

I am sitting on a bus next to a woman reading an article about anarchism. As I lean to much against her to read it she actually shows it to me. I then tell her that I am an anarchist but then notice that the article is derogatory of the term. She then feels intimidated and also admits to be one.

I am in a hotel in the mountains and look down into the square in front of it where there is a second hand market. I just sent down a girl to buy a few things for me but she did not get a tennis racket. I already have a good one in my closet but we need a second one if we want to play together.

I am in a palace attending a royal ceremony with my partner and realize that I am only wearing my sweatpants. I then try to make them look more fancy by pulling my socks over them but then see that the queen is entering the palace and all her followers are also wearing casual clothes.

I am sitting on a table of a restaurant with my daughter. She actually wants a piece of fabric from under the tablecloth and I use my knife to cut a piece. As I am almost done the waitress arrive with a lot of meat and I realize that the fabric I was cutting was actually the grill where to cook it.

I am with my Dutch boss and another baker walking on a path near the sea. We actually stumble upon a group of jokers and I take a little black one and start running with him. My boss and the baker come after me and tell me that I was lucky not to pick the two evil jokers who were there.

I am in the mountains with the local carpenter helping me to remove the engine of my van. We need to clean it but he has no idea how to get it out. I then see my old neighbour managing to pull an iron cable through the exhaustion and getting a lot of dirt out of it without having to lift the engine.

I am walking up a cliff with my children but it is too steep. I have a shuffle with me and starts using it to carve steps. My daughter manages to walk on them and make it to the top but for my youngest son they are too high. As I push him up I see that there were other steps we could have used.

I am in my native highland and realize that my grandmother might still be alive. I then walk to her house but find that it is now inhabited by the dead father of my stepfather. He is back from heaven and brought me the suit of a saint. It looks new but I try it on and see that it is just a jacket.

I am getting in a bus with my partner but the controller starts inspecting her bag to see if she has anything she could use to sleep. I then understand it is not allowed and just get back in the station to fetch a book I forgot there. As I return I walk through the bus but cannot find my partner.

I am on a hill watching an indigenous couple bathing naked in a lake below me. She actually loses some liquid and they understand that she is pregnant. They then use a cup to drink from the very water. Other people then gather around me to see how they are initiating the engagement ritual.

I am in a shop buying a new engine for my tractor. I have no idea on how to replace it with the old one and the man at the cashier starts writing me the phone number of a mechanic but I get a message from my insurance company that I have to immediately pay a fine I got from the police.

I am kept hostage in a small basement when my kidnappers come down. One of them wants to make love to me and I am terribly disgusted. He is actually not aggressive and even wants to be submissive but I tell him in the end that at the most he can suck my dick and expect nothing more.

I am up in the mountains with my neighbour's wife holding me like a baby. Her husband also arrives and they ask me if we want some old things from them. I think the mean old clothes and I agree but they start to give me a lot of old wood that I am sure it is still quite good for the fire.

I am driving with my partner through a neighborhood and come to an open field. It is still covered in snow and I decide that we should stop there to let the children play but we suddenly realize that they are not with us. We must have forgotten them somewhere but can't really remember.

I am in a small classroom with an English lady talking about the another English lady who wrote against the English state. I am very inspired and keep on writing more as part of my essay. When the lecture is finished I approach her to ask if the same can be applied to the European union.

I am walking through a mall and reach a big escalator going down. At the bottom I see the mother of one of my children's classmates. She is actually a cleaner and as I go down I try to greet her but she is obviously embarrassed and just manages to move with her cart to another section.

I am on top of a hill checking some colorful sculptures at the beginning of an old town. I want to photograph them but my camera is installed on my penis and I have to get it out. I try to do so but a couple passes by. I just pretend to pee behind one of the sculptures to photograph the others.

I am in a big room listening to my old Swedish colleagues performing in a choir. I then have the idea of taking portrait photos of them moving from left to right. As I reach the end an English colleague enters transported inside a big shell. He is supposed to be queer but he dresses normally.

I am on top on the walls of a castle chasing a criminal. There is actually another guy coming to help me from the opposite side and the criminal has now no way to go. He then jumps down the wall and I am sure he died hitting the ground below but I see him standing up again and running.

I am with a woman checking in with our cards in a station. She got the wrong ticket and bought a very expensive one that last a whole month and I feel sorry for her. As we reach our platform we start waiting with a lot of refugees but then suddenly our train is announced on another platform.

