to get them out but the can is leaking and a lot of gas comes out. I then try to close it but there is still some leakage and I fear for the people inside who cannot get out.

I am seating in a kitchen with a man who has a company and wants me to design a logo for him. I then make him a quick sketch to show him how it can be done and he wants it but I am reluctant to give to him because he didn't mention about paying me. He also wants an animation with it.

I am with a group of politicians inspecting a dike I built with another guy. It can actually produce electricity but the politicians are very upset that we didn't ask their authorization. They then want to make it their own project and the other guy agrees but I am about to share my anarchist views.

I am on a beach with a short girl suddenly seating on top of me. Next to us is another couple and I realize that they are naked and about to have an intercourse. I then move away from them but as they start making love the girl on top keeps coming close until I have to stand up and walk away.

I am in a restaurant with my wife and her family. She is actually pregnant and has to mix her embryo with that of her cousin who is also pregnant. The latter is also in the restaurant and I look at her but see that she is smoking. I then get angry and tell my wife not to mix her embryo with hers.

I am in an apartment with the mother of my dead friend. I actually show her where she can sleep but she is very afraid of the war outside. The enemy is just on the other side of the street but I take her out to show her how all the missiles are destroyed. One actually hit a modern office building.

I am on a bus seating next to a girl. We are going down to the beach and should spend the night together but as we approach a village there I realize that all the hotels are very expensive. A black friend has an apartment we could use but it is full of guests and we wouldn't have any privacy.

I am standing on a street with my Dutch neighbours queuing in pairs. My wife is next to me and shows me how to twist our arms and legs together. The neighbours behind us are two old men and do it a different ways but we all start flying. I have no idea how to turn and we almost crash.

I am working on a playground when I see a guy on a wheelchair who needs to cross it. I actually have a timber on the ground and I lift it so that he can pass under. As he does so I let the timber fall but then an old woman also arrives and I just drag the timber where I want to install it.

I am at a conference when a former student of mine come to introduce me to an Asian couple. I then seat between them and they ask me about my project. I show them picture of my museum and then ask them where they are from. They actually live in a German town I have just crossed.

I am driving with my wife in a very big parking lot. We actually have to pick up an old window we bought second hand and drive across the parking to some trailers. As we try to find the one where the man who sold us the window lives we see an old student of my wife but he doesn't say hi.

I am outside a condominium talking to a neighbour who is picking up some garbage bins for recycling. There is already one for paper and I tell him to pick only one for plastic and glass but as he lives I realize that another neighbour has still a lot of cardboard to throw and he need an extra bin.

I am driving with my old Russian friend in a neighborhood and ask him if he watched the football game between his country and mine. He didn't but then I realize that my country has also played against the country where he is now living. He also wasn't interested enough to watch that one.

I am walking over a wooden bridge when I see my neighbour's sons below us. As I call them using funny names I turn my head again and see that they became small again. I then help them on the bridge But it is too high and their father shows me how they can walk down by themselves.

I am on a road looking at some people having a wild party inside a van. They are really loosing it and a drunk guy next to me takes a long branch with a lot of leaves and put it over them. They then leave and I realize the van was mine and they made it quite dirty but I can still easily clean it.

I am at a playground with my oldest son seating in front a very pretty Asian girl going on the swing. She actually stops to write him a message. My son takes it and I can see she wrote him that she cannot speak to strangers but that she loves the smell of the lavender but not the heat of the sun.

I am walking on a sidewalk looking for a place where my Dutch neighbours live. As I am entering one door I hear the sound of a drill and realize it cannot be the right place. I then walk back to the previous one and find that they have chairs outside even though they have chairs in the back.

I am in a neighborhood and find some music discs in the trash. As I look through then I see another guy walking with the trash across the street but he gets recognized by a younger guy who wants to beat him. They end up in a dead end and begin to fight even though they are both quite weak.

