

RELAYING Despite being reluctant to social support, the documenting subject has configured a small network of close people he can relay upon and vice versa. These people are intimate to him and he does not hesitate to invest on them in a mutual relationship of understanding and respect. At times the small network is reconfigured especially when a friend close by gets too arrogant because of his social status.

INCORRECT While social communication seems to be hindered from its spontaneity for the compromising political correctness, the documenting subject, little concerned with his social status is open to incorrectness and freely express his opinion, yet in a meditative and evolving fashion, in an open process of thinking displayed in his essay writings.

SENSING The documenting subject recovers is human senses numbed by the automated surrounding, right by automating himself, becoming himself the sensor and recovering human emotion and empathy.

LITERATE The documenting subject experiments out of the narrow frame of communication based on writing exclusively and move on elaborating other forms of conceiving himself through other media he daily seconds and masters.

ARMED Like a cowboy the documenting subject wears his belt with equipment which he uses to more or less directly shoot on society, by having ideas to make an ironic statement of it, photograph certain disturbing instances etc.

NASTY As the social environment keeps disilluding the documenting subject, he keeps on going back to his project, amplifying it and in a way on one hand pointing out the disease and on the other trying to heal it with uncritical compositions, with an overdose insight on the nature of being human, starting and starring himself.

BEHAVIORAL The various instances of the project establish a patterns of daily behaviours the documenting subject has to follow in order to augment himself from this very project.

INTENSIVE Fully laid out the project becomes a very intensive execution of various procedures in which the documenting subject can be engaged with according to the circumstances.