I am in a restaurant where everyone can take food to cook. I actually brought some spaghetti and give them to the chief inside a paper bag. Inside he finds some of the bread from my work and he gets all his assistants to try it. I then tell them it is already too old but they just don't listen to me.

I am walking along the field to the arboretum of our local village. I then envision a large flag I can print with the colors of the new artistic movement I am inventing. I am not sure which color goes first but then decide for the right order and also decide to go back to the first name I thought of.

I am in a living room with my mother and suddenly open up with her and tell her that I know she gave a free apartment to my sisters. She then tells me she did not do the same with me because I live faraway but I reply that a lot of other people live far and they all have their mothers visiting.

I am in a fast food waiting to order a sandwich but there is a restless guy behind me. I move just on time and he jump on another costumer and starts a fight. Other costumers get involved but I keep at the desk along other Asian workers just looking at the scene until the police intervenes

I am sitting in a terrace at night and see a thief escaping from above me. He has a special gear that enables him to roll down a metal string he has stretched or building and another that is right in front. The people of our building woke up and try to catch him but he is too fast and disappears.

I am in my parents' old house drawing but realize I have to go to work. I then search for a clock in the kitchen but there are many of them and all with a different hour. I then grab my bike and hurry out but my neighbour is also on his way to work and he reassures me it is still quite early.

I am in a modern restaurant and go out to meet my oldest son. He has been answering my phone calls lately and I ask him what is the problem with him. I then notice he has a lot of pimples I should squeeze. No one is looking and I just get him against the wall so as to have enough pressure.

I am in a classroom attending a lecture of a professor. He is writing several numbers on a board and asks the correlation between them. There is absolutely but he insists that the audience ought to come up with a solution. He even rewrite the numbers on a big monitor that can get damaged.

I am in a field throwing balls of clay as far as possible. A guy next to me is actually playing bowls in the opposite direction and I decide to join him. My first shot is very bad but then I hit the jack and it get very close to my first ball. Te guy then tries to hit my ball several times but fails.

I am driving in a highway but decide to take a smaller road. I actually find one and as start driving on it I notice a car on the side of the street with the driver's door open and the lights on. He is actually inside sleeping and on the radio I hear that he was out partying and then just felt tired.

I am in a forest with my partner and see a dog following us. We then get into a cave and find that there is actually a door to lock the dog out. We even find that there is a bed and my partner starts to undress to make love but I soon realize that if animals cannot access the room humans can.

I am in a cabin where an American scientist has its office and realize that it was built in the middle of a lake. I actually want to get back and start to swim across it but then realize that there are many killer whales underneath me. I then hurry as much as possible and make it to the beach.

I am walking in a jungle and come to a big opening where many backpackers are practicing martial art with indigenous people. There is also a cafe adjacent and realize that it is an authentic village and the women are there to host foreign travelers but there is none of them in that section.

I am hiking on a path above a valley and start to look for possible places where I could work on my art project without being bothered. I don't see much and suddenly I realize that there is quite a precipice. I try not to panic but the paths is suddenly covered in ice and I have to make it back.

I am in a small house next to a little village. It is supposed to be for visitors and I plan to take a shower but then notice some socks on the floor. I start to think that someone is still using the place and as I get in the bathroom I even find some underwear and a bra. I then decide to leave at once.

I am sitting on a bench next to a lake near a Canadian city. I try to do some work but two black geese come to pull my scarf off. As they run away with it I realize that I have ever seen that species before. Also my kids are playing by the water and there are two special dolphins approaching.

I am walking through my native village with several foreign girls on each of my side. I actually see my old friends on their bikes and I hope they don't see me but they do and I also have to go bike with them. I then follow my step-cousin and realize that his bike is actually a stroller for his kids.

I am climbing the benches of a stadium feeling very elegant. I then decide to sit in the vip section behind a rich couple but the football game begins and I cannot see anything. I move in the poor people section with my Greek friend and his family and realize our two countries are playing.

I am driving in the countryside to my old work after having informed my colleagues that some Polish people have harassed me. It is a lie and I feel embarrassed to confront them but as I get there I only find my partner with our children and notice that they are drinking a whole crate of water.

I am walking down a path with my youngest son biking in front. He is actually going to fast but at first I do not mind but then see that there the road below is covered in ice. I then tell him to stop but he does not listen and I have to hurry up to see how he went but he is safe with my sister.

