

10148: "people met while in venice like a crazy neighbour playing the guitar and singing very loud also giving me some guitar lessons and folk met down the very south of lido beach but also getting to know better the hasselblad foundation curator and her girlfriend whom we hosted for over a week and also getting to know an estonian girl renting for some days our room"

08122: "a lyrebird fable inspired by a small documentary and focusing exclusively on the bird feature to imitate sounds to at first set up a revenge against the human exploiters but then involving the whole of the universal creatures including the god themselves"

07201: "simple painting executed now dedicating more time in my study with myrthe at home due to the coronavirus outbreak and preparing the base of the painting using six primary crayons i got from little livia to determine the surfaces after drawing them and prior painting them"

12195: "finding it almost impossible to find actual data of casualties in the main newspapers all talking about the coronavirus outbreak in similar terms but all attempting to subscribe now that millions are in quarantine and wait constantly for news and having to find more reliable sources to update the constant shift in number of deaths per country as well as searching non virus related casualties and virus related casualties more related to northern italy"

16147: "experiencing at last some decent weather here in holland after a gray and windy and rainy end of the winter with at last some early spring days taking advantage to be often outside with the kids particularly by the river to avoid the crowd gathered in our town after proximity restrictions have been applied to avoid the spread of the coronavirus"

05147: "taking several walks always in the netherlands with now a better weather and also my kids seating both in the double strollers crossing utrecht a few times with them and mostly otherwise walking in culemborg and only taking a long walk alone in rotterdam waiting for a meeting at the art academy there exploring the west of the city finding an abandoned railway to walk on but then getting back to culemborg and having to keep it there with a lockdown of the city given the coronavirus outbreak and at this point keeping up my walks with the kids mostly in natural areas avoiding busy places"

17112: "some time spent in the netherlands observing clouds there like during a walk in rotterdam and later traveling across sweden by plane checking clouds outside before flying across the united states also annotating clouds above the rocky mountains before landing in san francisco"

12196: "recording many casualties from all over the world with the coronavirus outbreak killing thousands in most nations and with deaths growing exponentially and the epicenter moving from asia to europe and from europe now slowly to north america but not yet hitting so much the other hemisphere"

18143: "a month with far less wind than the month before and some days of stillness enjoying going out with the kids but also still some days of not so intense but constant wind quite cold especially in the end"

07202: "painting executed during the coronavirus outbreak now with myrthe left home from work and myself spending more time in the attic painting despite the little light and this time also venturing with dynamic shapes cutting left to right and almost upward the square panel keeping intact the colour palette but with recovering the red dot at the epicenter"

12197: "still very high number of casualties due to the coronavirus outbreak with its epicenter now in southern europe recording the many casualties appearing daily in the news and only a few other non virus related casualties always waiting for the evening announcement to study the trend of the pandemic"

12198: "conducting a more in depth and thorough recording of the coronavirus casualties not only in europe but around the world noticing a surge outside the epicenter with cases in south america but also india and australia"

09127: "still recording consistently my thoughts but not having the right occasion to fully think through them with my kids to take care of during my walks and the big stroller to push and also many other people around in town with the coronavirus outbreak forcing them home with their kids and also thinking about this outbreak and the obsessive attachment of the most christian bourgeoisies to their old lives"

13200: "still with august and the kids exploring both culemborg and utrecht but also going to the den bosch carnival and later to amsterdam before limiting any visit to any city due to the coronavirus outbreak also in the netherlands and making at last for the last time out of culemborg for a meeting in rotterdam and walking quite extensively there to at last self-confine ourselves to our small town waiting for the pandemic to stop and only filming public places there"

15133: "a last visit to utrecht with the kids experiencing some traffic there before getting locked up in our small town with the coronavirus outbreak restrictions and experiencing very little traffic keeping mostly by the river but also inhaling some pollution making it to the hardware store to buy material to keep on prototyping the numerical tags of my project"

03134: "listening to quite some radio driving back at night from hamburg and also later making it with livia to rotterdam singing songs and visiting pyotr and his kids with all his music toys and then also listening more songs with the approach of christmas as well as keeping up singing songs both to livia and little silvester"