I am in my German artist friend's studio and realize he has no more works installed. I then suggest him to open at least part of it as a museum and he gets me on top of a shelf to get colours to start a new painting but there is also a woman with a younger artist who is working in that corner.

I am in a Korean office waiting for the people who works there to go out with me for an ice-cream. We are actually going to eat at a buffet in the evening and they prefer to stay in the office. I then just prepare to go out with the office owner even though I could go out by myself to explore around.

I am in a shop with my wife and tell her that I can buy some pants for her. She then chooses some shorts but I tell her to go for some longer ones. She actually picks some that matches some sneakers and I get angry remembering she already bought a lot of clothes and she is wasting money.

I am walking with my youngest son up a mountain. There is snow on the ground but it is very wet and I show him how nice and white is on the top. We finally reach it and see that there is the red van of some old friends parked above. I then think of asking them to give us a ride back down.

I am in the jungle and reach a village of black people. They are all seated in a circle and I walk in the middle to greet them using the local language. They actually have no idea what I am saying but there is also a white man among them and I ask him what is the correct way to greet the tribe.

I am at a party in an apartment and queue up for the buffet. A girl gets very close to me and then asks for my number. I then show it to her on my phone but she starts playing with the settings of video and manages to higher up the resolution. She then kisses me and wants to bring me home.

I am in the changing room of a swimming pool and realize that my shoes have been stolen. I then go to the lost and found and a guy shows me all the shoes they have there. I really like some orange basketball shoes and he tells me that they are my number but as I try them they are too small.

I am in a big square with a group of people fighting other groups. As I look at an attack from one group to another I realize that the way to win is to make peace and fight any usurper. I then tell everyone the solution of the game and we are gathered in a room but one guy starts assaulting me.

I am walking on a beach with an old friend and see that we can walk on a cliff. We need our shoes for it and run to the other side of the beach where we left our stuff with two girls. They are both laying asleep and I make a jump with a twist and then roll next to one but she keeps on sleeping.

I am in the car of an old French man driving while I seat in the back with my spiritual friend. The man actually turns to us without looking at the road and I warn him of a round about that is approaching. He then turns around to make it but then turns back to us to give my friend some bread.

I am next to a mountain river looking at the strong current. The water is also very clean and makes small waves with a white foam. I then realize that a man who owns a farm up the stream has just sent me an email explaining how he made the current using a dike. I then send him a photo.

I am seating in my van when a big guy seats on the roof with his girlfriend. I then get out and accuse him to have cracked my window even though it was already cracked. He actually seems a nice guy and I just let it be. As he leaves he attach a sticker on the van so that we know we are friends.

I am in a bedroom making love with my wife. We actually want to do it many times and she starts telling me of a way we can keep up but we hear the children in the other bedroom. They are awake and we just have to give up the idea. We then stand up and get dress before going to them.

I am walking on a street with a guy who is my brother. As he tell me of the time he met my dead friend who already look very sick we reach a cinema and he gives me a soda even though I am on sugar free diet. Inside it is very small but very crowded with people waiting to get in the theater.

I am walking with my family to an hostel where we should spend the night. The check-in is in the afternoon but anyway try to ask if we can drop our luggage off. There is only a girl working there and we wait for her to roll up a water cane before talking to her but she tells us to come back later.

I am in a museum with my oldest son and his mother. We keep searching through the floors but find nothing. We finally reach a room with a very low ceiling and find the work of Swedish artist who is exhibiting a series of small loops but they are just fragments of a Russian avant-garde movie.

I am in the Greek capital talking to a former colleague who has been offered to become the director of a graphic department. He actually offers me the position even though I have no idea what they teach. As we go to his university to sign the contract I start asking him about their software.

I am walking up a steep staircase with two plants and reach the door of an isolated villa on top of a hill. An American man opens up and I give him a plant and wait with the other plant in my hands to give it to his daughter. She is still in the bathroom and the man also tells me to wash myself.

I am in a Korean institution talking to a man who wants me to pay for observing an object. I really don't understand what he means and he just tells me to think of observing a pencil for one day. I then realize I can be very good in drawing conclusions from such kind of analytic observations.