I am in a supermarket with my best friend and we both get some chocolate. As I go to the cashier to pay for it I see him sneaking out without paying. I do pay but as I go out the lady at the cashier run to us. She is desperate about giving me a blowjob but she must have some mental issues.

I am with my youngest son in front of a big pile of dirt. As we walk around it we ind that on of her classmates brothers is inside playing. He is very fat but somehow has managed to dig an elaborate tunnel in the dirt and I allow my son to go play with him while I wait on the opposite side.

I am in a field with other works and start singing an anarchist songs. Immediately a guard sitting in a boot reproaches me. He cannot identify me and I just sneak behind the boot and take his glasses off. I think I have won but soon after more guards are sent to fetch me and put me to death.

I am in a big room where I am supposed to facilitate a workshop but there is only one couple showing up. As I explain them what to do more people arrive and some of them wants me to introduce myself. As even more people arrive I try to start over but they all begin walking out to protest.

I am watching a movie about a boy leaving in a villa where is kept under surveillance b a group of soldiers. They are very sweet taking him for rides with a little pony but then one day a commander drives and sees it. He then gets to the villa and shows the soldiers how to hit the kid with a stick.

I am with my youngest son in a school and go to a class where a teacher is looking after my students. I thank her for that and tell her that I have to go to another class but she tells me that she has already done overtime and I have to replace her. I decide to give the student a lot of recess time.

I am walking down a green field and realize that I can actually ski over it. It is very fun and I try to show it to the people around me but suddenly there is a very steep slope. I try not to panic and do large curves as if I was actually skiing. It works and I see other people doing the same.

I am in the garden of our Dutch house standing on a high ladder painting some plastic balls. I use the same blue colour I have been using to paint my children's bedroom but then realize it is only for indoor. As I try to think what do my uncle suddenly climbs the other side of the ladder.

I am with my youngest son vacating an apartment in the back of a shop. One of the clerks working there comes out of it saying that there is something very smelly. I then realize I have left my bedpan there and as I go back in to fetch I find the new people who is going to rent the apartment.

I am in a car with my partner and her father. As he makes it on top of a hill to park I get angry with him saying he shouldn't have been judgmental about my project. I then lock myself up in an attic to work on it but he comes up with some visitors and one of them is very interested in my work.

I am walking on the other side of the river next to our Dutch village. My children are with me and we realize that it is getting smaller and smaller. Also the vegetation around it turns into a forest but at last we manage to get out on a street with a lot of dogs. They are all behind a fence but one.

I am at a small concert eating some of the bread an Asian girl have baked. I have my own I brought from the bakery I work for and realize that the baker is also there. He is introducing my work to a couple who offers to provide me with the space to build my ark and I show them a piece.

I am with my oldest son going up the stairs of a station. We finally end up on the road of a village and I remember there are some nice shops there. I want to buy him a present before he leaves for his military service and we get inside one but only find souvenirs and nothing of what I remember.

I am in an apartment with my spiritual friend and listen to him talking on the phone to one of his band's members. The latter is also a singer like my friend and announces him that he is no longer welcome in the band. My friend argues that he was the founder but they found a better singer.

I am walking with my family down to a little village. My partner wants to go back up but I want to show the kids a waterfall. We then cross a big square and reach a river going underneath it. It is supposed to jump down the mountains but it is completely flat and really not interesting to see.

I am in a room with a Dutch musician friend and we start colouring a cardboard together. We end up making little flowers but then he pulls out another cardboard he has painted with a beautiful polar landscape. He already drew a brown bear and I want to paint a white but I am not as good.

I am in the house of an Austrian girl with some friends and walk down to garden. There is grass but it is possible to ski on it and I start make large curves as if I was wearing skies. I find myself very good but the girl is behind me and asks if I need any help. She wants to give me her skies.

I am laying in bed when an Italian friend and her husband come laying next to me. The latter fells asleep but she keeps awake. I suddenly realize she might want me to kiss her and immediately stand up but then see that her eyes are also closing. I also want to sleep but there is no more space.

I am driving with my dead grandmother to the studio of an American filmmaker but realize that the telephone is now taking us to a cafe. We then stop at a gas station to put the right address but a vagrant asks my grandmother for money. She gives he a coin but the keeps on staring at me.

I am walking on some hills and find them covered in snow. I then call my best friend to tell him that we should meet for a walk. He wants to know where I am and I explain that I am now crossing a town and reaching a train station. There are too many people there and I realize it is carnival.

I am getting in an airplane with my children and realize that there normal chairs inside. My step-cousin also arrives with another old friend who was at a tennis tournament. We then turn all the chairs to chat but I soon have to help my partner to shower our daughter in the large toilette.

I am walking on a street that it is very early and the shops are all closed. A guy working for the shop where I have to give dress to mend is doing a delivery and I give it to him but then find that the shop is opened and they have enlarged the shoes I bought from them. They look a bit weird.

I am in a museum that is about to close and go to the exit but find that there is still a performance going on. There is a guy singing and laying on the ground is my old Polish friend playing the guitar. I pet him on the shoulder to see if he responds to me but his face is completely still.

I am at a party in the corridor of a condominium talking to people but realize that it got very later and there are no more busses to take me home. A guy then says that his cousin can host us in his little apartment and I try to go there before other people so that I can at least sleep on the couch.

I am walking with a group of people to a theater and one of them proposes that I give a presentation of my work. He needs to call his sister-in-law who is the organizer and I realize she is the mother of one of my children's classmates. I already talked to her once but nothing came out of it.

I am in a square trying to put two screws on an old piece of wood I need to build my ark with. As I use a screwdriver to do so the tip of the wood cracks and I realize I should have drilled a hole to begin with. I then pack all my tools but a girl approaches me and wish to know what I am up to.

I am walking on a street with a lot of stuff my partner bought second hand. As I put it down to take a break two old ladies come to buy things for me. I then pretend to also be selling second hand stuff but one of the ladies actually select a pierce and I know it was my partner's favorite item.

I am getting in a small bus with my youngest son and find that there are Italian students inside. I then joke with them saying that their teacher is the driver and my son the waiter who is going to serve them drinks. They then tell me how they also come from the mountains but they have rivers.

I am with my sister in the house of a lady renting rooms. She tells us that she can give us a discount but my sister says that it is too cheap. I then explain that is it not since we will have to commute a long way to reach our universities but then my sister doesn't want to rent there anymore.

I am in a school sleeping in one of the classrooms and suddenly wake up. As I look out of the window I can see it is snowing but I have no idea where I am I then go out to shake some crunches off m underwear but some students see me and starts to bully me. I don't care and get back inside.

I am on a street and meet my old Estonian director. He is presenting a new invention he made on a big screen just outside his house. I don't find it interesting at first but then I see that as he draws on the screen the color changes and in the end he is able to accurately recreate the globe.

I am in our Dutch house with my children and see that I have a missed phone call. I call back and realize it is my spiritual friend but as I turn around I find him standing right next to me. He has issues with his passport and he is unable to leave the county but I tell him he can stay with us.

I am letting a friend drive our van but as we are about to park it I realize that the mirror on my side is missing. I then try to think how it happen but in the meantime I see that m friend is parking in a very tight spot. There is a van on his side but he is able to just fit in without any scratch.

I am in a park drawing and see that a girl is standing on her head right behind me. She wants to teach how to do it to other people but everyone is not interested. She asks me and I tell her we can do it another day but she gets very curious about my drawings and I explain them to her.

I am driving with a Colombian guy to a castle. We are close to it but I cannot see it and he helps me reach a village with a lot of Chinese restaurants. I drive straight across it but the castle was at the beginning of the village and I have to back up. The brakes don't work but I manage to turn.

I am bringing a kid to school and get him ready to stay in the courtyard with his classmates. Before I leave I put him on a costume with the helmet of a viper. It is robotic and can move but his teachers disapproves. I cannot do anything about as his classmates start throwing stones at him.

I am in a very narrow road and meet the Swedish husband of one of my partner's friends There is actually a rave party about to start and he thinks I am also there to join it. I then pretend I am and when the music is turned on begin to dance as if I was a puppet but then decide to leave.

I am in a store selling films and find one that I really liked. It was recommended to me by the father of one of my children's classmates and he is also there. I then show him the film and he shows me another one by the same author. I buy that one even though it is about smoking cannabis.

I am in our Dutch house and get a phone call by my mother. She is really upset that I am against Christians and I try to explain to her that I am not against people practicing Christianity but about those who rely to the church. She gets furious and it is impossible for me to speak further.

I am playing a video-game with a female character at the end of a cathedral watching a male character walking across it. Behind the altar is another female character and the other female character encourages her to marry the male character. This way I will be able to marry the first character.