I am with a friend getting into a station and realize that someone already bought a monthly ticket. I then use it to get inside and with the friend immediately reach our Dutch village. I am almost at home but suddenly the train turns to the left and brings us far away again to another station.

I am in a church seating with other people around a pope. The latter is making fun of us saying that in the holly book we have under our chairs we can only see a reflection of him. I am just impressed on how small he is and realize that all the church decorations are made to make him look big.

I am with my wife and a friend in an empty village. We are supposed to meet our agent there and get a phone message to go to a park but cannot find him. I actually need to fly back and my wife just travels away with our friend. I then realize they are having an affair but try to be cool about it.

I am driving in a German highway with my youngest son when a guy on a fancy car asks how to get to an island. I show him it is the other direction and he gets upset we did not stop to help him. We actually end up on a lake steaming with gasses and just bade inside before resuming our trip.

I am in a rented apartment with some friends when the owner comes in. He is not happy about the spots we left on the table cloth and shows us how to make a simple meal. He then takes sausages and makes a butter knife wet with sparkling water and starts using it from afar as a whip.

I am in a big dining room having dinner with some people. My German artist friend is actually seating on the table and I make fun of him that he has to travel on the other side of the world to meet his girlfriend. He then tells me that his brother has even three girlfriends and struggles more.

I am looking at a newspaper article and old university classmate just gave me. It is about a guy our age who go imprisoned by the Fascists in power. I am very curious to read it but as I unfolded I realize that my friend cut it in the shape of a long triangle and all the sentences are unreadable.

I am walking on a road and find the little shop my Neapolitan friend goes to buy his fruit. I then also go inside an order some apples but realize they are the pink artificial kind. I then only ask for few and then order dates but the Arab man at the cashier gives me some sort of small kiwis.

I am in a small apartment with an old friend of my who has cancer. I then expect her to be quite sick but she seems very outgoing and shows me all the paintings she has been making. They all depict a pumpkin and I personally find them rather childish but tell her that they look nice.

I am going through the security check of an airport and realize that some old family friends are also flying with me to a South American city. There is actually no space to seat next to them and I go around looking for chair where to eat my salad. I find a spot on a high table but I lost my salad.

I am in an abandoned house trying to put back up the rotten beams. There are only pieces of it but I anyway try to put them against the walls to prevent them from falling. My Dutch neighbour is also there and tells me that planet earth has only two out of seven chances left to regenerate.

I am walking in a mall and see a beautiful woman sticking out of the crowd. She actually taller and more elegant than everyone else and I look at her as she keeps on checking for clothes. Suddenly she bumps into a very handsome tall man and they too start walking together arm in arm.

I am standing next to a building with a girl. Suddenly another couple arrives with air guns and we start running down the building with them shooting at us. I keep moving and manage not to get shot. As I get to the end I try to make it to the bushes and slowly walk back to shoot them.

I am at my German artist friend's villa choosing some milk for him. There is actually the fridge of a supermarket installed in his kitchen and I have to select the right package to put in his fridge. I then see a lot of the milks are not made of cow milk and some have flavors but only one is normal.

I am walking in an Italian city with a family complaining about the heat. I then realize there is nothing to complain about since we are soon inside a giant gallery with a lot of shade. We then walk inside and I even show them an ice-cream place but it is at the end of the gallery back in the sun.

I am waiting at a station for my wife and her friend to arrive by train. I actually realize I am not in the central station but in a smaller station after it. I then try to write her the name of it but another train arrives and I cannot see it. As the train passes it is too late to alert my wife.

I am walking in a German village and have to reach my friend's villa. I am actually going downhill and I remember that we took a shortcut to the right. I then also try to take it but it is way too steep and as I climb down I realize that the terrain is very unstable and I can slip down anytime.