I am in a forest waiting to ambush a group of people walking down a path. As they do so I start shooting a them tiny bullets. I then run down to the path and keep on shooting even if there are also deer coming my way. Someone is hiding under a blanket and I shoot but it is my partner.

I am in a classroom and realize that we should have dressed like priests. Everyone has brought a black mantel to put in the front to pretend they are one but I have nothing. I then walk to the hallway and there find a lot of black hats but I am not sure I can just take them without first asking.

I am walking in a hotel and cannot find my room. I finally come to a wall where there is my room number written on it but it also says I need a special visa to get in. I do it anyway and find that there is already a girl in my room. I really want to sleep but she wants me to help her with her bra.

I am in the hall of a building and arranging a ballet with a couple. We have been told to do it based on a song about the week days and I realize that we can make it correspond to the steps of a staircase in front of us. As we try it out I realize that there are more steps than the days in a week.

I am watching television with my parents and turn it off but an old movie begins. It is about a black cop reaching a parking lot where a gang just exploded a bomb. The cars are destroyed but the building is next to it is still functioning as a striptease club with a blond girl showing her giant tits.

I am walking back on a path so that I can try to walk back through the forest. I actually find a smaller path that goes up to it and sit on a fountain with a group of students who have just walked down. They push me out and I just start walking but they insult me and I toss cheese against them.

I am in a classroom attending a seminar and find a nice rock. As I put it in my mouth I am told to speak but even if I remove the rock from my mouth it feels like I still have it. Finally I can start talking about how the audience should not be happy because the environmental crisis is imminent.

I am walking with my family in my native village and ask an Indian lady where to eat a good pizza. She tells me of a place I already know but then warned me that it is still closed. I then think of bringing the children to church but we might e too late for the mass and it would be their first time.

I am driving with my Dutch baker friend through the valley where he comes from. He then tells me that his father owns some acres there and he even built a swimming pool. As we go up a hill to the left I asks when he was there the last time but he tells me that almost two decades went by.

I am going up an escalator with another guy and end up in a shop. As we look for a staircase to go higher up the Japanese shop assistant tells us that there is a better shop for us guys a floor higher. She even takes us there but we wish to go even higher and just pretend to be a bit interested.

I am driving through the German countryside and see a nice palace. I want to stop there but then see that there are already some tourists. As I keep driving the road actually goes inside the castle and I have to be careful about not hitting a white marble column with road making a sharp turn.

I am in a nightclub with my sister looking very old and devastated. She actually go for a drink and leaves me with her friend who is much more beautiful. I don't even bother about her and start dancing with other people dressing weird masks but she comes very close to me and gives me a kiss.

I am in a garden when my daughter and her friends run to me to tell me that they want to go play by the river. They all now how to swim and I agree but as she runs behind them she falls on the cement. Her knees gets all scratched and I feel very sorry she did not fall a bit further on the grass.

I am working inside my ark and realize that a young couple is approaching. It is very messy inside but I either way tell them to come in. They are actually old family friends and I am surprised they did not aged and she is even pregnant. We had an appointment and I completely forgot about it.

I am in the library of a small village and a local man asks me if I have ever thought of exhibiting there. He asks me if I can come up with an installation based on a business card. He shows a family walking in the sand and I think of a sculpture of them with a giant clip to hold them together.

I am tidying up a workshop and want to throw a trash bag but realize that there are two giant ants inside. More ants are walking to the bag and I start stepping on them. I also ask my daughter to help me but she is chasing a chicken with the body of a rabbit and she doesn't want to kill it.

I am in a crowded bakery waiting for my turn and find some expired cookies. I then wonder if they can give them to me for free but the bread gets sold out and the people at the counter decide to close. I then look at them eating some yogurt while talking to each other not bothering about me.

I am sitting in the back of a bus with a very thin girl. We are actually dating and I wonder how I could have possibly went for her. She doesn't even have any bubs and her hairs are short like that of a boy but she is really warm. I then decide to just keep her as a friend and avoid any kisses.

I am with my parents checking a map of a Scandinavian city we are about to explore. We have already been there together and I wish to show them the island on the north of the city where we started our touring. As I am searching for it I remind my mother that it is the place where I vomited.

I am in a house with my partner and she tells me about how hot one of her colleagues is. I then get quite jealous but then we start kissing and end up in bed together. As we are about to make love our daughter enters the room and I just lie to her saying we are playing to make a new baby.