I am on top of a mountain looking at an old ski teacher going up hill with a stretcher. He looks very clumsy and when he is on the other side of the mountain he decides to ski on gravel. He does so but immediately falls down and I wonder how he can be a ski teacher with so little skills.

I am sleeping in a very old hotel room sharing the bed with two other guys. As it is time to wake up I feel that the ceiling has fallen down on us. The other guys are not impressed and just stand up and get ready to check out. I then follow them and realize we are dressed like Mexican gangsters.

I am walking through a market looking for some new t-shirts. My wife is behind with our kids and I walk in front to see if there is anything I like but there is only a pink t-shirt with a faded logo. As I walk further I find a stand with very high music and rainbow underwear but only white t-shirts.

I am in my old Swedish office working and check the closet behind me. There is very little left of all the equipment the institute had when I started. In one of the boxes I actually find a book belonging to my ex wife but realize it is all to be thrown in the garbage and there is no serious equipment.

I am in a park talking on the phone to an old artist friend. She is trying to persuade me to sleep at her place but she doesn't know I am married. I actually find her going on a swing. My wife is helping our son going down the slide and I just go to play with them and ignore my old artist friend.

I am in a room wit my Polish friend laying on the floor. He is paralyzed and can only move his mouth to speak and admits that he took up my position in my former university. He is even teaching art now and I admit that I am a bit jealous about it but at the same time glad for his career.

I am in a classroom with a guy putting up a tent under which to present my thesis. I then invite my opponent to seat inside it but there are also other students who wants to listen. I make them seat around the tent and then fetch water for my opponent but one student stands up to protest.

I am in a hostel with other guys looking at a very handsome but very stupid Norwegian guy inside a sauna. We actually start making strange noises pretending it is him but then everyone runs away and I am the only one left behind. The guy comes out of the sauna as nothing has happened.

I am in a campsite with my brothers-in-law and go to the bathroom together to brush our teeth. We all go to a different corner and all use an electric toothbrush of different kinds. I then remember to ask the youngest how he spent the night and we start talking despite the noisy toothbrushes.

I am walking down a small road and reach a playground where I find my niece playing. I then want to greet her but hear her mother talking on the phone to a lawyer about me. I then leave but she follows me and she calls for the first time our father to convince me to see each other again.

I am in a big headquarter and follow a journalist to is office. He has a very fancy computer with many screens and shows me how he can connect his phone to it and update the system. He even has a screen with a special map of a building and I realize it is the headquarter itself where we are.

I am queuing with my oldest son in a large square where bulls are getting their horns cut. My son actually wants to get horns attached and as we wait I see that my Dutch neighbour is also there. I actually find his sunglasses and think of breaking them a bit before putting them next to him.

I am on top of a castle with my German friend and realize that he owns it. As we discuss about the love affair he has with a Chinese millionaire I realize that the castle is falling apart. We then walk around and I see that there are a few shops in front of the castle and they should pay the rent.

I am on a train at night and prepare to get out. I actually don't know what time it is and I ask a lady seating with her two daughters. It is still too early to get out and she just start to talk to me even though her daughters are just next to her. They are watching a film and they don't care.

I am with my wife on the small road of a Moroccan village and realize that it is a dead end. As we start walking back a local man starts to chase us and we get in a building and manage to activate the old elevator just on time. We then start going down and just don't stop to get other people in.

I am in a studio with some young and famous filmmakers. They come close to where I am seating and pick some postcards of the movies of a dead filmmaker and begin to sign them. I actually keep a signed one for myself but on of the filmmakers tells me that I have to ask permission for it.

I am in a museum looking for a place where to install a lifeboat. I would like it to be visible but there are already two artworks at the entrance and all the other spaces are closed and inaccessible rooms. I then ask a guy working there if they have an outdoor place and he offers to take me there.

I am in an apartment with my wife waiting to take her and our children for a walk. She actually tells me that she needs to take them for swim classes and I realize I have wasted so much time waiting for them. I then just drive out by myself but immediately get stuck on a road full of traffic.